DR. ROSSINI DENIES THAT THE POPE HAS CANCER

Pontiff's Condition Is Practically Unchanged Although There Are Indications That the Gradual Sinking Continues---Rest Much Needed.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Rome, July 18.—Deprived of rest, the pope spent the day which has just ended with a serious depression. The doctors reported a feeble but rapid pulse which was generally taken to indicate the wearing out of the patient's forces. The favorable symptom recorded in the morning of the lowering of the pleuratic liquid was sufficiently maintained to relieve the pontiff of his painful struggles for breath which lately have been so frequent. The doctors fear that the gradual sinking is due to general conditions rather than the necessity for another operation which seemed so imminent on Thursday. The sleepless night was succeeded by a day during which the pope seemed to lack any desire to vary the medical routine by receiving visits from cardinals. All day he remained quiet except for visits from doctors and attendants. The nourishment which the pontiff took at first somewhat encouraged his entourage, but the condition of the patient this evening pointed to the fact that it had not any beneficial effect. What is now hoped for is that the pope may be enabled to secure much-needed rest.

Drs. Lapponi, Mazzoni and Rossini, upon being asked by a representative of the Associated Press if it were true as reported that the pope has cancer of the pleura and that mortification had set in, all made specific denials of the rumor. Dr. Rossini answered the query with the following laconic but emphatic written statement:

"Any such news is absolutely false.
"Prof. Eugenie Rossini."

Drs. Mazzoni and Lapponi say the allegation is so absurd that it does not merit a signed denial except from the source from which it is alleged to have emanated. However, Dr. Mazzoni authorizes this statement:

"The nature of the pope's illness appears in the signed bulletins and in my statement to the Associated Press representative made July 15."

Secretary Hay Has Satisfied Himself That the British Government Has No Shadow of Claim.

Prompt and Conclusive Answer Will Be Given When Lord Lansdowne's Inquiry Reaches Washington---The Islands In Question Are Regarded as of Much Strategic Importance.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Washington, July 18.—No communication has yet reached the state department from the British government about several islands off the coast of Borneo, now in possession of the United States, which some members of the house of commons seem to think belong to Great Britain. The state department, however, is prepared to give a prompt and conclusive answer when Lord Landsdowne's inquiry reaches here. Before leaving Washington yesterday, Secretary Hay looked personally into the matter and satisfied himself that the British government had not the shadow of a claim on the islands in question.

It is explained that the islands have strategical importance, and for this reason the United States under no circumstances would part with them.

EXCEPTIONALLY SEVERE STORM NEAR TRINIDAD

One Hundred Families Forced to Flee for Their Lives and One House Was Washed Away---Hail Covered the Ground to Depth of Six Inches.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Trinidad, Colo., July 18.—A violent hailstorm of a half hour's duration, followed by a cloudburst, one mile south of Trinidad, caused thousands of dollars damage and caused nearly 100 families in this section to flee for their lives shortly after 4 o'clock this afternoon. The hail was the most violent ever seen in this section and covered the ground to a depth of six inches.

The cloudburst was first felt west of Simpson's Rest, where it flooded a large arroyo so quickly that the occupants of 100 houses along the banks barely had time to run for their lives. One house, occupied by a man named Gray, was washed away a moment after Mr. Gray had rescued his wife, who was lying ill in bed. The Santa Fe depot was inundated to a depth of two feet and the basements of many of the business houses were flooded. The Commercial river rose three feet in half an hour and many culverts and small bridges were washed out. Part of the Denver & Rio Grande bridge east of Elmoro was washed out, causing the trains on that road to use the Santa Fe tracks. The water soon subsided but left driftwood piled so high about the Santa Fe depot that 'busses were unable to reach it with passengers. It is thought that the tracks and wreckage will be cleared by noon tomorrow.

HAIL AT VINELAND.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Pueblo, July 18.—A special to the Chieftain from Vineland, six miles east of this city, says:

One of the heaviest hailstorms ever experienced in the county visited Vineland between 4 and 5 o'clock this afternoon, accompanied by a high wind. The hail stones were as large as walnuts and the ground was covered with hail to a depth of three inches. The alfalfa crop was beaten into the ground and the trees were stripped of their fruit. The windows in the north side of the houses were broken as though struck with stones. The area of the storm was only about three miles but the damage done in the territory covered is unprecedented.

CUBAN [illegible] PERMANENT PLATT TREATY

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Havana, July 18.—The congress this evening adjourned sine die. One of the final acts of the senate was the ratification of the postal treaty with the United States and an act providing for the adherence of the republic to the universal postal union. The permanent Platt treaty was not acted on. A report recognizing its unreserved ratification had been prepared but was not completed in time to be considered.

In the house the agreement to adjourn this evening was not reached until this afternoon and no quorum was present at the night session. Several important bills have gone over to the next session which will open next November. Among these are the electoral law under which elections of half the members of the house will be held in December.

The government's expense budget was not acted upon by either body but ample executive authority is provided for all expenditures. What is considered the most important legislation enacted during the session is that covering the proposed loan of $35,000,000 and the process of auditing and paying claims of the revolutionary soldiers.

IMPORTANT MEETING OF TRANSMISSISSIPPI CONGRESS

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Houston, Texas, July 18.—"The coming session of the Transmississippi Commercial congress at Seattle," said President John H. Kirby today, "will be one of the most important it has ever held and it is anticipated that the attendance will be the largest in its history.

"More will be accomplished than has ever been attempted in the past. The making available of the wonderfully fertile, yet productive, sections of the western states has become a national need, as has the conserving of the waters to prevent the great floods. The extension of the forest system in the treeless sections will also receive attention and action will be taken regarding it and a number of other matters of the greatest importance to the west, mentioned in the call. This is the first time the congress has gone so far into the northwest, but I believe the selection of Seattle will be of great advantage to the organization. Trade and commerce must be brought to realize the resources of the west and the national government brought face to face with problems confronting the population beyond the Mississippi river."

EPWORTH LEAGUERS [illegible]

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Detroit, July 18.—Ten thousand Epworth leaguers gathered on the Campus Martius this afternoon in a short open air song service that was the feature of the sixth international convention of the league and one of the most unique episodes in the history of the league's conventions. The great crowd of leaguers filled the square in front of the city hall and stretched up and down Woodward avenue for several hundred yards. Between songs they gave three cheers for the United States, for King Edward and for the league.

Tonight's three meetings were devoted to addresses. The attendance at the meetings was not so great by many hundreds as at the preceding meetings, perhaps because of the admission fee that was charged to help cover the expense of the convention. Henry Lloyd of New York, speaking on "The Church and the Industrial Masses," made a strong plea for municipal ownership, for co-operation in business, for direct vote of the people and for old age pensions.

Despite the leaden skies which greeted them today, after a night of hard rain, more than 1,000 enthusiastic Epworth Leaguers were present at the morning meeting in the Central Methodist Episcopal church, which began at 6:30 o'clock. Dr. Joseph F. Berry, the general secretary of the league, led the meeting. Between the early meeting and the three conferences that began at 9 o'clock, the sky cleared somewhat and gave a little promise of more of the fine weather that has been a feature of the convention. The leaguers this forenoon gathered by churches for conference. The Methodist Episcopal church met in the Auditorium Epworth, with Bishop Joyce as chairman of the conference; the Methodist church, South, in the Central Methodist Episcopal church with Bishop Hoss presiding, and the Methodist church of Canada, in the De... opera house, with Rev. A. C. Crews as chairman. This afternoon there were no general meetings and several of the state delegations seized the opportunity to hold rallies.

"This is the greatest convention we have ever had," said Dr. Joseph F. Berry today. "The attendance of delegates last night was, it was stated at headquarters, 22,500, and it is expected that the number will pass 25,000 today."

COATES VICE PRESIDENT OF AMERICAN LABOR UNION

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Butte, Mont., July 18.—The canvassing board of the American Labor union today practically completed the work of counting the vote cast for officers of the association June 20. The result shows the election of Dan McDonald, Butte, as president; David C. Coates, Denver, vice president, and Clarence Smith, Butte, secretary-treasurer. F. W. Ott of Laramie, Wyoming, and M. E. White of Leadville, Colo., are elected members of the executive committee.

DEATH OF AN EMINENT ELECTRICAL ENGINEER

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Pasadena, Calif., July 18.—Luther Stieringer, one of the most eminent electrical engineers of the world, died here today of consumption aged 58 years. He came here from New York last December. Stieringer, next to Edison, his friend and associate, was responsible for the invention of more electrical appliances than any other man. He had charge of the electric lighting of the Panamerican exposition.

PREPARATIONS FOR VISIT OF KING EDWARD TO IRELAND

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

London, July 18.—The preparations for the approaching visit of King Edward to Ireland are completed and there is every indication that an enthusiastic reception will be accorded his majesty. In official circles the hope is entertained that good political and social results will follow the royal visit. The Irish cities generally have agreed to present addresses of welcome to the king. The conservative press of the United Kingdom declares that the action of the Dublin corporation in refusing to present his majesty with an address in no wise represents the general sentiment of the city where the decorations are unusually elaborate and the preparations extensive while "rebel Cork" has not only agreed upon an address, but like most of the cities included in the itinerary is preparing a welcome for the sovereign on a generous scale.

The king and queen will leave Buckingham palace at 1:24 o'clock Monday afternoon and preparations have been made in London to give their majesties an enthusiastic godspeed. One of the popular features of the stay of the king and queen in Dublin will be the greeting of their majesties by children of the city in Phoenix park.

The most extraordinary precautions have been taken to safeguard King Edward throughout his visit.

POSTMASTER VAN COTT IS HELD RESPONSIBLE

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Washington, July 18.—The comptroller of the treasury has completed the examination of the accounts of Postmaster Van Cott of New York city for the quarter ended December 31, 1902, which he took up as the result of the postoffice investigation, and has allowed all the accounts except an item of $410 paid to H. C. Graff for alleged services as cashier of the New York postoffice at the rate of $1,800 a year. Graff was intimately associated with George H. Beavers, now under indictment by the federal grand jury at Brooklyn. The comptroller holds that Graff was not employed as cashier at New York and was not on duty in that city but was inspector in charge of inspecting and adjusting cancelling machines and motors at postoffices throughout the country. The comptroller says the law distinctly prohibits the detail of employes from any branch of the postal service outside of Washington to duty here and the payment therefore is illegal. Postmaster Van Cott contends that he was acting under the direction of a superior officer and had no control over Mr. Graff's appointment, which was made from Washington, but the comptroller says these facts do not relieve the disbursing officers from responsibility.

MORE LIGHT ON CONTRACT FOR CASH REGISTERS

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Washington, July 18.—It developed today that the total number of machines supplied to the postoffice department by the Brandt-Dent Automatic Cashier company of Waterloo, Ia., was 57. The inspectors have evidence of this, although the present action of the grand jury in Brooklyn in indicting George W. Beavers is based on the contract under which 26 of the machines were supplied. The information in the possession of the government is that of the amount paid for each machine the contracting company received $50, while $100 went for commissions, of which amount the agent of the company received $50. The cash registers were sold openly in the market throughout the country for $125, while the government paid $150 each. There was a slight change in the construction of the machine sold in the open market and those sold to the government, but the inspectors say this change was trivial and the cost insignificant. The supply of the machines dates back to the latter part of 1897, when the first machines were furnished the department for a trial. The contract for the 26 machines at $150 each was entered into May 9, 1898.

Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow, who is directing the investigation here, received no word from New York as to the prospects of the arrest of Beavers.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA AUDITOR'S OFFICE SHORT

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Washington, July 18.—The special report of the treasury experts on their examination of the affairs of Auditor Petty of the District of Columbia fixes the shortage in that office, for which James M. Watson, a clerk, is now in jail, at $73,397.

The experts criticise the system by which the money was handled and say that for a period of more than four years Watson's work was not revised, checked up or otherwise proved or tested by any other employe of the office or by the auditor.

PASIG RIVER AT MANILA IS PROBABLY INFECTED

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Washington, July 18.—A report from Manila to the marine hospital service says that the majority of cholera cases continue to occur on vessels lying in the shallow side of the Pasig river. The report says that this indicates that the river must be infected, especially near the banks where the water is sluggish. The native crews bathe here and sometimes use this water for drinking and for washing vessels. No white people have been affected, the cholera being found only among Filipinos, the only persons who come in contact with the suspected water.

Two inter-island ships have been reported as having had cholera leaving this port but these reports say the islands are so generally infected throughout that it is scarcely justifiable at this time to resort to an outgoing quarantine which means a hardship to the business of the islands, more especially since its value is problematical.

FOREST RANGER IS ARRESTED

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Cheyenne, Wyo., July 18.—The indignation of ranchmen over the extension of forest reserves in this state and the action of Superintendent Anderson and his deputies, has culminated in the arrest of Forest Ranger E. J. Hunter, charged with maliciously killing cattle belonging to John Cherry and which are alleged to have been ranging within the reserves. Hunter has been given a preliminary hearing and bound over to the district court in Uinta county, in which the slaughter occurred.

GROVER CLEVELAND'S SON

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Buzzards Bay, Mass., July 18.—A son was born to ex-President and Mrs. Grover Cleveland at their summer home here today. The attendants say that all conditions affecting both mother and child are satisfactory.

FIRE IN LOWELL

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Lowell, Mass., July 18.—Fire tonight at the Merrimac print works here caused a loss of $200,000 and for a time threatened the whole plant.

TWO KILLED, MANY INJURED IN EXPLOSION IN VIRGINIA

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Roanoke, Va., July 18.—By the explosion of a large quantity of dynamite and blasting powder stored in a magazine near Parishburg, Gile county, this afternoon, two men were killed outright, 16 were more or less injured and about 100 others severely shocked. West bound passenger train No. 1 on the main line of the Norfolk & Western was going at full speed past the magazine which was located 200 yards from the tracks when the explosion occurred. The windows of the train were broken and the coaches were otherwise damaged. Not a single person on the train escaped injury or shock.

The dead:

JAMES PHILLIPS, white, Blair, Va.
GEORGE NEWELL, colored, Ellison, Va.

The injured—R. H. Roup, Christiansburg, Va.; Ira Wilson, Radford, Va.; J. W. Grover, Bluefields; S. H. Gregor, Tazewell, Va.; O. C. Jenkins, general manager, Bluefield Coal & Coke company, Bluefields, W. Va.; J. C. Jones, Radford; M. W. McCalsey, Roanoke, Va.; Sherman Hunt, Shellville, Va.; George Witt, Keystone, W. Va.; W. B. Calhoun, Bel Spring, Va.; E. H. Baird, Hinton, Va.; F. E. Dupuy, Hinton, Va.; Burnett Reid, Bluefields, W. Va.; G. F. Carnes, Radford, Vt.; W. L. Blackwell, Shiltville, Va.

Phillips and Noel were laborers. Their mangled bodies were found near the wrecked magazine. A special train was sent to the scene and took the wounded to Bluefields where they were placed in a hospital. It is not known what caused the explosion.

LYNCHING THREATENS NEGRO MURDERER IN MINNESOTA

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Montevideo, Minn., July 18.—Helen Olson, aged 25 years, the daughter of Thomas Olson, was assaulted early today by a man supposed to be a negro, and although alive at noon, she will die.

Helen Olson, who was living alone in her father's home, at Watson, during the latter's absence in Minneapolis, where he is ill, had Miss Julia Torgensen with her last night. Early today the girls were awakened by a man who demanded their valuables. The man dragged Miss Olson down stairs where he struck her on the forehead with an ax. Miss Torgensen had been ordered to remain in bed and not move, but on hearing a noise down stairs stepped out of a window to the roof. The intruder fired a shot at her as he fled. Her screams aroused the neighborhood and a search was at once began for the murderer.

At 10 o'clock Marshal Woodworth rang the bells of the town calling a posse of citizens together. When a crowd had assembled Attorney Lyndon A. Smith addressed the citizens from the steps of the city hall. While he was speaking, Sheriff Hartley drove up in a buggy and immediately summoned every man present as a deputy, saying that he held every man present responsible for the negro.

The crowd immediately took up the trail and if caught, in view of the great excitement, there may be a lynching. Six negroes who have been living in a shack near Montevideo have fled because of the excitement.

The negro was finally brought to bay near Milan. He made a desperate resistance and was shot and badly wounded. He was removed to Milan and will be brought to Montevideo at midnight. An excited crowd is awaiting his arrival and it is believed he will be lynched.

SPANISH CABINET CRISIS OVER THE NAVY QUESTION

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Madrid, July 18.—After a long discussion on the navy vote in the council this afternoon all the members of the cabinet tendered their resignations to Prime Minister Silvela, who laid them before the king. His majesty thereupon requested Senor Silvela to form a new cabinet but the premier declined and the Marquis Villaverde, formerly minister of finance, was summoned to the palace.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

London, July 18.—A Central News dispatch from Madrid says the ministerial crisis is the result of differences of opinion regarding the reconstruction of the Spanish navy, raising its strength to approximately as it was prior to the war with the United States.

REVOLUTION IN HAYTI.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Kingston, Jamaica, July 18.—The warship Falke called here today for orders. She will proceed to Port au Prince, Hayti, tomorrow, owing to the gravity of the situation there.

A dispatch from Port au Prince, July 13, announced that the conflict there between President Nord and the chambers continued and had resulted in the proclamation of a state of siege and the calling out of the National Guard.

STORM IN WISCONSIN DID LARGE DAMAGE

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Milwaukee, July 18.—Reports of damage from yesterday's storm are coming in from the southern part of the state and are to the effect that crops were battered down flat. In many instances it will be impossible to harvest the grain crops and the only recourse left to the farmers will be to turn their livestock into the fields for pasture.

The storm was particularly severe on Lake Michigan. Thousands of dollars' damage was wrought to the government pier which protects Milwaukee harbor. It is said that great piles were uprooted and tossed about like feathers. Contractor McClellan says that massive stones weighing as much as 13 tons were displaced and tossed across the breakwater as though they weighed but a few pounds.

Shade trees were uprooted in many sections of Milwaukee and hundreds of cellars were flooded because of the inadequacy of the sewers to carry off the flood. Two inches of rain fell in Milwaukee. Madison reports 3.45 inches. Janesville and Chippewa Falls report severe storms and minor railroad washouts.

WINTER MANEUVERS.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

London, July 18.—Before leaving Portsmouth, the United States squadron, which sailed for Lisbon yesterday was instructed to prepare to participate in the winter maneuvers in the Caribbean sea. After leaving Lisbon Admiral Cotton expects to go north for six weeks' target practice in the Baltic sea.

JEWISH FUGITIVES FROM KISHENEV MUST RETURN

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

St. Petersburg, July 18.—The police commissary of the Kishenev district has transmitted to the police commissioners in his jurisdiction the following circular:

"As a result of the disturbances at Kishenev, April 19 and 20, and in consequence, also, of the alarming reports in circulation and the possibility of fresh disorders, many Jewish families have left Kishenev and settled in villages of the district contrary to the law of May, 1882. Consequently, with a view to avoiding the very disagreeable results to which this might lead, I herewith instruct commissioners to take vigorous measures for the expulsion of such Jews from localities where they have no right to live. I think it my duty to add that if commissioners fail to carry out these instructions I will deem myself obliged to inform the government thereof."

PANIC ON AN EXCURSION STEAMER IN PHILADELPHIA

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Philadelphia, July 18.—A storm of unusual severity visited this section today. The wind attained a velocity of 44 miles an hour and the local precipitation in 12 hours was one and one-half inches.

Navigation on the Delaware river below this city was difficult and dangerous and a panic occurred on the excursion steamer Thomas Clyde. The boat which carried nearly 1,000 people attempted to land, but was prevented by the high wind and rough waters. One of the side wheels caught up a floating log and the noise of the log revolving around the paddle box frightened the excursionists. They rushed to one side and the steamer listed so badly that her main deck was awash. Scores of women fainted and the greatest excitement prevailed. Boats were lowered by the crew and were quickly filled with the panic-stricken excursionists. Relieved of its burden, the boat righted itself. The passengers finally were brought safely to shore. All of the small streams in the Schuylkill valley are greatly swollen.

P. M. ARTHUR'S FUNERAL.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Cleveland, O., July 18.—The funeral services over the remains of the late Chief P. M. Arthur of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, who died suddenly in Winnipeg, Thursday, will be held at the family residence in this city Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The remains will arrive in Cleveland Sunday evening.

Assistant Grand Chief A. B. Youngson of the brotherhood, who has been lying very ill in a hospital at Meadville, Pa., was reported to be slightly better today.

ARTHUR'S SUCCESSOR ILL.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Meadville, Pa., July 18.—A. B. Youngson, assistant grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, who succeeds the late P. M. Arthur as grand chief of the organization, is seriously ill in the Meadville city hospital.

THE MAYOR'S DUTY.

LAST WEEK the district attorney, in support of his application for a continuance in the trial of the chief of police and chief of detectives, filed in the district court an affidavit of remarkable import.

He set forth the story that has been published heretofore, but it is now a formal document filed in court and neither of the defendants nor anyone else has ever denied its substantial accuracy.

It charges that in the summer of 1902 a young man was robbed by confidence men on a train approaching this city. THE YOUNG MAN MADE COMPLAINT TO THE CHIEF OF DETECTIVES, WHO LATER GAVE HIM $25 OF THE $150 HE HAD LOST AND TOLD HIM TO LEAVE THE CITY.

Later the young man concluded that if he could get a part of the money he lost, he might possibly get it all.

He made complaint to the attorneys of the railroad. Further investigation followed. Conditions became warm. The same chief of detectives then offered to return to the railroad's attorneys the remaining $125 on condition that no prosecution follow. The attorneys refused to accept it on any condition. Then the money was returned. If this story is not true, why does not someone deny it? It is vouched for by as reputable men as there are in this state.

But to prove it all in court it is necessary to have the young man who was robbed present. THIS YOUNG MAN HAS RECENTLY BEEN ON A VISIT TO IRELAND.

One who has been active on behalf of the indicted officials recently stated that the boy was still in Ireland, though the district attorney has reason to believe his presence at the trial may be secured.

If it is not, the officials may escape conviction in court but they are convicted already at the bar of public opinion.

THE CHIEF OF DETECTIVES WHO RETURNED THE STOLEN MONEY IS THE PRESENT CHIEF OF DETECTIVES BY APPOINTMENT OF MAYOR HARRIS, WHO SAYS THE GAZETTE IS TRYING TO MAKE POLITICAL CAPITAL OUT OF THE INCIDENT.

The Gazette has repeatedly stated that it sought no political gain in its efforts to rid the people of such a precious lot of public guardians, but the present disgraceful condition if allowed to continue will develop a political aspect to explain which the mayor will never be able.

He stands now on this question in a solitude where no word of sympathy reaches him and calmly views from the pure atmosphere of absolute political virtue the degradation of his fellows who are insisting that public officials shall be honest.

THE CHAUTAUQUA—A WORTHY INSTITUTION.

THE GARDEN of the Gods Chautauqua assembly and summer school has prepared for this year an elaborate and interesting program. It is certainly not surpassed in Colorado, and by few organizations of like character in the country. The summer school is already at work and will be open for one month, from July 15 to August 15. It has large classes, a fine and diversified course of study, and an able corps of instructors. Especial attention is being paid, and we think wisely so, to the botanic and geologic features of the region. Colorado, the great scenic state, the great mineral state should lay especial emphasis upon the study and exploration of canon and cliff and mountain. These wonders of nature are interesting to scientist and student and tourist.

The assembly course this year is remarkable for the ability and notability of its talent, including as it does such persons of eminence as Governor LaFollette, Dr. B. B. Tyler, Hon. Champ Clark, J. DeWitt Miller, Dr. Thomas Green, Captain Hooson, Miss Clara Morris and many musicians and entertainers of ability. The assembly opens August 6 and will continue for two weeks. It will be one of the exceptional attractions of the year in the Pike's Peak region. It is to be hoped that the Chautauqua management will be generally supported in its efforts to create in the Pike's Peak region a high-class educational institution. This year's program indicates that the school is in every way worthy of the generous patronage of citizens and visitors alike.

DENVER AND NAPOLEON.

THE WORLD'S FAIR BOARD of Colorado is having, in addition to its other troubles, some difficulty over the sculpture which shall adorn the building. There is quite an amount of home talent which demands that the work be done in Colorado either by a local sculptor or "sculptoress."

Various allegorical figures and groups have been suggested. One of these, we note, is a heroic bust figure of General Denver for one side of the door and of Napoleon for the other. Denver and Napoleon—an odd combination to be sure.

Napoleon was undoubtedly all right in his line, but it is quite certain that the "Little Corporal" couldn't tell $1,000 ore from a hole in the ground.

A LEGISLATIVE GRAND JURY.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY LINDSLEY is alleged to be the authority for the statement that the grand jury is to be called in Denver to investigate, among other things, the acts of the members of the recent general assembly in regard to the eight-hour law. Various reports have been current that members of the assembly were influenced by a money consideration in making up their minds on the measure, or, as it afterwards proved, in refusing to make up their minds. The legislative antics in regard to this measure were peculiar, to say the least.

However, it is not at all likely that any definite result will come of the grand jury's work, even if the assembly should be investigated. When any legislator has been guilty of bribe-taking it is exceedingly difficult to secure evidence to that effect. Secrets of that sort are well kept for obvious reasons, and unless there should be a few conscience-stricken members who would turn state's evidence, as in the Missouri cases, the jury will adjourn no wiser than when it began.

The Colorado delegation at the Epworth league convention which is now being held in Detroit is making a strenuous and commendable effort to secure the convention of 1905 for Denver. They are using some very attractive advertising devices, typical of the Centennial state, and describing the delights of peak, pass and plain. The convention this year is said to have an attendance of 20,000, which is not surprising in view of the size and progressiveness of this young Methodist organization. If the convention is secured it will no doubt prove as beneficial to this state as the Christian Endeavor gathering which has just closed.

An odd case is in the courts from La Junta, involving the right of citizens to drill artesian wells and use water from them. The city water supply comes from the Arkansas river, but the citizens didn't like the taste of it and began to drill their own wells. The city, however, demands that they pay for water privileges just the same. A case like this seems very clear to the average person, but one can never tell what the courts will do.

A good many visitors who have come to Colorado this year for the first time are making the discovery that there is "nothing in Switzerland that surpasses the grandeur of the Rockies." Coloradoans have known this for years, but they are always glad when someone else finds it out.

A brand new comet has been discovered near the Northern Cross. The astronomers say that it "has two tails and is brilliant in tone." A celestial visitor with all these frills will be well worth seeing.

COMMENDABLE DILIGENCE.

IN TWO murder cases which have recently occurred in this city, the accused men have been given speedy and impartial trials. They have been surrounded by all the safeguards which the law provides and have been dealt with justly and by due legal processes.

They have both been found guilty, but whether the verdict was "guilty" or "innocent," the satisfactory and gratifying thing for all lovers of law and order is that justice has been done, and speedily. There has been no undue delay in bringing the accused to trial.

If people everywhere could be assured that the courts and officials would always move as promptly as they have in this instance, we should have fewer lynchings and vastly more respect for the law among the citizens of the land.

Professor Whitney's representative says it is all a mistake that he proposes to shoot a cannon ball, to which a coil of wire has been attached, up into the heavens from Pike's Peak. His scheme is to project his "ladder" into the skies, and, at an auspicious moment, a coil of wire will be unrolled back to earth. This is a sort of distinction without a difference, but it sounds tremendously interesting.

One of the Denver papers has an item to the effect that "Doctor , a prominent physician, has returned from abroad where he has been studying with famous surgeons in London and Berlin," and so forth. This must be ethical advertising, because it is so much neater than double-column display in black type.

The Russian minister of war took occasion to remark at the laying of a cathedral cornerstone that Port Arthur was absolutely invincible and could be taken by no enemy. From which we gather that General Kuropatkin is a rather militant Christian after all.

The Christian Endeavorers who encountered a snowstorm on Pike's Peak in the middle of July had an experience that is not unusual. Every person making the journey should be provided with a wrap, for it is likely to prove comfortable on any day.

Denver is to have a variety of new features in its charter. These will include the initiative and referendum, the recall, and other reform measures. For some time the reformers have been doing their best to try them "on the dog," and Denver is to be the dog.

If Mr. Schwab is in Colorado, he has finally hit upon the best place in the country in which to take a rest. Moreover, there are hundreds of pleasant nooks in the state into which the ubiquitous newspaper man has never entered.

Practically the entire cabinet is absent from Washington at various summer retreats. In the present condition of the telegraph wires, however, the "government at Washington" still lives.

The Irish land bill is about ready to pass the house of commons. No serious difficulty is expected in the house of lords since Edward has indicated his approval of the measure.

The Denver police have decided that all street-corner orators shall be banished. Under the circumstances there is nothing left for the hot-air fiends but to take to the woods.

The new Stogie trust, which is going to increase the output by 75,000,000 a year will have a good deal to answer for.

And now the doctors are disagreeing as to whether or not Pope Leo will recover. Unfortunate patient!

AS TO THE GAZETTE.

The influence and strength of the Colorado Springs Gazette seems to be still in the ascendency. It is one of the best edited papers in the west, and the people of this state appreciate it. The Gazette is a very independent paper and seems to give all the news without fear or favor. —(Pueblo Opinion.

DRIVE OUT THE BUNCO MEN.

For years past a gang of notorious and well-known bunco men have preyed upon the tourists of the Pike's Peak region. At the present time police officers of a neighboring city are under indictment charged with complicity in some of these robberies, and doubtless the courts will decide as to whether these charges are warranted by the facts. At any rate it seems obvious that if the police had done their duty in protecting visitors and residents, these human wolves would not have continued to prey upon their victims.

The truth of this is made the more evident by the arrest in Pueblo county of two of the alleged leaders of the Colorado City gang while engaged in the act of plundering a traveler by means of a common confidence game.

The Pueblo officers deserve great credit for their action in this matter, and it is to be hoped that if this arrest does not result in breaking up the gang, it will at least cause its members to confine their operations to the county that is already foully disgraced by their continued presence.—(Pueblo Chieftain.

OPEN PARLIAMENT.

Open Shelves for the Library.

To the Editor of the Gazette:

It is very much to be hoped that in the arrangements for the new Carnegie library, plans will be made to continue the use of open shelves for the books which has been in vogue in the free reading room and in the Coburn library and has proved so convenient and satisfactory.

Not all persons who go to libraries are such students as to know beforehand exactly what books they want, and even the best read among us can tell better what we want when we see before us all the works in a certain line, and have the opportunity to take them ourselves from the shelves and make over so hasty a survey of the pages.

It may be that the books will wear out faster if the people are allowed to handle them in this way, but is it, after all, the books that are to be considered, or the good of the readers?

Familiarity with books comes in part from seeing and handling them; it comes very little from seeing their names in catalogues or on cards shut up in drawers. I come into the library, as do a dozen others within the hour, for a book, I know not what. There are the shelves—I walk along and see many books with which I am familiar, some of which I have read, but suddenly my eye is caught by one I have heard of, seen advertised perhaps, and there's another better still, one I have wanted to read for some time, but had forgotten about, so I make my choice and go away happy. Not a very systematic way of reading, to be sure, but it is the way of nine-tenths of the readers, and the closed shelf would mean in many cases the closed book as well.

TALK AND CONVERSATION

Is conversation a lost art with the modern world, and are the newspapers mainly chargeable with its disappearance? The versatile and often paradoxical devotee of letters, Mr. Andrew Lang, seems to think so; for he says some very hard things in an article recently published in one of the magazines on the essential frivolity of mind of those who pretend that they are too busy to take up a good book. People of this sort, Mr. Lang asserts, frequently read nothing else but the newspapers; and it is from the newspapers that they draw their ordinary staple of talk. The "newspaper habit" dominates them; it is a specific disease; and the symptoms of it throw an unpleasant color over the social aspect of their lives. Even middle-aged men of leisure, who are civilized enough to enjoy the amenities of club-existence, are victims to its uncanny insidiousness. They will pass their mornings, from breakfast to luncheon, in steadily working through every column and paragraph of the morning papers. Then they go to their club and read all the evening papers until they fall asleep. At dinner they repeat to each other what they have read—such is their idea of conversation! Is there good natured malice in that remark, or well bred contempt, or a veiled suggestion of those secret arts which insure the success of all such talk as is intended to interest the chance swimmer in its circle? Perhaps there are all these together. From the days of Aspasia down, and earlier, indeed, if we may accept the testimony of the ecclesiastics in the matter, men and women have been in admiration over the minds that have known how to make their casual speech both sparkling and easy. The dinner table, strangely enough, has been by common consent adjudged to be the most appropriate meeting place for this most delicate and difficult exercise of the spirit; though other devices for its encouragement have been invented to satisfy the more complex demands of modern society.

A good converser, let it be admitted at the outset, like a good poet or a good singer, or, indeed, any good master in the less vulgar arts of life, is born; he is not trained. Neither the American millionaire nor the lady of the Old World salon can command him. He comes, as the most perfect winds of summer come quietly and at rare intervals, and when he is gone we discover by contrast how much more potent the still small voice is than the breathless majesty of the fire or the whirlwind. Pleasantness is his note, quotability is his aftermath, and yet, like all such garnerings citation is the least remarkable thing about the harvest of the fine humanities which his contagious inspiration inevitably causes to burgeon if he meets his kind.

COEDUCATION and MARRIAGE

President G. Stanley Hall of Clark university believes in early marriages, and regards with disfavor anything which tends to prevent. This is all very well, but when, in his address at the Boston gathering of educators, he charges to education an influence in that direction, he is probably in error. His argument is that the sexes in coeducation see too much of each other, disillusionment ensues, and the motives for marriage are weakened: "and one of the results of coeducation is perhaps seen in the small and diminishing rate of marriage among college graduates of both sexes."

The same small and diminishing marriage rate is observable quite as markedly among the graduates of one-sex institutions as among those of coeducational colleges. It is furthermore observable to some extent—probably an equal extent—in society at large, where the average age of marriage is advancing and the rate of marriage is declining, as in Massachusetts, where the present yearly number of marriages per 1,000 of population is about 17, contrasting with a rate of 20 three decades ago, and from 22 to 24 50 years ago. Education, of course, cannot be held responsible for this change. Its influence, if any at all, can only be very small, because of the comparatively small number in the population affected thereby. We must look for other causes, and those will prove to be of an economic rather than of an educational nature. There is, moreover, very little coeducation of the higher sort in Massachusetts, and hence coeducation would have to be relieved of the charge made by President Hall, if education in itself is held indictable.

This disillusionment of the sexes in regard to the angelic qualities possessed by each, which coeducation is said to effect—so unfortunately, in President Hall's view—will not be found to amount to anything, practically speaking, in the way of discouragement to marriage. Nature has taken good care that such shall not be the case. In this mingling of the sexes in the higher education there may be at work influences making against love-at-first-sight marriages, hasty marriages or fool marriages; the romantic possibly suffers, but to the profit of the realities of life, but the mating goes on just as ever with perhaps this difference, that the attachments and marriages growing out of education are likely to prove more genuine and happy as a rule. If coeducation produces disillusionment then it can be said to be better that disillusionment should come before than after marriage; but if coeducation does this, and is objectionable on that account, then all associations of the sexes prior to marriage is objectionable, and we have Dr. Hall holding the somewhat novel position that no one would marry if he knew just what he was doing and that the only way to maintain any kind of a marriage rate and save the race from extinction is to keep the sexes in ignorance of each other and make of marriage as much a leap in the dark as possible.

Whatever may be the actual weaknesses of coeducation, this at least is not one of them, and plenty of statistics we doubt not, are obtainable to prove as much. The whole question of the tendency to later and fewer marriages turns upon economic rather than educational considerations; and in so far as it may turn upon education, coeducation cannot be made to raise any distinctive issue in the matter. Education becomes an influence only in so far as it tends to create dissatisfaction with the ordinary attainable standards of material living, but this is, of course, not a fault peculiar to coeducation.—(Springfield Republican.

MUSIC AT MEALS

In a budget of nonsense which Punch prints purporting to be a consensus of musical opinion as to whether meals should be eaten with an accompaniment of music, an extract from an alleged letter from Mr. Henry Birdshines conspicuous for practical wisdom. Mr. Bird is said to have written: "You ask, 'Should there be music during meals?' But what of the converse?—should there be meals during music? It seems to me that to offer music at a restaurant is a confession of failure on the part of the chef.

"To get a satisfactory dinner out side of one's own house without an accompaniment of alleged music is becoming increasingly difficult. Sometimes the music is better than the food, and sometimes the food is better than the music. But never are they in a sympathetic relation. Music may very well assist in the enjoyment and assimilation of a meal if one be dining alone with nothing pleasant or profitable to occupy his thoughts, especially if the music be not blatant or insistent in quality, and neither superlatively good or distressingly bad. If superlatively good, it might cause an appreciative listener to hold his fork suspended midway between plate and mouth while his food grew cold, and his wine warm. If distressingly bad it would prompt him to hurry through his meal regardless of certain indigestion, that he might the sooner get away, and seek the blessings of peace and quietness. If too faint it would serve no good purpose, since the piano and pianissimo passages would be unintelligible; if too loud it would interfere with the conversation which unconsciously accommodates itself to its modulations, ranging from a whisper to a roar, as may be necessary.

As to the kind of music to be played at meal times there never can be any possible agreement between the leader of the restaurant orchestra and the man at the table. The aim of the leader appears to be to strike an impossible average—impossible, because there is no average strikable. He does this by an arrangement of selections as incongruous as would be a menu in which sorbet, fish, peanuts, soup, confections, game, coffee, roast, pudding, pickles, creme de menthe, and French mustard should succeed one another in the order given. The diner who is interested in selections from "Tannhauser" shudders when "Under the Bamboo Tree" jiggles itself into his reluctant consciousness, and experiences something of a shock when the three instruments which have struggled bravely, and it may be commendably, with the overture of "Mignon," "tumble over themselves" in "The Honeysuckle and the Bee," or some other popular cacophony of the ragtime variety. The average is a failure.

Of the value of music to the business of a restaurant it is probable that opinions differ widely. Our own judgment of the matter would be that one of a hundred persons made up of habitual and casual frequenters of restaurants fifty are indifferent to the music and scarcely know whether it is provided or not, twenty-five would go some distance to find a chance to dine comfortably in silence if alone or in agreeable conversation if accompanied by a friend, and twenty-five would be apt to say they like it because it "adds so." A great advantage would result from making it optional. Instead of hiring an orchestra to make perfunctory music for those who want it and for those who do not, the proprietor of the popular restaurant might provide blackjacks just as he does foot-stools for those who need them. If music is desired the waiter would bring an instrument, hook it to the back of one's chair, adjust the ear piece, and leave the customer to absorb much or little of it, as he might desire. Not many would be needed, we imagine, but for those who habitually enjoy the kind of music which is discouraged by restaurant orchestras the phonograph would be just as satisfactory.

The Boycott at Home and Abroad

One of the most formidable and effective weapons employed in Ireland when the agrarian agitation was at its height was the boycott. The British government found it comparatively easy to send the most "dangerous agitators," some of whom were members of parliament, to prison, and, by the use of force, to break up public meetings and to curb outbreaks on the part of the angry populace. But the case was very different with the boycott. For many years the government found it impossible to deal effectively with this problem. The practice could not be suppressed by troops, for the boycott was an intangible sort of thing and did not involve violence or public demonstration of any nature. If a landlord or a man engaged in business of any kind made himself obnoxious, politically, to the people of a community, the latter bound themselves to have no relations whatever with him, to refrain from rendering him assistance at any time, to refuse to buy his goods or his farm products—in fine, to regard him as an Ishmael against whom every man's hand was raised. Persons who had dealings with the man upon whom the ban had been placed were also boycotted. The system in many cases produced the results which were desired. Then the British government enforced drastic laws. The courts imposed severe penalties on offenders and the practice became less effective and in time was almost abandoned.

While the boycott in Ireland grew out of political agitation and was justified on the ground that it was a fair weapon of warfare to accomplish reforms to which the alien landlord class was utterly opposed, it was not long before the practice was adopted by the labor unions in Great Britain. Within the last few years the British courts have been called upon to decide whether the boycott was a legitimate weapon in the disputes between employers and trades organizations. Persons who were boycotted brought suits for damages, alleging that they sustained pecuniary losses. As a rule, the British courts have awarded damages in most cases in which the plaintiffs were able to show that they had suffered financial injury. In Great Britain many of the labor organizations are incorporated and have considerable funds. An award of damages against a trades union of this class could be collected with little difficulty, as its funds would be attached to satisfy the judgment. For this reason, and perhaps for others, the boycott has not proved very successful in Great Britain as an instrument of warfare in industrial disputes. While labor is highly organized in that country and is not only an economic but political factor also, it has not fared very well at the hands of the courts in the last few years. Although the incorporation of labor unions has brought some advantages to the trades organizations, it has entailed heavy responsibilities upon them, which the courts have promptly turned to their disadvantage whenever there seemed to be violations of the statutes by the unions. Thus, in the Taff-Vale railroad case, in which the corporation alleged that it had sustained losses because its employes quit work and would not let non-union men move the company's trains or handle its freight, the court gave judgment against the trades union whose officers authorized the strike and assisted the strikers. Damages to the amount of $130,000 were awarded, and this amount was duly paid.

It now appears that the boycott is to be attacked by legal process in the United States. In two states—Texas and Virginia—proceedings have already been instituted by victims of alleged boycotting practices. In Texas the case is of a peculiarly interesting nature, as the state is a party to the suit. It appears that the Texas anti-trust statute, which is drastic in its provisions, contains a section which penalizes conspiracies to injure trade either by the methods to which trust magnates are alleged to resort on occasion or by methods analogous to the boycott. According to the contention of the Texas authorities, an agreement on the part of members of a labor organization to injure or destroy the business of a merchant or a manufacturer by blacklisting his goods is a palpable violation of the anti-trust statute and is punishable by heavy penalties. That law, it is claimed, makes no distinction between trust methods and the methods of labor unions if the result of the practices is detrimental to the business of the person thus attacked. The decision in this case will be awaited with interest, both by employers and employes. The fact that the state is attempting to prohibit boycotting adds a significant phase to the litigation. In the Virginia case a manufacturer claim $10,000 damages from a labor union which is alleged to have boycotted his products. Since the boycott was instituted it appears that he has suffered considerable loss. A case of a similar character was decided by the Virginia court of appeals a few years ago. That tribunal held that every member of a union who is proved guilty of boycotting is individually responsible before the law. It is not easy to collect damages, however, when unions are not incorporated. In Great Britain the case is different. When judgment is awarded against an incorporated trades organization the latter cannot escape payment.—(Baltimore Sun.

THE KING AND THE EDITOR

King George of Saxony has personally demanded the punishment of a newspaper editor for lese majeste. Some time ago the Dresdener Rundschau, a weekly publication, printed an article concerning a petition sent by a needy widow to the king's daughter, Princess Mathilde, in reply to which the Princess sent her "but three marks for five starving children." Another article in the same paper discussed the affairs of the crown princess in the form of a fable, whereupon followed the confiscation of the issue and the arrest of the editor. The proprietor of the paper, advised by Berlin lawyers that the Saxon authorities had no right to take such action, decided to place the whole matter before the king. In his representations to the king he called attention to the view of the Berlin lawyers, and also stated that the existence of the entire family of the editor depended upon the king's decision. The editor, the proprietor said, had been bound to exclude all libelous or objectionable matter from the paper and he would have been dismissed except for the fact that his discharge would have deprived his family, including his father, who was suffering from tuberculosis, of support. In view of all these circumstances, the proprietor of the Rundschau asked the king to be lenient. To this the minister of law replied June 29 that the king had decided that the author of the articles should be prosecuted by law.—(Kansas City Star.

"Mrs. Pendleton's Four-in-Hand."

"Mrs Pendleton's Four-in-Hand" by Gertrude Atherton published by The Macmillan s 50 cents

This is another of the series of short stories by well-known authors which The Macmillans have been issuing this summer Mrs Pendleton s "Four-in-Hand" consisted of four men of various types, who all proposed to the widow—charming of course—on the same day and all by letter Mrs Pendleton was very sure that it was a practical joke and she resolved to get even She wrote to each telling how fond she was of him and inviting him to come to Newport at a certain time Of course they all met after each, however, had been accorded a separate interview The situation in the Newport cottage forms one of the most delightful bits of reading that one can imagine They were all so very much in earnest, and the widow was not at all seriously inclined However the rather gratifying feature of it was that one man finally wore out despite the determination of Mrs Pendleton It is a very pleasing little story and the fact that it is highly improbable does not detract from the interest

"Despotism and Democracy"

'Despotism and Democracy" published by McClure Phillips & Co, $1 50

This is a story of "Washington society and politics' by an anonymous author It is related that there has been much guessing over the authorship of the novel and various names have been suggested Our guess is that it is a woman and it might be the same one who has contributed the entertaining letters of a 'Congressman s Wife' to the Saturday Evening Post The story is really without very much plot, but is written in such a chatty and interesting way, that one s attention is held to the end Briefly, it centers around the careers of two congressmen, quite dissimilar in speech and action and party politics, but very good friends, nevertheless One of them Geoffrey Thorndyke, was an easterner while Julian Crane was a vigorous and assertive member from the middle west Crane s ambition to become a senator is the main theme of the book His wife is pictured as a charming woman of extraordinary sense Crane feared that she might not shine in Washington society and so she remained at home during several terms His eyes were opened, however at the right time and in the right way The other woman in the book is Constance Maitland a fine type of a Washington first family, with whom Thorndyke was very much in love and with whom Crane was in danger of being. This problem, too settled itself right One of the most delightful features of the book is the glimpses that it gives into Washington official and social life They are well portrayed indicating that the author knew well what she was talking about. There are a goodly number of sharp thrusts at officials whose names are rather thinly veiled and this may account for the fact that the author chooses to be unknown

"Life's Common Way."

"Life s Common Way," by Annie E Trumbull and published by A. S Barnes & Co New York price $1 50.

Life and the right way to live it is considered very seriously in this book The central figure, Ursula Keith, is a woman who has grown up in the midst of all the luxury and refinement of a highly cultured Boston society Her wit though often sharp and cutting is always brilliant, and her quick understanding and penetration is always accurate until it comes to the important occasion of accepting one of two men Then she proves herself practically blind but true to her New England training and does not swerve when she sees clearly what she ought to do.

But she is only one of a number of interesting personages in the book As the story progresses the characters develop and are constantly unfolding and revealing themselves until they have a strong hold on the reader

The harum-scarum society girl, with her strong love of fun and openhearted affectionate nature is so well pictured in Teddy Blankenship that one falls quite in love with her and feels truly sorry for her in her unhappiness in the latter part of the book,

The cool-headed calculating broker, with his marvelous record of financial successes is interesting for his character is also well sketched All the disapproval his wife may entertain for his methods has no effect, for she has such a successful way of arousing all his combativeness

Truth to tell the much mooted question as to whether marriage is a failure would quickly be answered by 'Yes,' if one would take this book as an authority To be honest there is one marriage referred to as having been a happy one but that was in the past These people are not pictured as miserably unhappy or unusual in any way—it is only life s common way

There are a number of sly thrusts at woman's clubs and their mission that make very interesting reading and add much spice to the book They are not such but what those in sympathy with the movement could enjoy a laugh over them.

The subject of unions and strikes is brought up during the development of the story and is treated very clearly and honestly This part adds to the strength of the story as well as adding interest to the plot

The whole makes excellent reading and it is a story that one can hardly afford to pass by

"A Detached Pirate"

"A Detached Pirate," by Helen Milecete illustrated in colors by I. H Caliga and published by Little, Brown & Co

It is a bright racy story, written in the form of letters by one Gay Vandeleur who is released from her husband in the London divorce court and then leaves London and her past, including her title of Mrs, and flees to pastures new where she hopes pleasure and joy await her Her experiences are varied and interesting always, and the way she tells them make most attractive reading. Her fortune in hand is £2 000 which she hopes will last her until she gets well settled in life once more, but she meets with most discouraging reverses in her well laid plans. And these happenings are never spoiled in the telling, however, and from cover to cover this has a bright, witty book and one that makes interesting summer reading The illustrations in color add much to the attractiveness of the book

If the Saviour Came Today.

Howard Pyle has been at work for eight years on his religious novel, 'Rejected of Men,' which the Harpers have finally published The novel is the outcome of a young man's early skepticism about the great facts of Christianity a skepticism which only years of youthful ment I struggle enable him to escape from Such a self-education in reasoning makes one rather radical in one s opinions' writes Mr Pyle to his publishers 'and I suppose that my opinions are very radical indeed And radical opinions impel a man to express himself almost against his own volition So they have impelled me to write my book It seems to be a very short story for eight years of intermittent work but I can say it was written very earnestly and with great sincerity of conviction and however the world may take it I have yet the satisfaction of knowing that I have said my say with every sentiment of reverence and very strong belief in that which I was trying to say'

He Killed Off the Colonels

In the southern town where Will N Harben author of 'The Substitute' lives there is the usual supply of men who have acquired by courtesy of their fellow-townsmen the title of Colonel It struck Mr Harben that the old soldiers of the town who possessed genuine hard earned titles were somewhat obscured by the younger set who were colonels in name only So Mr Harben wrote an unsigned editorial for one of his town papers in which he ably set forth the cause of the veteran as against the amateur soldier in the matter of titles The editorial made a sensational impression and did result in discouraging the colonel habit It has now leaked out that Mr Harben was the guilty man and his fellow townsmen are retaliating by calling him Colonel and saluting him in the streets One old confederate soldier was heard to remark Of course Harben deserves promotion He killed more colonels in one day than General Lee did in four years of war'"

The MAGAZINES

Flood Losses in Kansas

The daily papers greatly exaggerated the losses to farmers It was assumed that something like a third of Kansas and as large a portion of Iowa and Missouri was devastated In the first named state was the greatest loss For two hundred miles over a strip of valley land two to five miles wide the water rushed for five days. In the currents the crops are gone Not more than one-half of this as tilled land on which the crops were wiped out If the crop losses amounts to $3 000 000 the probable maximum it will be but a trifle in a state which markets $22? 000-000 of farm products annually A dozen towns lost from $3 000 to $100 000 each Topeka's loss by far the largest proportionately of any of the afflicted communities—probably was $1 000 000 or more Here was the greatest loss of life—seventy-one In Kansas City, the property loss is greater on the railroads, and will reach to $7 000 000 or more The loss farther down the streams are lighter proportionately because of the preparation time given The governor of Kansas issued an appeal for aid for the thousands who lost homes and property The generosity of the nation has been manifest in the abundant donations pouring in for the sufferers who are especially in distress and there is no insurance to assist them—(The Recent Floods of the Middle West by Charles M Harger in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for July

The Stage Driver Who Was Always on Time

It is as the driver of the old Loretto stage coach which carried the mail that we want to consider Charles M Schwab rather than in his present aspect of successor to Andrew Carnegie in the industrial world He doesn't earn his enormous salary today any better than he did his three dollars a week for he was always on time then that being the highest point of excellence in the business

His life story is still ringing in the public ear—the romance of a millionaire at thirty-seven who began as a stake driver in an engineer corps Schwab is one of those hustling chaps whom you simply cannot keep down even if you use a club

Doing more than I was asked or expected to do' That is his theory of how he got up higher Business enterprises are hungering and thirsting for more Schwabs men who can do things besides drawing a salary

Isn't it strange that there are so few of them?

What do you say boys—will you be Schwabs or plain-John Routines clerks at forty—(Success

John Wesley s Presence.

A small man physically John Wesley had in a remarkable degree that which we call "presence' Men felt as they heard him speak and came under the domination of his personality, that he was a man of power. He did not seem small to them Indeed, he often seemed more than man Two boys once came to hear him preach determined to stone him. Their pockets were full of rocks, and they carried stones in each hand After Wesley began to speak, they stood open-mouthed and wide-eyed for a few moments, and then one, dropping his stones said to his neighbor, "He's not a man! He s not a man! After the meeting was over, one of the youths stood near a gate where Wesley must go out and as he passed slowly, the young fellow pinched Wesley s leg through his clothing and shouted 'He is a man! He is a man!' Wesley laid his hand upon the boy s head and said 'God bless thee, my lad Afterwards this boy became one of the evangelist s most faithful preachers—(Rev Louis A. The Most Beautiful Spot in Paris.

Coming up the Champs Elysees we entirely forget to branch off from the Arc de Triomphe and go a step down the Avenue Hoche into the delicious little Parc de Monceau This is the most beautiful little spot in Paris, and I don't see how anything could be more beautiful in the whole wide world It belonged in the beginning to the father of Louis Philippe and was laid out by him "in so novel and attractive a style that it soon became one of the most fashionable resorts of the 'beau-monde'" so the inevitable guide-book tells us It also tells, in the unmistakable manner of guide-books of 'walls plays and fetes of the most brilliant description which were wont to be celebrated upon its velvet lawns and among its statues and sparkling fountains One's imagination can do one a pretty turn by weaving brilliant fancies through the lights and shadows of this calmly sweet old garden but they are sure to be shattered into rainbow fragments by a peal of children laughter for Parc de Monceau has come to be the children's park more than any other in Paris I think and through all the warm hours of the afternoon it is crowded with the happiest little people in the world, who romp and scream over the soft grass with as free abandon as was ever enjoyed by the belles and beaux of Louis Philippe s time and one cannot help but think what a pleasant memory Parc de Monceau will be to them when they have grown up and gone out into the world of work and strife—become children of a larger growth who take pleasures too seriously to make really sweet recollections out of them—(Eleanor Franklin s Paris Letter in Leslie s Weekly

Religion and Humanity in Wall Street

At the recent dinner of the Alumni club of Union Theological seminary the Rev Edward C Moore D D of the Harvard divinity school speaking of the religious outlook declared that there is a thousand times more religion in Wall street and other business centers and a thousand times more nobility and kindheartedness than men ever think of There never was a time he said when men were more willing to help and work for their fellow men or showed a deeper, a greater consideration for them than at the present time It is well to have this testimony from such a source when the disposition is rife in many quarters to rail at men of wealth indiscriminately —(Leslie s Weekly

Formal Dignity Is Out of Date

To find it in fullest bloom we look to the least progressive races If a Chinaman in calling leaves a visiting card of unusual size with his name in large characters he has conveyed an insult which must be resented by a man of spirit with card and [illegible] of even greater bulk If a visitor enters a Chinaman's house instead of waiting for the host to escort him or if his servants enter by the wrong door his dignity is seriously impaired An Arab might resort to the meanest theft but he would have the exterior carriage of the story book idea of royalty How absurd aggressive dignity appears in the contemporary world is shown by the performances of the kaiser Our idea of dignity is something deeper than self assertion or than grandiose pose Abraham Lincoln comes near the American ideal with his slack equal mode of meeting great and small Lord Salisbury represents the enlightened English notion of aristocracy with his careless behavior and bad clothes The English love to tell the story of his being refused admittance at Monte Carlo on account of his appearance Less known is the tale of his daughter s final success in forcing him to be measured instead of buying his clothes as usual ready made Her horror when his clothes proved as baggy as ever drove her to the tailor s shop where the tailor exclaimed But madam what can I do when his lordship insists on being seated while he is measured? In public or private life or in art the correct thing at the top is no longer to try to act as if you thought yourself your time, and all your doings were important A more effective demeanor is the one which seems to imply that you deem your time and doings of no great consequence although the public may think they are especially if this demeanor is sincere for the world is apt to detect a pose in either direction The American spirit critical and humorous is particularly displeased by any kind of dignity which verges on the priggish the overbearing or the pompous—(Collier s Weekly

Lighting a Metropolis

Harper s Weekly for July 11 contains an informing article on the way in which a great city is lighted It takes 8 000 men to light New York for 24 hours says the writer In order that we who have a penchant for moving may flit from the Battery to the Bronx and still command the convenience of turning on and off a flood of light at will by the twist of a screw or the scratching of a lucifer there are gas mains extending over every part of the city covering it is estimated about 2 ?00 miles During the cold days of last December the amount of coal used for manufacturing gas for the metropolis amounted in one day to 3 ?00 tons It is recalled that no longer ago than 1826 the citizens of Manhattan were still using candlelight and whale oil for artificial illumination and thinking men and scientists alike scoffed at the idea of producing a light without a wick In spite of opposition however gas soon came into common use and the writer predicts that having served its purpose for a century there is now every indication that it too will go the way of the candle and that its mission will be performed by electricity The article is illustrated by some effective photographs of characteristic New York scenes after dark

A Year in Cuba

In the Atlantic Monthly for July there is an extremely interesting and important review of the 'First Year of Cuban Self-Government' The author of this paper, Captain Matthew E Hanna, was on the staff of General Wood during the American occupation of Havana, for two years he was commissioner of public schools and he is at the present time military attache at the American legation in Havana He is therefore peculiarly fitted to write with authority and understanding of the advances which have been made during one year of complete Cuban control. The showing that he makes of the improvement in conditions and the advances in civic probity will be extremely gratifying to all who are concerned about the future of our insular protege. After having given a brief and comprehensive survey of the things which have actually been accomplished Captain Hanna writes admiringly of the remarkable improvements in the tone of public life and concludes

'In short up-to-date the Cuban government is conspicuous for energy, honesty, economy and ability"

A German Chicago

Mr Sydney Brooks writes entertainingly about Berlin in the current issue of Harper s Weekly "Berlin," he says, is the Chicago of Germany in the rapidity of its growth if in nothing else. To one who has not visited it for 10 or 12 years the place seems to have trebled and quadrupled itself Very likely it has but what most impresses one is not the extent, but the quality of its growth It is the only modern city I know of that has managed to escape looking artificial Most foreigners complain that New York looks as though it had been hit off at a stroke and dumped down on Manhattan island by contract They inveigh against its deadly uniformity, its Euclidean lines, its prosaic precision They say that it has been far too obviously mapped out by architects and surveyors instead of by nature None of these charges could be brought against Berlin. The city, or most of it at any rate is as modern as New York but the labor of building it has been most dexterously hidden

In Berlin the old days of plain living and high thinking seem well-nigh over There may be plenty of high thinking done in the capital but it certainly is no longer a city of conspicuously plain living The rents are such as to open even a New Yorker s eyes household expenses are proportionately severe and the clubs the theatres the stores and above all the hotels and restaurants point in a direction that does not lead by any means to economy There are hotels today in Berlin that rival and in some points even exceed the Waldorf-Astoria and the Carlton

Do Plants Think?

Professor Shaler of Harvard university affirms that we are not justified in saying that plants have no capacity for thought He ably points out in Harper's Magazine for July certain reasons for crediting plants with their own degree of intelligence He differs from the tendency of modern naturalists to view the lower animals and plants as automata—their apparent sense being merely mechanical action like that of sensitive instruments and gives his reasons for so doing Professor Shaler is dean of Lawrence Scientific school and professor of geology at Harvard He is a Kentuckian by birth

After Death Who Are We?

That we do retain our own personality after death is the conclusion of a most interesting article in Harper s Magazine for July contributed by Alexander F Chamberlain Ph D of Clark university Personality is the highest product thus far of the evolutionary process writes Professor Chamberlain leaving the reader to infer that it will not therefore be wasted in the great universal design In this article he also touches upon the former belief in the soullessness of woman in which connection his remarks are pointed and not very complimentary to the masculine sex

More About Radium

Radium does not get its energy from the air as some scientists seem to suppose but very probably from changes within the atoms of which it is composed It is believed that these atoms are the heaviest in the universe It is possible that after hundreds of thousands of years radium may devolve into simpler elements and so pass right through the series to hydrogen Scientists do not now believe that the elements are really elemental There is really only one element But radium is its most remarkable form Great curiosity is being manifested in the specimens now being publicly exhibited at the London Natural History museum—three tiny grains in a watchglass shining as they have done since before man appeared on the earth The camera exhibit seems to give the most satisfaction In it some sulphide of zinc has been painted with radium and in the dark it glows with a soft green light This part of the exhibit will not require renewal for 10 000 years Other interesting metals in the exhibit are thorium and helium Thorium is the main ingredient of the incandescent mantle Helium is so light that the earth s revolution has whisked nearly all of it off into space What remains is probably new-formed by the breaking down of the atoms of radium—if the word atom can be applied to what has at least 150 000 parts—(Harper s Weekly

North Carolina Distilleries Shut

As a result of the Watts liquor regulation law 27 distilleries have stopped business in Iredale county North Carolina all of these having been in the country Only six of these were steam distilleries The distillers sold their whiskey at an average of about $1 40 a gallon including the government tax of $1 10 The total sum received for the liquor made by these distilleries was only $5 000 The state officers take a very determined position The revenue officers assert that they cannot decline to renew the bonds of the distillers [illegible] seek them and that they will assign a deputy collector and storekeeper and gauger to duty wherever a distiller expresses his determination to continue operations Under the Watts law each day s operation of a still outside of an incorporated town which grants it license is a separate offense The Watts law is very carefully drawn and the state authorities as well as Senator Simmons who was one of those who prepared it are sure there is no loophole of escape—(Atlanta Constitution

LITERARY NOTES

The theme which Jack London has taken for his latest book is The Call of the Wild and how it came to a St Bernard dog on the Klondike trail Buck is abducted from his home in southern California taken to Alaska and put to work drawing sledges for travelers and mail carriers during the great gold fever His good blood his [illegible] his spirit and his breeding give [illegible] brutal hardship and semi-starvation he conquers his wolfish mates and becomes the best sledge dog in Alaska But when Thornton the owner whom he loves dies the primordial [illegible] which has been reviving for a year in Buck comes out and Buck hears and heeds the call of the wild It is a thrilling story full of wonderful descriptions of the toil of trail and trail and of the whole vivid daring [illegible] primeval life of Alaska during the last six years The Macmillan company announces the book for issue July 15

The White and the Red Rose.

IN heaven's happy bowers
There blossom two flowers,
One with fiery glow
And one as white as snow
While lo' before them stands
With pale and trembling hands,
A spirit who must choose
One, and one refuse

These blossoms two
Wet with heavenly dew—
The Gentle Heart is one
And one is Beauty's own,
And the spirit here that stands
With pale and trembling hands,
Before tomorrow's morn
Will be a child new born
Will be a mortal maiden
With earthly sorrows laden
But of these shining flow[ers]
That bloom in heavenly b[owers]
Today she still may choose
One, and one refuse

Will she pluck the crimson flower
And win Beauty's dower?
Will she choose the better part
And gain the Gentle Heart?
Awhile she weeping waits
Within those pearly gates
Alas! the mortal maiden
With earthly sorrow laden
Her tears afresh they start—
She has chosen the Gentle Heart

And now the spirit goes
In her breast the snow-white rose
When hark a voice that calls
Within the garden walls
'Thou didst choose the better part,
Thou hast won the Gentle Heart—
Lo now to thee is given
The red rose of Heaven'

Revival of Needlework

In the multiplicity of ways that the modern women have chosen to use their time the art of needlework which distinguishes women from men has been rather relegated to the background. Nathaniel Hawthorne in his remarkable story "The Marble Faun" draws a pretty picture that, if called to the attention of our young women may have the effect of inducing them not to abandon so feminine and necessary an accomplishment.

The artist was not just then at her easel but was busied with the feminine task of mending a pair of gloves. There is something extremely pleasant and even touching—at least of very sweet, soft and winning effect—in this peculiarity of needlework distinguishing women from men. Our own sex is incapable of any such by-play aside from the main business of life but women—be they of what earthly rank they may, however gifted with intellect or genius or endowed with awful beauty—have always some little handiwork ready to fill the tiny gap of every vacant moment. A needle is familiar to the fingers of them all. A queen no doubt plies it on occasion; the woman poet can use it as adroitly as her pen; the woman's eye that has discovered a new star turns from its glory to send the polished little instrument gleaming along the hem of her kerchief or to darn a casual fray in her dress. And they have greatly the advantage of us in this respect. The slender thread of silk or cotton keeps them united with the small familiar gentle interests of life, the continually operating influences of which do so much for the character and carry off what would otherwise be a dangerous accumulation of morbid sensibility. A vast deal of human sympathy runs along this electric line stretching from the throne to the wicker chair of the humblest seamstress and keeping high and low in a species of communion with their kindred beings. Methinks it is a token of healthy and gentle characteristics, when women of high thoughts and accomplishments love to sew, especially as they are never more at home with their own hearts than while so occupied. And when the work falls in a woman's lap of its own accord and the needle involuntarily ceases to fly it is a sign of trouble quite as trustworthy as the throb of the heart itself.

A Word About Badges

As no large assembly is completely accoutered without a supply of unique badges wherewith to designate the delegates, committees, etc., a word concerning them may be of interest. According to a well-informed authority the word "badge" is derived from the Anglo-Saxon word baer, a bracelet. When the Danes invaded England they wore holy bracelets on which they took solemn vows, holding them as their most precious possession— badges of honor.

This fact of history may account for the evident delight with which some people load themselves down with badges of every conceivable description—far outshining a bandmaster on parade. But there are possessors and possessors of badges. It is quite possible that those who really know the history of the badge and esteem it as an emblem of honor are not the ones who flaunt before the public an overplus of badges on every possible occasion. Still in a crowd the little badges are an immense help in singling out the leaders and the use and not the abuse of the tell-tale bits of lettered color have a very laudible significance.

Some women have a "fad" for collecting badges which is pretty near a mania. They can scarcely keep their hands off and resort to every pretext to come into possession of them. One can't blame them so very much for the variety of badges is such that the most artistic sofa pillows, throws, etc., can be made out of them.

Voice of India

All honor to those brave women who, in spite of opposition and ridicule have labored to lift the sex to the point where woman should have equal opportunity with man for the development and exercise of her faculties. If one wishes to know how far this movement has advanced since the early days of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Stanton one has only to turn over the pages of that remarkable work "The Awakening of Woman" by another devoted worker in the cause, Mrs. Frances Swiney. One is struck by the overwhelming evidence that is brought to bear on the encouraging fact that the human mind is opening out to new truths and that one of the greatest mysteries of nature as regards the ... of the sex is ... most being revealed to us. The political advancement of women ... less remarkable ... called attention to a meeting in Dublin where Mr. ... spoke emphatically ... and enthusiastically in favor of woman suffrage. [illegible]

The onion traveled here from Spain
The leek from Switzerland we gain
Garlic from Sicily obtains
Spinach in far Syria grows
Two hundred years ago or more
Brazil the artichoke sent o'er
And southern Europe's seacoast shore
Beetroot on us bestows
When Lizbeth was reigning here
Peas came from Holland and were dear
The south of Europe lays its claim
To beans but some from Egypt came
The radishes both thin and stout,
Natives of China are no doubt
But turnips carrots and sea kale
With celery so crisp and pale
Are products of our own fair land
And cabbages a goodly tribe
Which abler pens might well describe—
Are also ours I understand

Miss Alice M. Smith, of Minneapolis, Minn., tells how women's monthly suffering may be quickly and permanently relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have never before given my endorsement for any medicine, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has added so much to my life and happiness that I feel like making an exception in this case. For two years every month I would have two days of severe pain and could find no relief, but one day when visiting a friend I ran across Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,—she had used it with the best results and advised me to try it. I found that it worked wonders with me; I now experience no pain and only had to use a few bottles to bring about this wonderful change. I use it occasionally now when I am exceptionally tired or worn out."—MISS ALICE M. SMITH, 804 Third Ave., South Minneapolis, Minn., Chairman Executive Committee Minneapolis Study Club.

Beauty and strength in women vanish early in life because of monthly pain or some menstrual irregularity. Many suffer silently and see their best gifts fade away. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps women preserve roundness of form and freshness of face because it makes their entire female organism healthy. It carries women safely through the various natural crises and is the safeguard of woman's health.

The truth about this great medicine is told in the letters from women being published in this paper constantly.

Mrs. C. Kleinschrodt, Morrison, Ill., says:—

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have suffered ever since I was thirteen years of age with my menses. They were irregular and very painful. I doctored a great deal but received no benefit.

"A friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and after taking a few bottles of it, I found great relief.

"Menstruation is now regular and without pain. I am enjoying better health than I have for some time."

How is it possible for us to make it clearer that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will positively help all sick women? All women are constituted alike, rich and low,—all suffer from the same organic troubles. Surely, no one can wish to remain weak ... with life and no hope for the future ... Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will cure ... all womb and ovarian troubles and all the ills peculiar to women.

Sunshine News

International Sunshine Annual.

The fifth annual meeting of the International Sunshine society, held at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York city, was a notable gathering. Fully 800 persons were in attendance throughout the business session. For the evening session in the grand ball room there were 3,000 present. The splendid musical program was furnished by the chairman of the board of directors, Mrs. Joseph Fairchild Knapp. Several of the songs were composed by Mrs. Knapp who is a well-known writer of sacred music.

The souvenir program was a beautiful specimen of the printer's art, being a little booklet of eight pages, with Japanese cover. It contained a portrait of the president general on the front page under which were the following lines:

"Yet in herself she dwelleth not,
Although no home were half so fair,
No simple duty is forgot,
Life hath no dim and lowly spot
That doth not in her sunshine share."
—Lowell

Under this was a bar of music with these words: "So say we all of us."

There was also a full-page view of Mrs. Knapp's wonderful music room in her apartment in the Savoy hotel, New York city.

Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden, the honored president general, the founder and grand inspiration of the organization, presided, and innumerable tributes were paid her. Mrs. O. V. Betts of Denver, state president for Colorado, as well as innumerable others sent greetings.

Mrs. Betts wrote:

"I send greetings and kind wishes from all International Sunshine societies from Sunny Colorado' to our beloved president general and all members of Sunshine assembled to celebrate the annual of the International Sunshine societies.

"When we realize fully that this work so broad and far reaching originated from the thought to 'pass on' by our president general, Mrs. Alden, and that this thought, like a seed, took root and grew to a beautiful tree of majestic growth with near 3,000 sunshine branches and 200,000 leaves, ready and willing at all times to carry sunshine all over the world, no place too small or too far to be brightened by sunshine, no one can estimate the number of lives brightened and cheered by its rays.

"Let us give due honor to Mrs. Alden, our 'president general,' whose sunny unselfish nature wished to brighten the lives of all around her and has planned and carried on this beautiful work until sunshine floods the earth.

"Sunshine has become an international word, meaning brightness and cheer and happiness to so many who never thought to be remembered. It must bring that happiness to our president general to know she is brightening so many lives. Many look upon her as a fairy able to wave her wand and bring to them comfort, cheer and happiness. May her life be long and filled to overflowing with happiness and love."

Presentation to Mrs. Alden

During the afternoon session of the annual meeting Mrs. Theodore F. Seward, first vice president of the organization, gave a brief address of welcome. Later, she asked permission to interrupt the exercises with the following address to the president general:

"I presume that nearly everyone present knows that this noble sunshine work which has occupied our attention today originated in the generous and sympathetic nature of our beloved president general, Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden, founder of this International Sunshine society and the genius of whose administrative ability has made possible the marvelous extent of its growth.

"Dear president general, we fully appreciate that you are the inspiration of our enthusiastic efforts in scattering sunshine and that your own example of devoted service is a continual incentive to greater endeavor on our part. And now, in behalf of so many of your devoted sunshine friends it is my privilege to present to you a token of their loving, unswerving loyalty to you and to the high ideals of beautiful service you have placed before us. The protective shield of this sunshine pin rests upon a wreath of laurel, the emblem used by the Greeks of old when they wished to distinguish one of their number. We have had it placed here to honor you. Its diamonds represent the purity of our love and your purpose. They too, will gather and scatter sunshine with every ray of sunlight that falls upon them.

"In fastening it to your dress we hope that it will hold you to one condition that we make and that is: It must be passed on."

At the conclusion of this neat little speech, Mrs. Seward presented the beautiful diamond studded sunshine badge resting on a laurel wreath of green gold which also glittered with brilliants, a fitting but well-earned token of the love of many of her friends co-workers in the sunshine work. Mrs. Alden's surprise almost overwhelmed her, but she soon recovered self-possession and accepted the gift with her characteristic grace and words of hearty thanks.

Magnitude of the Work.

Some idea of the magnitude of the Sunshine movement can be gathered from the annual report of the secretary general. There are now at least 3,000 branches located in all parts of the world and the membership has grown to considerably over 100,000. All are doing earnest work in a persistent endeavor to make others happy and this without any especial effort being made in the central administrative office to extend the movement or increase the membership.

Colorado Sunshiners

Far too little has been written and said about the State Sunshine society. Since Mrs. O. V. Betts of Denver became president last fall much has been accomplished through her indefatigable efforts. Scattered throughout our great state are a number of organizations doing a beautiful work in passing on sunshine in innumerable directions. In this the giver even more than the receiver gains cheer and the more sunshine one can cause to come into their lives the more one has of it themselves.

The largest Sunshine society in Colorado Springs is named ... The ... Sunshine society. It was organized in November, 1902, with six members and now has more than 70. They are indeed carrying out the injunction of the president general, Mrs. Alden, "Do something for somebody quick." Much was accomplished in the way of Christmas benefactions, not always for the very poor but for the ill or the lonely who are not able to get sunshine easily; the local Sunshiners are taking care of so far as they are able to scatter sunshine in darkened lives. Their latest and greatest undertaking is to raise funds for a tent at the Wing settlement, to be known as the "Sunshiners tent." Friends surely will rally round the standard of this ambitious band of Sunshiners and aid them in the materialization of not only a Sunshine tent but a whole colony of them. No higher, no holier work could be imagined than the furnishing of tents for the comfort of the deserving invalids who flock to our "City of Sunshine."

"There are cheerful hearts and lives that are glad,
Which wake to a day of praise
There are those whose hearts for a weary while
Have long forgotten the joy and smile
Of life's sunshiny days
Let those who gather the joys of life
So easily day by day
Remember the lives which grieve and are sad
And remembering strive to make them glad,
And brighten life's somber gray."

Popular Summer Fabrics

FOULARD is an unusually popular summer fabric this year. It comes in great varieties and colorings. There are checked, mixed, striped and embroidered voiles, and they are of such wonderful texture, so thin and cool that they make ideal summer gowns.

The mohair Sicilliennes are also very popular this summer and what is more are very useful. They are especially serviceable and appropriate for traveling gowns. They are cool and can be They shed the dust and best of all they do not wrinkle. After a tiresome ride in a train or an auto the girl who has had the foresight to choose one of these gowns arrives at her destination looking as fresh and spotless as though she had just stepped from her boudoir. Mohairs are adaptable to many designs. An especially smart tailor-made gown is made of blue mohair. It is given the proper outdoor touch by a French blouse and a circular collar with stole ends. The stock and the cuffs have little lace applique medallions and the blouse has a wide cape collar.

Society's Whirl Is Out of Doors Just Now

AL FRESCO DINING IS POPULAR AND MOONLIGHT AUTO PARTIES ARE THE THING

MIDSUMMER! And the fashionable summer resorts all over the country are thronged with society's finest. Eagerly are they pursuing pleasure with a devotion quite incomprehensible to those of more quiet trend.

Colorado Springs, "The City of Sunshine," from its glorious climatic advantages and beautiful environments, offers peculiarly tempting inducements to both permanent or transient visitors.

The hotels, mindful of the tastes of most people when enjoying an outing, plan as a diversion, informal hops. The evenings are cool, hence dancing is a positive delight, midsummer though it be.

The Broadmoor season is at its height. Field sports are merrily going on during the long summer afternoons for a large number of champions find their way out to the finely-kept grounds of the Cheyenne Mountain Country club.

The social life of Broadmoor will be augmented today by the arrival in a special train, of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cudahy of Kansas City. They will remain here all summer and spend most of their time at the Broadmoor hotel.

Mr. Cudahy, who is the principal one in the Kansas City branch of the Cudahy Packing company, is the organizer of the Kansas City Hunt and Polo club, whose membership includes all the exclusive social set of that city. Mr. and Mrs. Cudahy will bring with them their famous string of show horses, polo ponies and hunters, as well as their equipages. Mrs. Cudahy's tandem pair, "More than King" and "All But King," are well known on the horse show circuit of the east and west, while Mr. Cudahy's hunter, "The Lamb," is one of the record jumpers of the country.

There are a number of guests at the Broadmoor hotel and the broad piazzas and dancing floor of the Casino are fully occupied these fine evenings.

Dining al fresco and moonlight automobile parties are all the rage. Some of those entertaining at the casino for dinner the past week were Dr. A. C. Friedman, who had a party of four Sunday evening.

Monday evening Dr. T. J. Gallaher of Denver, who is staying at the hotel for some time, entertained Dr. and Mrs. W. Howard Swan and Dr. and Mrs. James A. Patterson at dinner. Tuesday evening the guests of Captain Alvord numbered four.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lundstrum gave a dinner party Wednesday for their guests and on the same evening Dr. Friedman had four guests.

Mrs. Hotchkiss entertained a party of friends at a casino dinner Friday night. Covers were laid for 10.

Over last Sunday Dr. Gallaher had as his guests at the hotel, his sister, Miss Isabel Gallaher of Denver, Miss V. G. Faut of Washington, D. C., and Dr. S. B. Van Meter of Denver.

Mrs. Edward Marsden Cooke and Mrs. Chester Arthur Beatty of Denver are spending a few days at the hotel.

Mrs. Thomas Talbot and Mrs. F. F. Clarke, mother and sister of Mr. Leroy Talbot, are his guests at the hotel.

Passing their honeymoon at Broadmoor are J. J. Marx and bride from St. Louis, Mo.

William C. Jones, a distinguished lawyer of Camden, N. J., wife, son, daughter and Miss Reed are staying at Broadmoor hotel for a few weeks.

B. Hudson, a prominent citizen of Ann Arbor, Mich., is a guest at Broadmoor hotel.

Mrs. Eldridge Wright and son of Memphis, Tenn., arrived at Broadmoor hotel last night and will remain the rest of the summer.

Miss Corinne M. Bailey of New Orleans, arrived last Wednesday to fulfill her engagement at the casino and will be heard for the first time this afternoon and evening, being on the program for a solo.

Miss Bailey has an enviable record as a soloist. She has lately completed a notable engagement as one of the leading sopranos in the spring festival of the New Orleans Choral Symphony society and Manager Bailey is to be congratulated upon having secured so great an attraction.

The hops being given weekly at the Antlers on Thursday evenings by the management, complimentary to their guests and friends, are most enjoyable affairs.

Last week invitations were issued to a large number of prominent society people of the city and the attendance taxed the capacity of the fine dancing floor of the ball room.

The ladies present were attired in the daintiest of summer gowns and the scene presented was a very beautiful one. The music furnished by Prof. Casser's orchestra gave great pleasure.

The first of the Alta Vista hops occurred Friday evening. It was greatly enjoyed by the guests of the house and a few town people. The evening being cool, dancing was kept up until 12. Delicate refreshments were served from small tables in the reception room.

Receptions—Teas

One of the very charming events of the past week was a tea given Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Francis W. Goddard, in her beautiful home, 808 North Cascade avenue. The guests of honor were the Rev. Mr. Lee, who is acting rector of St. Stephen's church, in the absence of the rector, Rev. A. N. Taft, Mrs. Lee and their neice, Miss Palm of Dallas, Texas.

As usual, many flowers were scattered through the apartments, a bright and fragrant supplement to the cordial greetings extended by the hostess. White predominated in the drawing room and reception hall, while pink roses, carnations and sweet peas together with harmonious devices in the color selected, adorned the dining room.

The assisting ladies were Mrs. William F. Slocum, Mrs. Farnsworth, Mrs. E. S. Solly, Mrs. St. George Tucker, Mrs. H. G. Lunt, Misses Linderfelt, Anderson, Tucker, Lunt and others.

About 100 ladies responded to the invitation of Mrs. W. K. Jewett on Tuesday afternoon and were her guests at tea. Throughout the house there were masses of the most beautiful roses, and the treat of the afternoon was the opportunity of wandering in the exquisitely laid grounds and examining the flowers nearby. Mrs. F. W. Goddard and Mrs. J. G. Shields presided at the tea table.

The magnificent rose garden of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Jewett, 1507 North Cascade avenue, is now in full glory. There are, it is estimated, fully 1,000 bushes and an aggregate of nearly 5,000 blossoms. The variety and coloring are diversified, but evidently the pink rose is the favorite, for it predominates.

Mrs. Jewett delights to share her roses with her friends, so though averse to elaborate entertaining, she keeps "open house" during the rose season. Last Sunday afternoon the officers and members of the El Paso County Horticultural society were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jewett. After viewing the roses and many other splendid flowers and shrubs about the grounds, tea was served. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. William Clark, Mrs. Alice Harris, Dr. and Mrs. Muir, Professor Reed, William Evans and others.

Miss Emma Margesson entertained a half dozen of her friends at tea Friday afternoon at her home, 929 North Nevada avenue.

To meet Mrs. Tucker of Virginia, Mrs. Beverly Tucker, 1130 North Nevada avenue, gave an informal reception Thursday afternoon. Among those calling were Mrs. John S. Tucker, Mrs. R. W. Chisholm, Mrs. Charles L. Hemming, Mrs. Henry McAllister, Mrs. H. V. Wandell, Mrs. C. C. Hamlin, Mrs. J. W. Sheafor, Mrs. Charles Wright, Mrs. Francis D. Pastorius, Miss Horace Pastorius, Mrs. D. H. Rupp, Mrs. W. W. Postlethwaite, Misses Belisle, Tyree, Merrill, Maal Tucker, Brigham, Aitken, Atkinson and others.

Miss Martin served the pink ice and cakes at a dainty tea table overhung with a beautiful pink poppy electrolier shade.

Mrs. Willis S. Montgomery entertained most charmingly, though informally, on Monday last, in compliment to Mrs. Charles Lawrence and Mrs. Robertson of Boston, Mass. The dining room where the refreshments were served was artistically decked with white carnations and maiden hair ferns. Mrs. Clarence C. Hamlin sang several songs, by special request, which were a delight to her hearers.

Mrs. C. C. Dickey gave a delightful informal musicale at her home on North Cascade avenue Thursday evening. Mr. Francis Walker, the noted baritone, and Mrs. Hamlin were the vocalists of the evening. Miss Zellner and Mr. Zellner played selections for the piano and violin very finely. Mr. Harmon also contributed piano solos to the exceedingly enjoyable program. Sherbet and wafers were served to the guests.

Mrs. F. J. Ullrich entertained at ten Wednesday afternoon in her residence on North Nevada avenue, in compliment to Judge and Mrs. Septimus J. Hanna and their guest, Mrs. Robertson of Boston, Mass. The floral decorations consisted of many lovely pink roses. The refreshments were dispensed by Mrs. A. G. Sharp and Mrs. Charles Dickinson.

Dinners—Luncheons

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Connell for luncheon yesterday, at the Cheyenne Mountain Country club were Mr. and Mrs. McKensie of Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. Rushton and Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Chisholm. Variegated sweet peas were the floral decorations.

A charming dinner party was given Wednesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. J. Searle Barclay at their residence on North Cascade avenue. The guests were: Mr and Mrs. Courtlandt E. Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Brownell, Mr. and Mrs. A. ... Alvord, Mrs. Walter F. Crosby, Mrs. George Bradley, Mr. James P. Pomeroy and Mr. John Inglis. Pink and white carnations were used in ornamenting the table.

Mr. John Inglis entertained a number of friends at dinner on Thursday evening.

Red Rambler roses and red shades prettily decorated the table on Wednesday when Miss Virginia Estill gave a pretty informal luncheon at her home on East Willamette avenue in honor of Miss Parrish of Marshall, Mo. The color chosen, red, was carried out harmoniously in every detail of the repast. Besides Miss Estill and Miss Parrish, those present were: Misses Ethel Hawks, Madge Sill, Margaret Gowdy, Harriet Shaefor, Mary Strachan, Agnes Dorsey, Misses Wilcox and Stella Wilcox.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Searle Barclay entertained a party of ten at dinner Tuesday evening in elegant fashion. The floral decorations were of pink and white carnations and ferns. Those seated at table were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Cornell, Captain and Mrs. French, Mrs. Duncan Chisholm, Mrs. W. H. Leonard, Dr. B. P. Anderson, Mr. Horace K. Devereux and Mr. and Mrs. Barclay.

A charming little dinner party at the Antlers on Thursday evening preceding the hop included Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Giddings, Miss Giddings, Miss Thompson, Mr. McDonald and Mr. Ralston of Cripple Creek. After dinner the participants adjourned to the ballroom and joined the dancers.

Last Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Ryan, 1200 Wood avenue entertained at dinner. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. James F. Burns, Colonel Shannon and Dr. B. P. Anderson.

Major and Mrs. Thomas Anderson of Topeka, Kans. were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Craigue at dinner in their home last Thursday evening. The table was tastefully garnitured with beautiful La France roses.

A handsomely appointed dinner party was given by Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Brownell of Broadmoor last night. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lucius M. Cuthbert of Denver, Mr. and Mrs. J. Searle Barclay, Mr. and Mrs. George Bradley, Mrs. W. H. Leonard, Mrs. W. F. Crosby, Mr. Herbert N. Tod and Mr. Whipple.

Mrs. E. P. Ferris of Rapides parish, La., was the guest of honor at a dinner given Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Eaves, 1511 Wood avenue.

Mrs. Francis D. Pastorius entertained a few young ladies at a pretty luncheon Friday noon. Pink roses were used for the floral decorations. Mrs. Pastorius' guests were Misses Merrill, Tucker, Thomas, Linderfelt, Maal, Lockhart and Henry.

PARTIES

In compliment to her children, Mrs. Charles A. Baldwin entertained about 20 little people at her home on North Cascade avenue, yesterday afternoon. Several of Mrs. Baldwin's friends, were also invited in to witness the happiness of the little guests.

Laska, the marvel, was there to mystify with his sleight-of-hand; there were burros for those who wanted to ride or be photographed and everything possible was provided as entertainment.

Mrs. Edward A. Beecher entertained just a few friends at a porch party Wednesday morning at her charming home on Wood avenue. Among Mrs. Beecher's guests were Mrs. W. W. Postlethwaite, Mrs. H. S. Hayward, Mrs. C. L. Hemming, Mrs. A. H. Hunt, Mrs. Francis D. Pastorius and Miss Kyle.

In honor of Miss Louise Thomas of Ashland, Wis., and Miss Rosalie Merrill of Richmond, Va., Miss Linderfelt, who is the guest of Mrs. F. W. Goddard this summer, gave a delightful informal thimble party yesterday afternoon to a number of young ladies.

MRS. WHITE AND "LITTLE BILL,"

Wife and son of William Allen White, the Emporia, Kan., journalist and author.

Card Parties

The Misses Bassett of 1325 North Wahsatch, entertained at cards Thursday afternoon from 3 to 6, in honor of Miss Mary Potter, of St. Joseph, Mo., who is their guest for the summer.

Mrs. Frederick Priebe captured the first prize, Mrs. H. S. Hawks the second, while the consolation prize went to Mrs. W. J. Musick. The beautiful home was profusely decorated with sweet peas and nasturtiums, artistically arranged, and the score cards were painted in sweet peas by Miss Potter.

Miss Catherine Potter of St. Joseph kept the score and Miss Helen Allen of Kansas City assisted most gracefully in serving elegant refreshments. Those invited were Mesdames H. S. Hawks, C. V. Turner, M. Slaughter, P. M. Hall of Baltimore, Md., Irene Smith, Sharets, Bach, W. K. Argo, Gilbert McClurg, Donaghe, Crampton, Foltz, Davis, C. C. Hemming, C. L. Hemming, W. E. Riddle; Osborn, Benjamin Brewster, Bowers, Musick, Priebe, Walker, Tamm, Kester, J. A. Bassett, L. W. Bassett, the Misses Hawks, Slaughter, Hemming, Winifred Brown, Bessie Brown, Rohl Kester, Miebach, Woodson of Liberty, Mo., Eastman, Donaghe of Morristown, N. J., Conway of St. Joseph, Turner, Ethel Brown, Rowena Brown, Corinne Brown, McDonald, Catherine Potter of St. Joseph, Myron Davis, Helen Allen of Kansas City and Mr. C. A. Potter of St. Joseph. The Misses Bassett and Miss Potter will be at home on Tuesday afternoons.

A party of the friends of Mrs. Alfred Eaves, 1611 Wood avenue, made her a delightful surprise visit last Friday evening. The evening was passed in playing high-five. The hostess presented two lovely prizes, to Mrs. J. W. Atkinson a leather hand satchel, and to Mrs. E. P. Ferris a silk shawl. A delicious supper was served.

Among the participants were Mr. and Mrs. Eaves, Mrs. Ferris, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Handy, Mr. and Mrs. George Milone, Miss Lois Milone, Livingstone Ferris and Bryant Reinhardt.

Mrs. H. V. Wandell gave a very pleasant morning card party yesterday in honor of her guest, Miss Tyree of Virginia.

Several of the guests at the Cliff house, Manitou, participated in a card party on Monday evening. Progressive euchre was the highly enjoyed game.

Engaged—Married

The marriage of Miss Mary Emma McDowell and Mr. Albert S. Holbrook occurred Tuesday noon at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Matilda King McDowell, 223 North Weber street, the Rev. T. C. Kirkwood officiating. There were no attendants and only a few relatives and friends were the witnesses.

After the ceremony and congratulations, a dainty wedding breakfast was served. The apartments were decked with palms, peonies, sweet peas and other varieties of flowers. The breakfast table was garnitured with large vases of pink and white roses, ferns and sprengeri.

A stylish reception gown was worn by the bride, ciel blue Louisine silk with a hair cord of white and trimmings of cream applique insertion and lace.

Mr. and Mrs. Holbrook have gone to Denver for a few days. After July 20 they will be at home to their friends at 223 North Weber street, until their departure for their winter home at Santa Anna, Calif., early in August.

Many beautiful gifts were received by the bride, who has a wide circle of friends, as has Mr. Holbrook, who is one of the most prominent business men of Colorado Springs. He is the senior member of the firm of Holbrook & Perkins.

The wedding of Miss Lottie Allen and Mr. James W. Clark was quietly celebrated Wednesday noon in the home of the groom, 911 South Nevada avenue. Only the sisters of the groom and a few other friends were witnesses of the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Clark left shortly afterwards for a stay of several weeks in Kansas City. They will reside in this city upon their return. Many handsome gifts were received.

Miss Allen has for several years been an employe of the Colorado Telephone company in Colorado City and Colorado Springs. The groom has been a resident of Colorado City and Colorado Springs for over six years, during the past five of which he has been connected with the Colorado Midland as their local agent.

Miss Nellie A. Miles and James K. Cochran both of Chicago, Ill. were married last Tuesday afternoon at 1610 North Tejon street, the Rev. J. C. Rawlings of the M. E. church South, officiating. Only a few relatives and friends were the witnesses of the happy event. Mr. and Mrs. Cochran are staying in Manitou for a short time before returning to Chicago, their future home.

Miss Josie Long and Luther Walter Bell, well-known Colorado City young people, were united in marriage by Justice J. D. Faulkner at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. They intend residing in Colorado City.

Miss Lettie Beatrice Allen of Independence, Mo., and James William Clark of this city were married at the home of the groom, 911 South Nevada avenue, at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, the Rev. Dr. C. B. Wilcox, officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Clark will reside in this city upon their return from a trip to Kansas City.

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized Friday afternoon at the home of Miss Hill on Colorado avenue, when Miss Mabel Martin was married to William E. Powles, the Rev. Duncan-Lamont performing the ceremony. These young people are well known in Colorado City and quite a large number of their friends were present at the wedding.

Personal Mention

Mrs. L. A. Kidd-Key, wife of Bishop Key, one of the 10 bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, is staying at 802 North Tejon street during her vacation. She is president of the North Texas Female college, at Sherman, Texas. This is the largest school for girls in the south, and has the only conservatory of music south of Cincinnati. Mrs. Key is a typical lady of the old south, but is as energetic and progressive as the new woman of the north. Her daughter, Mrs. Kidd, and little granddaughter, Lucy, are with her.

Professor Trueblood, wife and daughter of Ann Arbor, Mich.; Professor Hamsher and wife of the University of Illinois; Prof. J. L. Sheldon and Miss Helen Woodsmall of the University of Nebraska, and C. R. Gault of Cleveland, O., are among the distinguished guests who have been at 802 North Tejon street thus far this season.

Mr. and Mrs. William O'Brien and Mr. and Mrs. J. Dawson Hawkins, baby and nurse left last Tuesday morning for the Pacific coast. They are now in San Francisco, but will go to Catalina island for a stay before returning home.

F. Baden-Powell of London, the well-known English artist, accompanied by Mrs. Baden-Powell has been a guest at the Antlers for several days while enjoying the sights in this locality. They are on a trip around the world, having traveled by actual count 31,000 of the 40,000 miles that they expect to travel before they arrive again in London.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Daniels of Boston, Mass. arrived in the city last Friday evening. Mrs. Daniels is the daughter of Mr. James P. Pomeroy, and during their stay of about a fortnight, Mr. and Mrs. Daniels will be the guests of Mr. Pomeroy in his home, 905 North Nevada avenue.

Mrs. Baldwin of Denver was a guest of her cousin, Mrs. R. J. Lowe, 620 N. Cascade avenue, for a few days last week. Mrs. Baldwin is the wife of General F. D. Baldwin, commander of the Department of Colorado, who has won great distinction during his military career.

Mrs. White and "Little Bill" the wife and son of William Allen White, of Emporia, Kan., the well-known journalist and author, is in the city visiting her relatives, Mrs. C. W. Graham, 410 North Weber street, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boynton, 1416 North Weber street.

Miss Mary Bassett Potter and her sister, Miss Catherine Potter with their brother, Mr. Caryl Ashby Potter of St. Joseph Mo., are guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bassett, 1325 North Wahsatch avenue, for the summer.

In their residence, "Hillcrest," Manitou, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Nichols, are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. James E. Caldwell, Jr., child and nurse, from Nashville, Tenn.

Miss M. Isabelle Blood of Galesburg, Ill., is expected tomorrow to visit Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Peckham, 720 North Nevada avenue. Miss Blood is an artist and she intends to pass the summer in sketching the local scenery.

Miss Everhart is still detained in the city, but she hopes to leave for the east on Wednesday next. She will join her friends at the sea side for the balance of the summer, returning by October, or sooner.

Mrs. D. K. Lee of Denver, who has been the guest of Mrs. A. H. Whalte through the week, returned home yesterday. Odette Whalte accompanied her and will visit the Lee family for a week or two.

Early this week Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Eaves will leave for the Hotel Colorado, Glenwood Springs. Before their return they propose traveling extensively for the benefit of Mrs. Eaves' health.

GRAND OPENING OF THE ... RADDE INSTITUTE OF PARIS

... Treat Tuberculosis and Diseases of the Respiratory Organs in Colorado Springs—Institute in Charge of Mme. Radde of Paris and Corps of Select Assistants—Method of Treatment

No more ideal location for institutions for treating Consumption Asthma Catarrh and other diseases of the respiratory organs could be found than this city

Situated as it is some 6000 feet above the sea the great plateau stretching a thousand miles to the east the lofty peaks of the Rocky Mountains rising from the city's western edge it has every natural advantage of pure fresh dry air good mountain water and a climate that permits of the great amount of outdoor living most essential to the well being of those afflicted with lung or throat troubles

Nature has done much in this respect and the wisdom of the founders of the ... realized the cause of health by making impossible the establishment of smoke producing factories and other enterprises inimical to health with ... incorporation limits For these reasons Colorado Springs has become a health resort known throughout the world and each year brings many thousand health seekers from all countries of the globe

The genius of man has ever been seeking artificial aids to the cure of consumption and among the number Francisque Crotte, a chemist of Paris, de- ... glass windows admitting a soft pleasing light The floor is covered with linoleum of novel design giving it the effect of an expensive carpet but used instead of carpet on account of its cleanliness

Adjoining this room is a private reception room also lighted by stained glass (which by the way are placed in the lower sash of all the windows of the Institute) the furniture is light and finished in ... while gold while the same pattern of linoleum in the main reception room covers the floor

Leaving through these rooms one enters the

Transfusing Room

in which stands the great Static Electric machine ... especially for the Crotte Radde Institutes and capable of generating millions of volts

Other furnishings attracting the eye consist of tables for medicine racks for bandages and instruments and a scale for weighing the patients which is done each week in order to note the progress being made

Opening into this room is the

for patients and doctors and one becomes at once impressed by the decorative use to which white has been put throughout the building This room is the tasteful manner in which all these rooms are furnished

We shall watch with interest the progress of the Institute here and its method of treatment and frequent accounts of its work will from time to time be presented in these columns The method of treatment as described by Mme Radde is here given

The Treatment

The interesting and satisfactory factor about this method is the treatment that is employed It consists in transfusing through the pores of the skin a medicine that is particularly destructive to the bacilli There has always been great difficulty in getting medicines into the system that would effectually destroy the bacilli and at the same time make the lungs healthy and strong This is accomplished by the Crotte method Static electricity is employed in the process of transfusion

One can hardly understand how this can be done until they see it applied Instead of sending the current of electricity through the body as one would naturally suppose the patient is saturated with the transfusion by the electricity to such an extent that the patient tastes the medicine and feels it all through the system giving a very pleasant sensation

A good deal has been said recently

Branch of the Crotte Radde Institute which conveys a good idea of it ... or a physician in New York in one of the hospitals who injected formaldehyde into the circulation of a patient who was almost dead with septic fever This could no doubt be done in the case of a very sick person but in the case of one who is suffering from only a mild sepsis as is the case in the first and second stage of consumption the treatment would be dangerous However by the Crotte method the medicine is so diffused through the system that no harm is done to the blood but the spores or germs from which the bacilli originate are destroyed

The treatment is given every other day at the Institute In addition to this an inhaling apparatus is used that saturates the residual air of the lungs keeping up the process of antiseptic treatment four times a day The residual air in other words the air that is continually in the lungs is made healthful and pure instead of being saturated with the poisons in the ... the disease ... with ... patients The effect of the treatment is really wonderful The patient feels strong and invigorated right from the start The appetite is increased the ... chills and night sweats quickly overcome and the patient begins to gain in flesh and strength and in a very few ... feels like a new creature As a rule by this method the bacilli are removed from the lungs in from one to three months and the lungs are very quickly restored to their normal condition The disease is so perfectly eliminated from the system that the patient can live in a low altitude without any risk whatever In fact all of the cures that have been made by this treatment have been made in low altitudes

This is not a new treatment It has been in use in France for several years and is a remarkable success Four thousand six hundred patients were treated by it in Paris alone during the year of 1902 and 3000 of the number were discharged cured This is certainly an unparalleled record Patients that were cured seven or eight years ago are still well and entirely free from the disease [illegible] Copper Company Acquires Additional Land and Water Rights, and Breaks Ground for [illegible]-Ton Plant Near Bingham.

The ground has been broken for the new plant of the Utah Copper company, which will be located about two miles north of Bingham, and about 14 miles from Salt Lake City on the Bingham branch of the Rio Grande Western road The initial plant of the company, it was announced yesterday, will have a capacity of 700 tons a day, instead of 500 tons, as was at first contemplated. The initial plant will be completed within five months at the latest It will be partially of steel construction, the larger plant the company will erect will be built entirely of steel

On his last trip to Utah President C M MacNeill closed negotiations for property covering the entire Bingham canon, for a distance of two miles A portion of this ground is placer The West Mountain placer as it was known comprises 300 acres and was owned by John Dern, president of the Mercur company at Mercur, Utah and associates The Utah Copper company in addition to purchasing the ground protected itself by buying up all the water rights The mine is two and one-half or three miles south of the plant

It is announced that the active superintendent in Utah will be Frank G Janney, who has just resigned the management of the De La Mar-Nevada company to take charge of the new work

The company has secured offices in Salt Lake City in the McCornick building and the staff has been partially selected by D C Jackling who is general manager of the new company as well as manager of the Canon City plant known as the United States Smelting company Mr Jackling will have charge in a general way of the Utah operations of the company

The general office of the Utah Copper company as has been announced, will be maintained in Colorado Springs The officers are C M MacNeill president C L Tutt vice president Spencer Penrose secretary-treasurer F A Gillespie assistant secretary-treasurer D C Jackling general manager The directors are C M MacNeill Spencer Penrose R A F Penrose Jr, Charles L Tutt and D C Jackling

NEW FIND ON PROGRESS

Lessee Manning and Associates Are Extracting Fair Tonnage of Two-Ounce Ore From Well-Known Gold Hill Property—Renewed Excitement Around Gillett and West Slope of Pike's Peak.

Special to the Gazette

Cripple Creek, July 18 —Manning & company, operating two blocks of ground on the Progress property on Gold hill are hoisting ore from the old incline shaft on the north end of the property that is expected to run between $30 and $40 to the ton This ore is being broken at a depth of 40 feet from a body of ore left there by the operators who sunk the shaft some years ago The ore streak is two and one-half feet wide. McKinnon & company, who are operating in the vertical shaft which was recently subleased to McKinnon & company, are pushing development work on the same vein from which Manning & company are breaking their ore These lessees are now saving a shipment which will be sent out in a few days Considerable ore has been shipped from these two shafts in the past years

At Gillett.

In the Gillett section work still continues and many companies are making arrangements to erect cyanide mills on their properties Good news was received today from Cow mountain and the west slope of Pike's Peak John W Fleetmeyer who owns 30 acres in the Bison park section, visited his property yesterday and says it is now his intention to immediately erect a 50-ton cyanide mill to handle the immense bodies of low grade ore Mr Fleetmeyer has made numerous tests on the ores of this section in the past three years and is satisfied that he has a paying proposition Mr Gamble brought to town a number of samples of ore from his claims on the west slope of Pike's Peak and reports that the stuff assays $20 to the ton The ore has the color and weight of cinnabar and shows some very handsome specimens Little is being said regarding the section in which he and others are prospecting although high grade assays are being secured from many properties The new section lies between West Beaver and Oil creeks and is above timberline

Lessee Tiber operating the main workings of the Gold Sovereign on Bull hill, has been troubled a great deal by bad air in the lower level where his best ore lies The air has been so bad the past few days that he has not been able to carry out his work Monday he will install a five horse power blower on the seventh level and pipe the air to the eighth and believes this will clear the mine of bad air

Elkton

W H Clements operating the Tornado of the Elkton company under lease is pushing the work of developing the recent find in the seventh level So far the ore shoot has been proved up 60 feet long and is improving with every shot The high grade streak in the center of the vein will average four inches wide while the vein is between four and five feet wide and the screenings across this body are running $80 to the ton The best ore is coming from the ninth level where the lessee has a two-and-a half foot vein that is running in the neighborhood of $100 a ton in car lots Lessee Clements is shipping close to 200 tons a month that is netting him between $60 and $80 a ton

Good Shipments

A few of the shipments sent out from camp today are the following Jones & company sent out 20 tons of two-ounce ore from the 400 foot level of the Half Moon of the Matoa Langstaff & company operating a lease on the Pueblo claim of the Free Coinage company sent out two cars of $25 ore today, the Practical Leasing company operating the Trachyte claim of the United Gold Mines company sent out two cars of $30 ore C F Perkins operating the Compromise claim of the Trachyte is installing an electric hoist on his lease

Golden Cycle

The new ore houses of the Golden Cycle company are nearly completed and when finished will have a capacity of several thousand tons

GOLDEN CYCLE'S BIG DIVIDEND FOR JULY

Notice was posted at the mining exchange yesterday to the effect that the Golden Cycle company will pay a dividend of 3 cents July 25 being the distribution of profits for the current month The books close to the transfer of stock on July 21 It amounts to $45 000

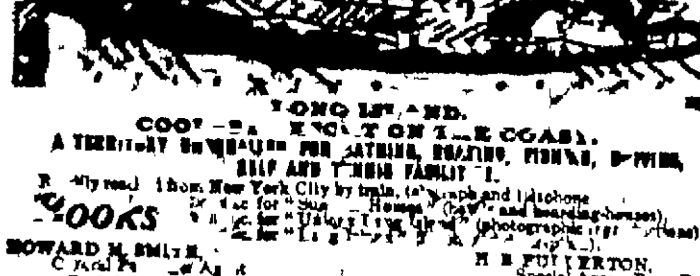

A director of the company when asked whether this dividend would be the last for some time, in view of the resolution authorizing the accumulation of a surplus for building a mill said 'At a meeting of the board of directors held just prior to the special stockholders meeting it was decided to pay a 3-cent dividend for July No action was taken in reference to what the policy for the future should be in matters of dividends At the stockholders meeting a resolution was passed authorizing the board to commence the accumulation of a surplus fund with which to build our own mill or buy stock or bonds in another mill if it is best to do so No special time was set when this should be done so that I cannot say what relation it would bear to the matter of dividends from now on.'

[illegible]CAN A W[illegible] STA[illegible] NEW PLANT MONDAY

The new $10 000 equipment of the Lucania Transportation Tunnel Mining & Development company will be set in motion at the Idaho Springs property in Clear Creek tomorrow morning The new plant has been several months in building, the last portions being put in place yesterday and consists of a large Rand Imperial compressor, capable of running four large or six small air drills and a 100-horse power boiler, together with adequate buildings to house the plant

Frank J Lilly a director of the company, stated yesterday 'The tunnel is now in 480 feet this distance having been accomplished by hand but on Monday we will resume work with the new and powerful steam plant which we have just completed installing With it we should be able to make seven to eight feet a day, breaking the bore x8 feet in the clear On the way in the company has opened eight veins already, none of which has been developed although a splendid showing has been made on several of them The objective point of our tunnel is Russell gulch and then Quartz Hill and on the way in we will cut some of the most famous veins in the Idaho Springs section from which millions have been extracted The tunnel will cut the noted Kinda vein 1 600 feet in the Specie Payment which is one of the most important in the district the Great Gem 6,000 feet in and others as the region which we explore is a network of rich veins From the next quarter of a mile beyond our present heading we will run through our own territory developing in that distance the first group of our properties The company owns 150 acres of ground"

STRATTON'S INDEPENDENCE

As the date for the reassembling of the shareholders of Stratton's Independence approaches interest increases in the prospect of the dividend asked for at the general meeting held May 22 On that date an adjournment for two months was taken to allow the board of directors time in which to look over the affairs of the company and determine whether it would be advisable to declare a dividend of 6 per cent on the stock as requested by the shareholders

The Mining Journal of England in commenting upon this matter has the following to say

There are rumors that the directors intend to disregard the expression of opinion at the meeting of May 22 and that they will pay no dividend but proceed with the purchase of a new property If the directors have the voting strength they [illegible] disregard the meeting so far as the payment of a dividend is concerned There may be a question as to whether they can legally invest the company's money in another property and if they do the shareholders it is to be hoped that some one will have spirit to appeal to the courts After all though there was much noise at the meeting the opposition seemed somewhat unreal and unless some organization of the shareholders develops I think the directors will be able to go their own way

DOCTOR-JACK POT ELECTS OFFICERS

The directors of the Doctor-Jack Pot [illegible] Mining company [illegible] last night in the offices of the Woods Investment company in this city and elected officers for the ensuing year as follows A [illegible] Carlton president Warrie Woods vice president F M Woods [illegible] general manager and T H Hollis secretary The board of directors was [illegible] several months [illegible] but was delayed in getting together for the election of the officers until last night

The property of this company is the scene of a new strike of unusual importance The find was made on the Smith and Altman lease of the Eliza-beth Cooper property where [illegible] feet of [illegible] have been exposed alongside of the old Riley [illegible] So far but one wall has been found and altogether the [illegible] of [illegible] is indicated [illegible] the statement that [illegible] portion of the vein is yielding a quantity of ore that will run from four to seven ounces to the ton while the entire mass is mineralized

WOODS SAYS [illegible] FAKE"

F M Woods general manager of the Woods Investment company last night entered an emphatic denial to the report that the [illegible] syndicate had taken over the [illegible] mine at Yankee Colo [illegible] $ [illegible] for that matter [illegible] other sum Mr Woods was seen at midnight and said

'There is nothing in the report We have not bought the mine nor have we ever had any negotiations for it The report was in a state paper this week that we had purchased the property but it was absolutely false

Mr Woods was most emphatic in his denial

A Denver afternoon paper stated yesterday that Peter Sweeney who was at one time manager of the [illegible] property was the [illegible] for the statement that the Woods syndicate had purchased the mine paying therefor $700 000 It was further stated that exhaustive tests had been made on the ores of the mine by the local mining men and everything found to be satisfactory and the proposition so attractive as to cause them to take it up at half a million dollars

EASTERN MARKETS

STOCK LETTER.

From J S Bache & Co, to Otis & Hough, Bankers and Brokers, 127 Pike's Peak Ave.

New York July 18 —The opening was quiet and uncertain London sent irregular quotations for American securities New York Central was supported on the idea that Mr Vanderbilt in taking active charge would benefit the property in a marked degree There was an appearance of short covering in St Paul and views of the northwest crop reports were more hopeful

From Harriman & Co —There is no reason to believe we are going to have a bull market at this time We believe however that we have seen practically the lowest prices that we shall have a gradual improvement from now on although it may be fractional for some time to come

From Dick Bros & Co —Opening prices in most cases were the best of the morning Amalgamated showed a loss of nearly 1⅞ from the opening Bank statement was favorable as respecting the increase in the reserve and the gain in cash The market closed heavy in tone

From Walker Bros —There was some profit taking this morning and prices eased off a point in some cases Market ruled generally dull Bank statement about reflected expectations and may be regarded as encouraging

Chicago July 18 [illegible] market [illegible] about [illegible] There is nothing new in the situation Foreign markets [illegible] but a little lower [illegible] a waiting mood The estimate of the trade [illegible] well [illegible] the prospect of the new crop [illegible] will [illegible] moderate [illegible] The wheat [illegible] fine quality [illegible] that forces the mills are bare of stock [illegible] mind from this quarter [illegible] in every market This is a good deal of talk about falling off [illegible] less but exports are not equal to the volume of the trade as formerly [illegible] any event [illegible] others [illegible] is the [illegible] We [illegible] in the condition to [illegible] low the present price [illegible] might make it still higher

Corn Market is [illegible] and lower Cash situation [illegible] than [illegible] [illegible] bullish Everything depends [illegible] the weather for the next few weeks [illegible] [illegible] this [illegible] would [illegible] but probabilities [illegible] it will [illegible] the situation in this way we naturally feel a little bearish on corn

Oats The [illegible] situation is [illegible] Manipulation of July which we think is concealed obscures the real condition to some extent but the prices at which the offerings are selling [illegible] little room for doubt that at the moment the supply is in excess of the demand We advise selling oats on the hard spots

Provisions—Market is heavy and dragging Receipts liberal quality continues fine and every indication of plenty more to come There is a slight improvement in the cash demand We would advise selling provisions on the hard spots

BURLINGTON ROUTE TOURIST CAR SERVICE

The Burlington announces that beginning the 18th inst a daily tourist sleeper will be operated in both directions between Denver and Chicago on train No 2 east bound leaving Denver 10 p m and train No 3 west bound leaving Chicago 10 30 p m Cars have been definitely ordered into the service and are the best ever built by the Pullman company A uniformed Pullman porter accompanies each car and passengers are thus assured the same attention as if they occupied a berth in the standard sleeper while the rates are much less For instance $1 over night as against $2 in standard $1 50 Denver to Omaha as against $3 50 in standard $2 50 Denver to Chicago, as against $6 in standard etc Each berth accommodates two persons if desired without any extra charge

These cars are not so expensively finished nor so fine to look at as a palace sleeper but are just as good to ride in They have clean linen clean bedding good ventilation and neat wash and toilet rooms and are in every way just as comfortable as a palace sleeper This new feature of travel will be appreciated by the Colorado people who have hitherto been obliged to depend upon the service offered by the through sleepers from California which has been more or less unsatisfactory owing to the uncertainty of making connections in Denver Now one can go to Denver and be sure of a berth in a nice clean tourist sleeper, because the cars are made up at Denver Write G W Vallery, General Agent, Denver for reservations

VIA THE COLORADO & SOUTHERN RAILWAY.

C & S—Reduced rates to all points east and west When going east, we can route you via Burlington, Union Pacific, Rock Island and Missouri Pacific

IMPORTANT CHANGE.
The Rocky Mountain Limited via the Rock Island System leaves Colorado Springs at 11 45 a m instead of 1 20 p m as heretofore It reaches Chicago the following afternoon in ample time for connections with fast trains east thus making the trip to New York, Boston and other Atlantic seaboard territory with only two nights out Secure sleeping car reservations through to destination and tickets at lowest rates at city ticket office, No 2 Pike's Peak avenue.

Will Investigate Books of County and City Officers---Democratic Members of State Senate to Hold Caucus to Plan Course for Extra Session.

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, July 18.—The caucus of Republican members of the house this evening was purely informal owing to the fact that many members did not reach the city. Nothing was done in regard to filling the several places at the gift of the house. Owing to the appointment of Mr. Vivian to the office of surveyor general, the chief clerkship must be filled and prominent among the candidates for position are Charles H. Scott, R. C. Blair and W. N. Hamilton. It is reported that if the appropriation bill is speedily disposed of Governor Peabody will yield to the pressure brought to bear upon him and will issue a supplemental call for a session at which an eight-hour bill will be considered.

Senator F. F. Graves, as chairman, has issued a call for a caucus of Democratic members of the senate to meet at the Democratic club tomorrow night at 8 o'clock for the purpose of arranging a plan of action during the special session.

To Summon Grand Jury.

District Attorney Lindsley today announced that as a result of the reports of the experts who have been investigating the books of the several county and city officers, he will ask the judge of the criminal court to summon a special grand jury to investigate. Among the offices involved are those of the county clerk, and county commissioners. It is declared that members of the legislature charged with having received bribes for their vote on the eight-hour law at the regular session will also be investigated.

To Enforce Voting.

It is the intention of the members of the charter convention to so arrange the balloting for city officers that not only will it be possible to have the electors vote for the best men irrespective of the party name, but also to compel, under penalty all electors to register and vote. The party names will be left off the ballot, making it impossible to vote a straight ticket by writing the name at the top of the ballot. The voter will have to make a cross opposite each name he desires to vote for. The proposed penalty for failure to vote without good and reasonable excuse is $2.

Inheritance Tax.

Attorney General Miller today declared that he would ask the legislature to appropriate enough money to enable the state treasurer to engage an agent for the collection of the inheritance tax. The law does not require the state treasurer to collect the money, this being left to county judges and treasurers. As there is no provision to compel those officers to collect the tax the state has no means of enforcing the law. It is estimated by the state treasurer that with an inheritance tax collected the treasury for the current year would be the gainer by something over $430,000.

Mr. Bryan Addresses Democracy [illegible]

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Chicago, July 18.—William J. Bryan addressed several thousand enthusiastic Democrats at the Chicago Democracy picnic at Brand's park today. He was received with cheers and waving of hats when he stepped upon the platform. After a short introductory speech by Mayor Harrison, Mr. Bryan spoke and was frequently interrupted by applause. In his address he made special reference to the possible candidacy of Grover Cleveland in 1904 and the latter and his supporters were excoriated by the speaker.

Mr. Bryan arrived in Chicago early in the day and was escorted by the Chicago Democracy Marching club to the auditorium, where a reception was tendered all the speakers of the day. After luncheon and a parade through the streets, 50 trolley cars bore the Democrats to the picnic grounds. Other speakers who followed Mr. Bryan were Mayor Reed of Kansas City, Jeremiah B. Sullivan of Iowa, D. J. Campau of Michigan and T. E. Ryan of Wisconsin.

Charles A. Walsh of Iowa was absent and his address was read by City Clerk Edward M. Lahiff.

The subject of Mr. Bryan's speech was: "The Democratic Ideal." He said in part:

"An ideal is as important to a party as to an individual, and must in the end determine not only the party's character, but the party's destiny. The party ideal is the ideal of those who dominate its counsels and control its action; and in any party worthy to be called Democratic, the controlling force should be a majority of the voters of the party.

"A democratic party seeks to administer the government according to democratic principles, and its ideal of a free government is a government in which every department, executive, legislative and judicial, is administered according to the doctrine of equal rights to all and special privileges to none.

"A party with such an ideal is more closely scrutinized and more quickly criticised than a party which makes no pretension, because the world is inclined to measure a party by the standard which it sets up for itself. A party really democratic cannot do what another party might do with impunity because its own teachings will be turned upon its conduct and hypocrisy added to its other sins.

"Never before in the history of the country has there been greater need for a democratic party with a truly democratic ideal. The aristocracy which Hamilton led against the Democracy of Jefferson's day and the plutocracy which Nick Biddle led against the Democracy of Jackson's day have combined to assault the Democracy of the present day and these assaults are supported by a metropolitan press that is subservient to capital and more widely read than the papers of 1800 or 1832.

"In 1896 the Republican party, under the leadership of Mark Hanna, became the open ally of organized wealth, and a victory was secured by the use of means, which, when known, must be repugnant to every believer in the doctrine of self-government. The purchase of votes and the coercion of employes—all these things were resorted to with an audacity never known in this country before. As a result of that election Mammon was enthroned, the manufacturers were permitted to write the tariff schedules without regard to the interests of the consumers, the financiers were allowed to dictate the policy of the treasury without regard to the interests of the country at large and the trust magnates were permitted to bankrupt rivals, stifle competition, and extort without limit. When the Spanish war occurred the syndicates in complete possession of the United States reached out for new fields to conquer, and they are now using the American army and a carpet bag government to exploit the inhabitants of the Philippine islands, whose reverence for our institutions has thus been converted into hatred for our flag.

"Surely if there ever was a time when the preaching of the Democratic gospel ought to be opportune now is the time. The character of our party is to be determined by the manner in which it meets an opportunity and the manner in which it meets an opportunity will be determined by the ideal that dominates it. Will our party hesitate or take counsel of its fears? Will it abandon its championship of the people's interest in the hope of conciliating relentless foes or of purchasing a few offices with campaign contributions that carry with them an obligation to be made good out of the pockets of the people?

"The Democratic party must appeal to the democratic sentiment of the country and this sentiment is far wider than any party. Wherever the question has been submitted in such a way that it could be acted upon independently there has always been a overwhelming majority in favor of that which was democratic and our party can appeal successfully to this democratic spirit if we but convince the people of our earnestness and of our fidelity to those principles.

"We are handicapped just now by the fact that the last Democratic administration that we had was more subservient to corporate dictation than any Republican administration that had preceded it and the record of that administration has been a millstone about the party's neck ever since. The influence exerted by Wall street over the administration's policy, the use of patronage to reward those who betrayed their constituents, and the employment of the most reprehensible of Republican methods, made the administration a stench in the nostrils of the people and kept in the Republican party many who were disgusted at that party's course. The odium which Mr. Cleveland's second administration brought upon the party which elected him did more to defeat the party than any one plank of the Chicago platform or even than all the planks that were most severely criticised. But for the repudiation of the administration it would have been impossible to make any campaign at all and even the repudiation, thorough and complete as it was, could not completely disinfect the party.

"The greatest menace that the party has to meet today is not the probability, but the possibility, of the party's return to the position that it occupied from 1892 to 1896. This danger is not so imminent as the corporation-controlled papers make it appear, but in so far as it all threatens, it paralyzes the energies of the party and nullifies its promises. Such a return would indicate a degradation of the party's ideals and a perversion of its purposes.

"If the Democratic party will stand erect, face the future with confidence, defend the rights of the people and protect their interests wherever attacked—whether the attack comes from the financiers, the monopolies, the tariff barons or from the imperialists—it can look with confidence for a revolution of sentiment that will give us a victory worth having, and this victory when it comes will no end, as the victory of 1892 did, in the demoralization of the party, but in the building up of a Democratic organization which will deal aggressively with all of the evils of government and build its bulwark in the affections and confidence of the masses."

Cheerfully Recommended for Rheumatism.

O. G. HIGBEE, Danville, Ill., writes, Dec. 2, 1901: "About two years ago I was laid up for four months with rheumatism. I tried Ballard's Snow Liniment; one bottle cured me. I can cheerfully recommend it to all suffering from like affliction." 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by Hefley-Arcularius Drug Co.

Complaint and Petition for Receiver Filed in District Court at Cripple Creek.

Special to the Gazette.

Cripple Creek, July 18.—In the district court today a complaint and petition for a receiver was filed by S. H. Guybt vs. the Surety Mining company. The complaint recites that J. N. Carleton, S. H. Hover and W. L. Knox, officers of the company, have misappropriated certain funds of the company and consequently prays that a receiver be appointed to take charge of the affairs of the company, and further that he take charge of the assets of the company and apply the same to the debts of the company and that he be authorized to continue the business of the company according to the order of the court.

Monuments for Veterans.

Ten monuments arrived this morning from Washington, D. C., to John W. Anderson post, G. A. R., to be placed over the graves of union soldiers buried at Mt. Pisgah cemetery. The headstones are handsome pieces of workmanship and weigh 165 pounds each. They will be erected tomorrow by the post with suitable exercises.

More Excursions.

The Short Line brought in two sections of excursionists composed of members of the Manitou and Colorado Springs St. Andrew's guild of the Episcopal church.

Today makes the eight consecutive day that two excursion parties have been landed in camp by the Short Line, numbering in all nearly 6,000 people.

Failed to Agree.

The jury in the case of George Wilson against the Short Line road, failed to reach an agreement. Judge Cunningham discharged the jury. The plaintiff was suing for $5,000 for injuries received last February by being hit by an electric car near the Santa Rita mine. Wilson received serious injuries to his back.

Eagles Won.

At Union park this afternoon about 500 people witnessed the ball game between the Central City and the District Eagle nines, which resulted in a complete victory for the local boys.

At the end of the fifth inning Leidinger of the visitors was struck on the side of the head by a pitched ball by McClosky which put him out of the game. Several stitches were required to close the wound. Score by innings:

Eagles ..... 0 0 0 2 0 1 1 0 8—9

Batteries—Eagles, McClosky and Elliott; Central City, Leidinger, Lucas and Maloney.

[illegible] Ordinance Will Be Enforced as Soon as Ten-Day Publication Expires.

Special to the Gazette.

Victor, July 18.—The city council, believing that wine rooms are a detriment to the city, is preparing to put in force a law that will close them effectually. A spirit of opposition has developed and it is stated that the new reform movement will be fought to the limit. The ordinance which the city council has ordered published will become operative soon after the expiration of the 10 days' publication notice as required by law, as an emergency is declared to exist, and there is but little reason to doubt that the council will carry out its plan to pass the ordinance and instruct the police to abide by its provisions as soon as possible.

Runaway Freight Cars.

Two Short Line freight cars ran away near the town of Independence this morning and entered the Last Dollar switch, colliding with two loaded ore cars. One of the empty freight cars was completely demolished and thrown to the side of the track, a mass of kindling wood. Although there were men on the runaway cars, as well as in the Last Dollar cars, no one was hurt.

Sampson Recovered.

Victor Sampson, who fell down a Portland mine winze several weeks ago and received a fractured collar bone and concussion of the brain, was discharged from the Victor hospital today.

Rice Seriously Ill.

W. G. Rice, manager of the Stratton estate, is lying at his home at Summit in a serious condition. He was taken ill at Cripple Creek, Tuesday, and has been confined to his bed ever since and will be taken to the valley as soon as he recovers sufficiently to stand the trip.

Wants New Trial.

L. E. McGarry of Goldfield, who was recently given damages in the sum of $2,000 for injuries received a year ago last June on the Midland, will make application for a new trial. He will ask for $50,000.

Cottage Burned.

The four-room cottage of Mrs. J. Lehman, located three blocks from the center of town, was totally destroyed by fire tonight. The fire was caused by a child throwing a lighted match into the lace curtains. The loss was $1,500, with $500 insurance.

Club Election.

The District of Cripple Creek club met at the Baltimore hotel and elected the following officers: Honorary president, Thomas Cornish; president, L. R. Vaughn; vice president, F. J. Parkinson; secretary and treasurer, W. W. Fife. About 30 new members were taken into the club.

L. D. Arthur Dead.

T. F. Mayer, secretary of the Elks lodge received word tonight of the death of L. D. Arthur, late president of the Arthur Lumber company of this city. The deceased had been confined in the St. Joseph hospital in Denver for the past month, where several operations had been performed for appendicitis. The body will be brought to this city for burial and the funeral will probably be held under the auspices of the local Elks lodge.

Government Will Insist on Pay for Coal Land

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Pueblo, July 18.—Special Agent Max Pracht of the United States land office is authority for the statement that the government will not allow the contest cases over the Las Animas coal lands to be dropped, but will insist that all the land in question that has been proved to be coal land be paid for at the rate of $20 per acre. Mr. Pracht says that other corporations beside the Colorado Fuel & Iron company and Utah Fuel company will be involved and he anticipates one of the largest contests in the history of the land office.

ELKS MAKING BIG PREPARATIONS FOR SHOW

"I'll Be Your Rainbow."

Preparations for the Elks' big musical comedy, "A Night in Bohemia," are going on daily and the rehearsals are largely attended. The entire cast will be completed this week and all the big specialty numbers given out. While "A Night in Bohemia" is a roaring comedy and embraces over 30 songs, dances and specialties, still it does not lose sight of "that little touch of nature that makes the whole world kin," and in the second act, where the old Bohemian dreams by the fire and the curtains part, disclosing a little country church with the surpliced choir singing the Psalms, a bit of sentiment is shown that touches the hearts of all.

D. A. Gilmore will play the part of Dusty Rhodes the tramp manager of a defunct farce comedy company, and his scene in the first act, where he tells Officer Calli an a burlesque story of his life, is very funny. He will sing an original song teeming with local and topical hits. Messrs. Trux Morris, Jim Thornton, Poinier, Hart, Hamilton, Baker, Strain, Zeiger, Rouse, Reynolds, Morgan, James and Hye are all rapidly falling into their various stunts and those who have seen rehearsals say it will beat half the professional shows that come our way. Big rehearsal Monday night at Majestic hall and the committee desires all to be present.

WHISTLER MOURNED BY THOSE WHO KNEW HIM IN COLORADO SPRINGS

The announcement of the death of James Abbott McNeill Whistler, the best-known of American artists, came with particular interest and regret to several Colorado Springs people who had met the "inimitable" Whistler. His work is well known in Colorado Springs, in one private gallery, that of A. Van Vechten, there hangs a valuable set of Whistler etchings.

Anecdotes and incidents were related yesterday by those who had met him or who know the products of his studio. It was recalled that his influence in Japanese art made painters in American and Europe study that art more closely; the man's genius-touched brush in the massing of light and shade, his harmony of color, have been commented on for years when the reason for his world-wide success has been sought.

Probably no American artist has had such an interesting personality. Although he took a two years' course at West Point and received his first training here, for years he was not recognized as an American artist; yet he was the pioneer of what is today recognized as distinctively "American art." He was a great follower of Velasquez; in the last 15 years Whistler has been followed by Sargent and Abbey. Accompanying the genius-stroke of his brush was a marvellous mastery of etching. His life was a busy one. Of two books that he wrote, one, "The Gentle Art of Making Enemies," chronicling, as it did, all his squabbles with the public "and others," added somewhat to his fame in a new channel. "The Baronet and the Butterfly," which set forth mercilessly his bitter dispute with Sir William Eden, turned the laugh and the amused scorn of the world against the Englishman who endeavored to "beat" the artist. He maintained, although considerably past 60, his virility to the end.

Henry Russell Wray is one of the few Americans who know Whistler; probably the only one resident of Colorado Springs who has dined with or entered into the home life of the great artist. Mr. Wray was in Paris in May, 1899, and at that time saw much of Whistler.

He recalls him as being of a height of 5 feet 3 inches, with very small feet, a large monocle and dressed immaculately. On the lapel of his coat he wore the red button of the Legion of Honor. He talked with a pronounced English accent. One of the characteristic features of his appearance was the one white lock, visible from all points of view, that stuck up from a crown of hair that was a chestnut brown in color.

Mr. Wray was in Paris with James Beaumont Noyes, of Copley print fame. Mr. Noyes was endeavoring to secure from Whistler the right to reproduce some of his paintings in the soft and remarkably faithful gray of the Boston art prints. With the letters that Noyes had, it was not as difficult as it might otherwise have been to meet the artist. The two Americans were ushered into the studio.

Mr. Wray's confession is that his first impression was that Whistler was affected, and the man from Colorado regarded curiously the languid shake of the hand as the artist stood on tiptoe and adjusted his monacle. His manners, however, were graciousness itself. A day or so after he called on Mr. Wray and Mr. Noyes at the Hotel des Trois Princes. He talked much of the west, was interested in finding that in Colorado, of which he confessed himself delightfully ignorant, that "The Baronet and the Butterfly" had been read. Adjourning to a cafe celebrated among Americans in Paris, the three countrymen talked for hours. They sent out for Messenger and procured two copies of the book and the author cut the leaves and read the volume—it is not long—commenting as he read. The three became very good friends. Mr. Wray remembers that, noticing the Legion of Honor button, he asked what it meant, and Whistler replied:

"It is the only great distinction that a great painter may accept from a great country."

He told of his experiences at West Point and, the monocle forgotten, exclaimed that nothing in the world could tempt him to give up his experiences there or his American birth.

"I am an American to the core!" he exclaimed.

He won the suit brought against Sir William Eden, after challenging him in his book in which he exposed the baronet's pettiness. He did something that he is blessed for by every artist in France. The litigation ended in adding another article to the Napoleonic code, so that it is now the law in France that when a portrait is painted and sold by an artist, and is used only as an advertisement or a commercial commodity, in other words, a base use is being made of it, he has the right to demand its return upon refunding the purchase price. If it is not returned, the law will see that the artist gets it.

COUNCIL MEETING

The city council will meet tomorrow night, and a number of important questions will come up for action. The automobile and wide-tire ordinances will come up for consideration, the sidewalk obstruction ordinance, the ordinance stipulating a license for junk dealers and requiring them to keep a register, and the ordinances stipulating for the sale of the city hall and water extension bonds, will come up for passage.

The sewer committee is expected to report on the sewage proposition made by Messrs. Stark and Johnston in connection with the Fountain beet sugar deal, and a vote by the council may be taken adopting the proposition. The public grounds and buildings committee will report unfavorably on the Pettingill proposition for the purchase of South Cheyenne canon by the city, which report, in turn, will doubtless be concurred in.

Bids will be opened for the contract work connected with the interior finish of the new city hall. These bids will be in the vicinity of $20,000, and several contractors will have bids on hand. Among them will be a bid by Lynn S. Atkinson, who is now completing the outside work. The city attorney and city engineer will be authorized to proceed with the securing of a right of way for the pipe line to be laid from the highline reservoir to the city water mains. It is understood that a resolution will also be introduced by Chairman Dunbar of the finance committee, formally renouncing the bill of Gustav Krause to the amount of $150, for services rendered in connection with the experting of the books of ex-Treasurer Moses Hale.

Lieutenant Samuel B. Scholz of Red Oak, Iowa, who has seen service in the Philippines, will be elected captain of company I. Lieutenant Scholz passed the required examination and as a petition has been circulated asking for his appointment he will probably be elected by acclamation. The election, however, is but a formality.

There are a number of applicants from among the members of each company for the position of second lieutenant in their respective companies. The resignation of Lieutenant Blum C. Joy of company D and the promotion of Lieutenant Barber of company I leaves the position of second lieutenant vacant in each company.

GROUND BROKEN FOR BUILDING

Ground has been broken for the new Evangelical church at the corner of Wahsatch avenue and Uintah street, the ceremony having been performed by Rev. C. S. Steinmetz, the pastor of the church. The members have been meeting, since the organization of the society, one year ago, at 209 East Rio Grande street. Special thanks is extended by the members of the church to those whose liberality has made the new edifice possible. Among those to whom thanks is thus extended is General Palmer, who donated the ground on which the new church will stand. The church now numbers 50 communicants, and it is expected that this number will be doubled as soon as the new building is ready for occupancy.

NEWS GATHERED IN THE COURTS

The demurrer filed in the case of John D. O'Haire vs. J. V. Venutta et al, will be argued Monday, July 27.

There will be no motions heard in either the civil or criminal divisions of the district court tomorrow. A number of cases that have been set for hearing at that time will go over to next Monday. There will be no court in the criminal division, Judge Cunningham is busy in Cripple Creek and Judge Lewis will be busy in the civil division.

The argument on the motion for a new trial in the Trusty murder case will be heard Tuesday, and the motion to set aside the verdict in the Fred W. Belding case will be argued on the same day. The motion for a new trial in the King murder case will doubtless be argued Wednesday or Thursday.

W. D. Ascough filed a suit in the county court yesterday against Charles Turner and T. J. Talber, asking for judgment for $42.55 under the terms of a promissory note, signed by the defendants.

In Justice McClelland's court the charges against M. Goldstein and Samuel Mandel were dismissed. The information against them charged them with having stolen property to the value of $3.75 from St. John Bros. They defended themselves by bringing a similar charge against Henry Bryant, colored, from whom, they say, they purchased the property in question. Bryant was also brought before Justice McClelland yesterday afternoon, and bound over to the district court in the sum of $500.

SERIOUSLY HURT BY A CAVE-IN

John Curry, whose home is at 117 South Nevada avenue, was seriously injured by a cave-in in the sewer excavation near the corner of Caramillo and Royer streets about 6 o'clock last evening.

At this point in the excavation the ditch is about 15 feet deep and the walls are planked to keep back the sand that is very loose in this section. It seems that the planks used as above described were not braced, hence the cave-in which buried Curry at the bottom of the excavation. One of the planks in some way fell across his chest and his injuries are serious. He was taken in the ambulance to St. Francis hospital and later removed to his home.

BRIEF CITY ITEMS.

VAG CHARGE—William Kidwell was arrested yesterday afternoon and lodged in the city jail, charged with vagrancy.

POUND SALE—A sale was held at the city pound yesterday morning. A horse that had been held by the police for several weeks, without being claimed by anyone, was put up at public auction and sold to C. A. Styles for $19.25.

DRUNK AGAIN—Thomas Stuart and Peter Leonard were released from the city jail yesterday morning, after having served a term for drunkenness. They had not been out of the toils of the law for over two hours when they were rearrested, drunker than ever.

POLICE PATROL—The matter of the police telephone system will not be acted on at the council meeting tomorrow night, for the reason that the police committee has not yet been able to go to Denver for the purpose of making an inspection of the system in use in that city.

WERE RELEASED—Nine men were caught stealing a ride on the top of the passenger train, No. 3, on the Rio Grande last evening. The patrol wagon was called and the entire squad was landed at the station, where they were quizzed by the captain and all allowed to go their way.

ARRESTED—A. R. Hayden, a cripple who was found in a rather destitute condition near the Rio Grande depot at a late hour last night, was given a cell in the police station. Complaint was made by some of the people in the waiting room of the depot that the man was becoming annoying to them and he was escorted to the station.

AGREEMENT FILED—In the office of the county clerk and recorder, an agreement was filed by the Colorado Title & Trust company yesterday giving to the California Compressed Air House Cleaning company the right to use a certain carpet renovator, patented by the Colorado Title & Trust company. The agreement recites, however, that the right is given only within the state of California.

HANDSOME GIFT—The employes of the composing and editorial rooms of the Gazette presented J. J. McCarty, foreman, who severed his connection with the paper yesterday, after long service, with a gold ring of quaint design, as an appreciation of good wishes. Mr. McCarty goes to the Pacific coast.

PREPARING FOR THE GRAND LODGE MEETING

The members of Jabal Aat Temple No. 76, Knights of Khorassan, will meet tomorrow evening for practice and to make arrangements for the grand lodge meeting to be held in this city about the middle of next month. A number of candidates will also be initiated and a full attendance of members is desired. No arrangements have yet been made by the committee appointed for that purpose, consisting of Royal Vizier J. K. Miller, Secretary E. S. Cohen and Dr. W. A. Campbell, but the matter will be taken up at the meeting tomorrow night. It is expected that a number of the recently elected state officers will also be in attendance. Only a business meeting will be held.

HASTINGS REALTY CO., REPORTS SEVERAL DEALS

The Hastings Realty & Building Co. report the following sales for the past week:

To the Colorado Springs company, lots 4 and 7, block 1, Hastings Bros.' addition to the city of Colorado Springs; consideration, $1.

To J. A. Ward, lot 2, block 2, Hastings Bros.' third addition; consideration, $1.

To A. L. Coblentz, lot 3, block 3, Hastings Bros.' addition; consideration, $1.

To James M. Alexander, lot 3, block 4, Hastings Bros.' fourth addition; consideration, $1.

W. H. Wise, 14 E. Pike's Peak, has just received some very rich and novel designs in Mexican Hand Carved Leather Purses.

GRAND ARMY VETERAN'S DEATH OCCURRED YESTERDAY

The death of David S. Eddy occurred yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at his home, 520 South Conejos street, at the age of 68 years.

He was a member of the G. A. R. and the A. O. U. W., and these bodies will meet at 2:30 this afternoon and attend the services at the house. A short service will be held at the Christian church. Mr. Eddy leaves several children, four sons living in this city. He had been engaged in the fruit and cigar business at 104 East Cucharas street.

MADE RECORD-BREAKING TRIP TO SAVE THE LIFE OF AN INFANT

A record-breaking trip was made last week by Mrs. Lewis W. Thompson of Red Bank, N. J., from Paul Smith's N. Y., to New York city. The distance between these points is over 400 miles and the trip was made in eight hours, an average of 50 miles an hour.

The trip was made in a special train, which cost Mrs. Thompson $1,000, the trip being necessary to save the life of the seven-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson. The infant had swallowed a safety pin which opened in its throat, and it became necessary to take it to a surgeon as soon as possible. When Mrs. Thompson arrived in New York she was met by her husband and Dr. Winters of the New York hospital. The baby was taken at once to the hospital, where the pin was extracted without further injury to the child's throat. Mr. Thompson is a brother of the late Mrs. R. L. Preston of this city. At the time the accident to the baby took place, Mrs. Thompson was at Cooper Camp on the Upper St. Regis lake, and made the trip from there to Paul Smith's in the Thompson yacht.

NATIONAL GUARD WILL RECEIVE SHIPMENT OF KRAG-JORGENSENS

Lieutenant Colonel Davis of the local battalion of the Colorado National guard has been notified that the consignment of one thousand Krag-Jorgensen rifles and carbines will arrive in the state in about two weeks, when they will be ready for distribution among the different companies in the state. About 120 of the new rifles will be alloted to the two local companies, D. and I. As soon as they arrive the captains of the two companies will issue requisitions upon the quartermaster's department for the necessary rifles. They will be sent here, a receipt issued the captains for the old Springfield rifles, and a receipt accepted for the new ones, after which they will be distributed among the individual members of the company. The state will also secure a supply of Colt's revolvers and two guns for the state squadron of cavalry and the battery of artillery with the consignment.

The examination of applicants for second lieutenancies in companies D and I will be held at the armory Wednesday evening. On the same evening the election of company I will be held. Brigadier General John Chase, Major A. H. Williams, adjutant, and Colonel Gross of the quartermaster's department are expected here to examine the applicants and act as a board of survey in checking out the old captains and checking in the new. It is almost a foregone conclusion that Second

WILL TAKE MOVING PICTURE THIS AFTERNOON

This afternoon H. H. Buckwalter will take a photograph of the crowds returning from the ball game for exhibition in his collection of moving pictures. He will place in the camera a long film that will be of sufficient length to catch a number of street cars run at close intervals and a large portion of the crowd. These pictures are to be used by the team in its travels to attract crowds and for another purpose, that of advertising this city. Mr. Buckwalter suggests that everyone who will be on the camera side of the car or the crowds, make some motion of the hand so that there will be more motion exhibited in the picture than if the crowds were merely walking or riding without making any motions other than casual.

OPTIONS SECURED ON 10,400 ACRES OF SUGAR BEET LAND IN FOUNTAIN VALLEY

The promoters of the Fountain beet sugar deal have secured options on 10 400 acres of land which will be closed at once if the city council adopts the proposition made by the promoters concerning the use of the city sewage

The options have been secured during the last few days and if the plans are carried out the entire acreage will be put in cultivation this fall and next spring

The land will be cultivated direct by the company The options expire July 24 If the council acts on the sewage proposition tomorrow night however they will be closed as soon as Mr Stark and his associates can make the arrangements

The next step after the closing of these options provided the city council acts favorably on the sewage proposition will be the organization of the company which will have charge of the new industry Several of the stockholders in the Castlewood Dam company are interested in the enterprise and will be members of the new company when it is organized A large part of the stock however will be owned by F [illegible] Stark of this city and W C Johnston of Denver The company will be organized with a capital stock of several million dollars and will begin operations at once Most of the stock it is understood has already been subscribed for, and the articles of incorporation, when filed will show the respective holdings of the various stockholders

The members of the city council sewer committee held a conference yesterday and it is understood that it was agreed to report the sewage proposition to the council tomorrow night Chairman Hill of the sewer committee in company with City Engineer E W Case and Messrs Stark and Johnston went over the route of the proposed pipe line Friday and examined the plans agreed upon by the promoters It is understood the committee's report will be favorable and if it is adopted by the council it will mean the beginning of work in the Fountain valley A large force of men and a number of teams will be put to work at once on the ditches and reservoirs and surveyors will be put to work laying off the land for cultivation

[illegible] ESCAPE THE GALLOWS

With the sentence of death hanging over him Harvey King the wife-murderer, has lost his careless disposition and his desire to die has been changed into a desire for a new trial

Left with his own thoughts the fear of impending death has weakened him and he is now anxious that he be given another chance for his life

Before and since his trial King has been kept in solitary confinement at the county jail and no one but his attorneys has been allowed to see him

Judge Robert I Hubbard and C W Doing his attorneys called on him at the county jail yesterday for the purpose of learning if he desired a new trial After the conference Judge Hubbard said that King's don't care feeling had left him and that he was anxious for another chance for his life He wants a new trial now more than he did before the jury rendered its verdict he said

The motion asking that the verdict of the jury be set aside and that the defendant be given a new trial will be filed in the district clerk's office tomorrow and will be argued sometime this week The motion will set out the usual grounds and ask that the verdict be set aside for the reason that it was rendered contrary to the law and contrary to the evidence in the case and for the further reason that the court erred in not directing a verdict of not guilty when the motion to that effect was made by the defense This motion was based on the ground that the information had charged King with the murder of Bell King while the evidence showed that he had killed Bella King According to the wishes of the defendant [illegible] will be taken to the [illegible] supreme court [illegible] the motion for a new trial is denied

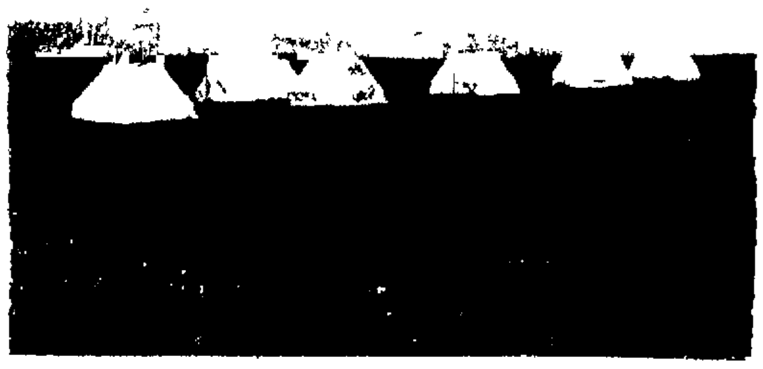

The confirmation of the verdict of the jury and the passing of the sentence of death by the [illegible] may have the effect of nerving King to a determined fight [illegible] in one of the higher courts If [illegible] Judge [illegible] will set the week within which the execution [illegible] the penitentiary [illegible] will be taken to Canon City [illegible] The day of the execution will be determined by the warden of the penitentiary

THERE WILL BE [illegible] BENEFIT [illegible] IN [illegible] CARED FOR AT [illegible]

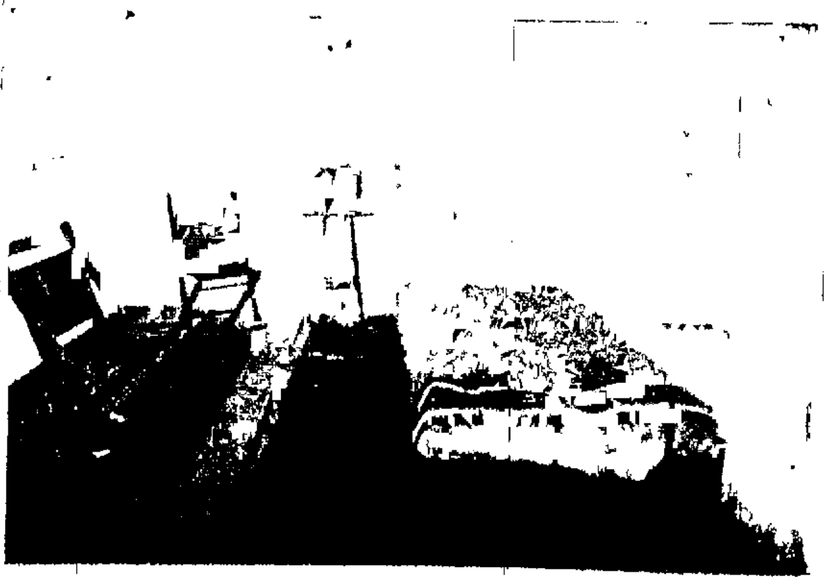

The tent colony for the sick poor which was opened last week on Knob hill is the outgrowth of an idea conceived by several philanthropic women of Colorado Springs successfully carried to fruition by Rev E Evans Carrington A permanent site containing 10 acres directly north of where the tents are pitched at present is being negotiated for and when obtained the colony will have a different appearance as it is the intention to erect a pavilion and lay out truck gardens [illegible] grounds etc It has been suggested that poultry yards be established so that those who do not care for gardening will have an occupation more suited to their fancy in the care of poultry

There are a considerable number of applications on file and especially during the summer months it is expected that the tent colony will be filled Six [illegible] tents have been erected and patients have already taken possession A large tent has been pitched as the dining room culinary department and office of this outdoors hospital Room and board is provided for $4 per week for the colony is not a free institution—the aim of the management and promoters is to place the cost of living for invalids in reduced circumstances at the lowest figure Medical attendance will be given under certain conditions and nurses will be in attendance as soon as the colony is fairly on its feet

The first impression of the tent colony is of its cleanly appearance the next is that in some respects it is an improvement on the hospital The tents are placed some distance apart from each other and where they are located east of the city between Cache la Poudre and Yampa streets the air is of the purest and the sunshine strong throughout the day The tents are 12x14 feet and of the heavy canvas that keeps out cold Wood floors are in all the tents and all precautions have been taken against dampness The tents contain a wire cot chair table and other conveniences Pasteurized milk is a feature of the diet beef juice eggs and other health building liquids or foods are also on the bill of fare The management has calculated to nicety the expenses and as not a cent is made in profit the patient lives in all particulars at actual cost

WILL MAKE TEST OF DISINTEGRATED GRANITE THIS WEEK

The experiment of the disintegrated granite as a street pavement will be tried by the council street committee some time this week The material will be tried on one of the cross streets possibly Huerfano street which may be paved with it from Cascade avenue to Tejon street If it proves effective after it has been in use for a reasonable time it is probable that it will be adopted as a pavement more generally Chairman Perkins of the street committee said yesterday that he would take up the experiment as soon as he had completed several jobs now before him

Negotiating For Right of Way For Water System Extension

The city engineer and city attorney will be authorized by the council tomorrow night to negotiate for a right of way across the property between the new high line reservoir and the city water mains in the north end of the city This right of way will be used for the laying of the new pipe line from the reservoir to the city mains It has been practically promised [illegible] but little delay is expected in connection with it As soon as it has been completely secured and the formal deeds [illegible] filed for file in the office of the county clerk [illegible] will be called for for the furnishing and laying of the pipe

The work will cost over $ 0,000 [illegible] to be paid for out of the [illegible] water extension [illegible] N W Harris & Co of Chicago It is expected that the work [illegible] the pipe [illegible] first meeting of the city council [illegible] August [illegible] August and work will begin on the laying of the [illegible] in September or October

REGARDING THE KRAUSE CLAIM

The city council at its meeting tomorrow night will probably take some action regarding the bill of Gustav Krause for services rendered in connection with the experting of the books of ex-City Treasurer Moses Hale The bill as presented to the old city council called for $175 That body refused to authorize the payment and tendered $25 which was accepted by Mr Krause That amount was not accepted as full payment however and Mr Krause has been pressing payment of the balance The finance committee now has in course of preparation a resolution on the question which will probably be introduced at the meeting of the council tomorrow night The nature of the resolution has not yet been given out but it is presumed that it is a formal renunciation of the indebtedness on the part of the city

TWO MILES OF SEWER [illegible]

About half of the four miles of new sewers included in the extensions of this year has been laid and the contractor is now at work finishing the rest of the lines For several days a force of men under the direction of the Gilmore Plumbing company the contractors has been at work on the line in the Corona addition and will finish the early part of this week This line is over three quarters of a mile in length With the completion of this line work will begin on the Cache la Poudre line which is to be over half a mile long The loop sewers on Pike's Peak avenue at Platte avenue and Huerfano street will be taken up after the other work has been given attention

RIGHT OF WAY FOR PIPE LINE

The right of way for the new cemetery pipe line was secured yesterday and the deeds formally giving the city the right to construct the line across the intervening property will be filed tomorrow or next day This line will be of wood and will connect Prospect lake with the outside of the cemetery grounds Inside the grounds the line will be of iron and will connect with a system of pipes which will be used for irrigation purposes in the new part of the cemetery The wooden pipe will be built in section the sections being fitted together as it is laid It will be 12 inches in diameter and will cost laid 85 cents a foot The line will be about 2 00 feet long The work of laying the pipe will begin in a short time and the work will be completed within 30 to 60 days The company laying it guarantees the pipe to last 20 years

COMMISSIONERS LET CONTRACT

A contract for the building of a concrete sidewalk completely around the grounds of the new county court house was let by the county commissioners yesterday to Hart & Sons contractors The contract is for $ 000 and work will begin as soon as possible It was the original intention of the commissioners to build walks around the building only but it was later decided to extend the walks out to the corners and finally to build them completely around the outside of the square It is one of the largest contracts for such work that has been let in the city

Hart & Sons had charge of the other work and the new contract will be simply an extension of the old

WHITNEY'S LAW OF ATOMS WILL BE TESTED ON SUMMIT OF PIKE'S PEAK

F X Schoonmaker the representative of the company which is to test the discovery of Professor Albert Gallatin Whitney of Chicago who claims that by projecting a sphere into the ether above the world's atmosphere the sphere being attached to a coil of wire electricity can be conducted to the earth for commercial purposes and all uses in unlimited quantities made the trip to Manitou yesterday but the clouds which constantly hid the summit of the Peak and the rainstorms prevented him from ascending the Peak or making any investigations A clear day explained Mr Schoonmaker last night at the Antlers hotel is necessary When the investigation as to the feasibility of conducting the experiments on Pike's Peak commences it is probable that Mr Schoonmaker will remain on the summit for several days

Professor Whitney in the first place is the discoverer of the fact that the ether of space is pure electricity said Mr Schoonmaker in describing the experiment and what it means and that it forms what we might call an ethereal world like we call this a terrestrial world This ethereal world is so immense that it engulfs all the planets of this system This ethereal world has its center let us suppose that to be the north star and that it has its law of the attraction of gravitation which draws everything within that etheral world towards that world's center as the law of gravitation in this terrestrial world draws everything in this world to its center This world being submerged in this great ethereal world may be falling towards the center of the ethereal world by the general law of the attraction of gravitation

The Law of Atoms.

"Whitney's philosophy is based on the law of atoms of which he is the discoverer and which the German government says has at last furnished science with the first foundation for understanding the laws of the universe Whitney believes that electricity is the first form of matter and that its formation is based on the law of atoms, as in the formation of all other matter, electricity having been proved to be matter The law of atoms is that, preceding creation — that is preceding the assemblage of any matter in a form, there was a law called the force of centers This law enabled atoms to assemble from space the particles making the form of the atom The law compels all the particles forming the atom to press inward from the surface of the atom to a common center In other words it holds the atom together and without it the parts of the atom would dissipate into their original condition shapeless and without assemblage

The law of atoms gives every atom this force of center and in addition two other powers first the ability to join itself to another atom and with this other atom to establish a second force of center for the assemblage without surrendering any of the atoms originating the force of center which it retains for itself and which enables it to keep its form The other power is the power which enables atoms to combine and form a mass and to give to the mass a common force of center without in the least disturbing the original force belonging to the atom These three powers are common to all atoms electrical as well as others but there is this difference between electrical atoms and all other atoms namely that all other atoms will assemble with dissimilar atoms and form a common force of center for the mass while electrical atoms will not combine with dissimilar atoms or at least will resist assimilation with them almost to the point of absolute refusal This difference between electrical atoms and all other atoms gives to the force of center of the great electrical mass a greater power or pull toward its center than is possessed by any mass of other atoms As an instance it is common observation that the pull of the ethereal mass down through the earth's atmosphere and at the surface of the earth is so great that a 50 pound magnet will lift 600 pounds 12 times its weight Atoms will no combine unless brought practically into contact which shows that the force of center of atoms does not extend beyond their surface From this fact Mr Whitney has deduced the law that neither will the force of centers given to a mass by the assemblage of atoms composing it extend beyond the surface of the mass that is the atoms cannot give the mass a different pull from that possessed by themselves Therefore scientists have accepted his contention that the force center of the earth given to it by the assemblage of atoms composing its mass does not extend beyond the surface of that mass In other words the force of center which heretofore has been called the attraction of gravitation possessed by the earth does not extend beyond the surface of the earth Now, as at the surface of the earth, all around the sphere there is met the pull of the ethereal mass in which the earth is submerged It must be evident that if you lift a magnetized object to the surface of the earth it will escape all the earth's pull and at once become subject to the ethereal pull and fall towards the ethereal center

Explains His Theory

His scheme of getting electricity from ethereal space and bringing it down for use upon the earth is based upon these well known and now generally accepted scientific phenomena that if a magnet be placed outside the surface of the earth the earth's pull will have no effect upon it and the pull of the ethereal world will draw it with ever-increasing speed towards its center that is to say that from the surface of the earth the magnet will forever fall towards the center of the ethereal world drawn there by its force of center or attraction of gravitation unless held If it be held by a pure copper wire the copper wire will be magnetized and would be drawn from the earth to the center of the ethereal mass unless the wire were held to the earth So long as it is held to the earth it will act as a conduit down which the electric fluid will pour to the full capacity of the wire With the atmosphere less than 1" miles thick at sea level it would not be difficult for men by many known contrivances to project a magnet through the atmosphere until it made a contact with the ether but it has been found that in many localities in North America and in several especially in Colorado the atmosphere can be penetrated wholly from the tops of high elevations with projectiles that need not travel four miles".

MONTGOMERY IS RELEASED ON BOND

SHEAFOR WILL MAKE DEMAND ON BONDSMEN

Meanwhile Coray is Playing a Waiting Game, and Public is Wondering What the Outcome Will Be.

THE PROBLEM OF SECURING TO THE CITY THE RETURN OF THE MONEY REPRESENTED BY THE SHORTAGE OF EX-BUILDING INSPECTOR E G CORAY IS BEING GIVEN ATTENTION BY CITY ATTORENY J. W. SHEAFOR, WHO SAID YESTERDAY THAT HE EXPECTED SOON TO HAVE MATTERS IN SUCH SHAPE THAT HE COULD MAKE A DIRECT DEMAND ON MR. CORAY AND HIS BONDSMEN FOR A RETURN OF THE AMOUNT TO THE CITY.

The investigation of the shortage has been in the hands of the finance committee of the city council of which Simeon Dunbar is chairman On the completion of the investigation, Mr Dunbar turned the records and papers showing the amount of the shortage over to City Attorney Sheafor. Mr Sheafor now has them in his possession He says, however that he has authority only to collect the amount of the defalcation from Coray and his bondsmen, and to institute a civil suit if necessary, but is not authorized to take any action in the line of criminal prosecution The criminal side of the case, he says belongs to the finance committee of which Mr Dunbar is chairman and to the district attorney

Mr Dunbar on the other hand claims that when he turned the matter over to the city attorney he finished his part of the work and that the city attorney is now the person to act Mr Dunbar refused to say whether the present prosecutions would be dropped in case Coray should make good the loss or whether any further prosecutions would be instituted

"The finance committee inherited the mess," said Mr Dunbar "and it had to go through with it The members of the committee were interested in getting the money back into the treasury and when we get through with that we will talk about criminal prosecutions"

Both City Attorney Sheafor and Chairman Dunbar express the opinion that Coray and his bondsmen will make good the shortage which amounts to something over $3,000 Coray has already paid back several small amounts aggregating about $210 The cases pending against Coray have been continued twice the last continuance being for the term There are two charges against him two of the three originally filed having been consolidated In both cases he is charged with having embezzled money paid to him for building permits and for water used for construction purposes One case charges the embezzlement of $28 50 and the other the embezzlement of $18 60

Making Preparations for the Opening of Chautauqua Assembly

Registration of new students at the Garden of the Gods summer school still continues, and work in all the courses is now well under way From present indications, the attendance will be greatly in excess of that of last year The idea of holding the summer school courses upon the Chautauqua grounds is meeting with the approval of both teachers and students, and work is going busily forward in the little school houses erected for the purpose. The course in botany, under the direction of Professor Sheldon of Nebraska university, with its opportunities for field work is attracting especial attention, as is also the course in psychology and pedagogy under Professor Cresswell The large chorus which is now being trained by Mrs Kate Jordan Hewett, for the closing concert of the assembly, will meet hereafter every Tuesday and Friday evening in the Y. M. C. A auditorium.

Preparation is still going forward at the Chautauqua grounds for the assembly, which opens August 6 The large auditorium has been recovered and reseated, rustic cottages have been erected, tents placed upon the grounds, and a dining hall under the management of an experienced caterer is now open for the accommodation of those living upon the grounds Tennis courts and croquet grounds are also being laid out, and everything possible is being done for the convenience and amusement of students and Chautauquans Water from the city mains has been piped throughout the grounds

The musical features of the Chautauqua will this year be made especially strong The management has been fortunate in securing the services of the famous Alpine Concert company for the entire two weeks It is an 11-piece orchestral band and will be heard twice each day preceding the afternoon and evening entertainments Music lovers will also be pleased to know of the engagement of August Hyllested the celebrated Danish pianist

The Chautauqua management has just issued a very attractive announcement of the talent secured for this year and it shows a variety of speakers and entertainers not excelled by any Chautauqua of the west Such men as Hon Champ Clark of Missouri Governor La Follette of Wisconsin, Dr Thomas F Green of Cedar Rapids, Ia and Rev Francis C Kelley the famous Catholic orator, are on the list

To Rename the Duplicate Streets.

Street Committee Does Not Propose to Go Ahead on Its Own Account.

Chairman Perkins of the street committee of the council is still in a dilemma concerning the renaming of the duplicate streets of ... So far he has received only one petition asking that the name of a street be changed This petition asks for the changing of the name of Jackson street in the north end of the city to Seneca street No action has been taken on the petition for the reason that the members of the committee desire the new names to be given to the newer streets The Jackson street mentioned in the petition is the older street of the two bearing that name In a number of other cases the residents on duplicate streets have promised to take the question up with the other residents of the street but nothing has ever been done it seems and Chairman Perkins is wondering if the people really want to do away with the confusion arising from the duplicate names If the residents do not act in the premises it is probable the streets will never be renamed inasmuch as the street committee does not desire to be arbitrary The following is a list of the duplicate streets

COLORADO CITY, JULY 19.

Millmen's Union Meeting
and Persons Who Possess

Millmen's union No. 125 held a meeting last night at Colorado City. The meeting was attended by about 300 of the members.

President Edwards was in the chair and the regular order of business was transacted. There was a prolonged discussion indulged in relative to existing affairs, but no action was taken bearing on the strike.

The union was called upon last night to consider the case of one Lane, who formerly belonged to the union and who was employed at the Portland mill, but who was discharged by the company for being found asleep at his post of duty. Lane, on being dismissed from the Portland secured employment at the Standard mill. His case was taken up last night and after several of the members speaking in condemnatory tones of his actions, he was dismissed from the union, pending an investigation.

A special meeting will be held next Thursday evening at which time pending matters will come up for consideration.

COLORADO CITY BRIEFS.

FIRST BAPTIST—Rev. Duncan Lamont, pastor of the First Baptist church, announces for his theme for this morning the subject, "Echoes from the Christian Endeavor Convention." In the evening his subject will be "Christian Liberty." There will be Sunday school at 9:45 a. m., and Young People's meeting at 7 o'clock p. m. All visiting members are cordially invited to attend these services.

IMPORTANT MEETING—The American Order of Protection will meet at K. P. hall tomorrow evening in regular session. The secretary announces that the new rituals have been received from the supreme harbor and a full attendance is requested, as there will be initiation. Other business of importance to all the members will be transacted.

PLUNGE PARTY—Quite a large number of the young people of the Young People's society of the First Baptist church had a good time at Prospect Lake yesterday evening, when they enjoyed a plunge bath.

WILLING WORKERS—The Willing Workers of the First Baptist church held a most successful social on the church lawn yesterday evening.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH—Church of the Good Shepherd, corner Third and Jefferson streets. Sixth Sunday after Trinity, July 19. Services: Holy communion, 8 a. m.; morning prayer and sermon, 11 a. m.; evensong and sermon, 8 p. m.; Sunday school, 9:45 a. m.

WOMAN'S GUILD—The Woman's guild will give a high five party and dance at Miss Turnbull's hall, 124 Monroe avenue, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Refreshments will be served.

COLORADO CITY PERSONALS

MANITOU NEWS NOTES

MANITOU BRIEFS.

REMARKABLE FIND—A St. Louis preacher who is spending the summer at Manitou when walking to the top of Pike's Peak with a party yesterday lost his watch. After accusing nearly every member of the party of having taken it in order to perpetrate a joke on him, and after searching along the path they had traveled for some distance, the gentleman found the lost timepiece in one of his boots.

MANITOU CONGREGATIONAL—Sunday school, 10 a. m.; morning worship, 11; Juniors, 2:30; Christian Endeavor, 7; evening worship, 8. Rev. Herbert Lathe, minister.

MANITOU PERSONALS.

Senator A. J. Hopkins and party returned yesterday to their cabin near the Halfway house, and they will remain there for some days.

J. W. Raudenvush and party of five from Denver are spending a week at the Cliff house. Dr. J. M. Patton and wife of Chicago are spending two weeks in Manitou. They are guests at the Cliff.

Mrs. E. Dorsey of Kansas City is registered at the Pittsburg. She will remain in Colorado several weeks.

Mrs. Fred Fleming of Corsicana, Tex., is a guest at the Pittsburg. She will remain in Manitou for the summer.

J. K. Lewis of St. Louis is a guest of Manitou for the summer, being registered at the Pittsburg.

Judge Tim E. Cooper of Memphis is spending the summer in Manitou. He will spend a portion of his time in the mountains at his favorite avocation, which is fishing.

Rev. Mr. Power, pastor of Garfield Memorial church in Washington, D. C., is spending the summer in Manitou.

Paul Wright of Chicago is among the latest arrivals at the Iron Springs.

Y. M. Penney, a prominent banker of Wind River, Neb., and wife are visiting friends in Manitou.

W. F. Schutz, a prominent physician of Kansas City, is spending a few days in Manitou. He is on his way to Green Mountain Falls, where he will spend the summer.

One of the most interesting personalities at the Cliff house this season is ex-Governor A. C. Seay of Oklahoma.

A very good sized party of Manitou people and visiting tourists went on the excursion to the Royal Gorge which was managed by C. A. Pollen. All report a very good time.

The Ladies Aid society of the Congregational church of Manitou will give an excursion to Cripple Creek next Thursday, the proceeds from which apply on the debt on the parsonage.

Miss Nettie Young of Hyde Park, Ill., is registered at the Pittsburg and will remain in Colorado for the reminder of the summer.

C. J. Christiansen and wife of Pueblo are late arrivals at the Pittsburg. They will remain in Manitou for a week.

Baseball Players and Foot Racers!
Louis J. Kruger, ex-champion long distance foot racer of Germany and Holland, writes, Oct. 27th, 1901: "During my training of eight weeks' foot races at Salt Lake City, in April last, I used Ballard's Snow Liniment to my greatest satisfaction. Therefore, I highly recommend Snow Liniment to all who are troubled with sprains, bruises or rheumatism." 25c, 50c, $1.00 bottle. Sold by Hefley-Arcularius Drug Co.

DENVER NEWS

WEDNESDAY

NOTABLES

Today is Christian Endeavor Sunday in Colorado Springs. In many of the churches visiting Endeavorers will occupy pulpits, and as it is estimated that there are 2,000 Endeavorers still in the city the day is planned so that it will be not only interesting to Colorado Springs Christian workers but of especial interest to the Endeavorers.

Services will be held in the large tent at North Nevada and East Pike's Peak avenue, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. Dr. Tyndall of Mount Vernon, N. Y., will speak and probably Manager of Transportation Mansfield of the Connecticut delegation. In the evening Dr. Tyndall will deliver his celebrated "wireless telegraphy" address, illustrated and which proved to be one of the most interesting features of the Denver convention.

Rev. G. F. Wilson of Mars, Pa., will preach at the Second Presbyterian church at 11 a. m.

At the First Congregational church at 8 p. m., Miss Eleanor Miller, the evangelist from Australia, will speak and Miss Jule Layton will sing. Miss Layton is considered one of the greatest contraltos in Australia. The two women are known as powerful workers in Australia and the Occident. Miss Miller will also speak at the Epworth league meeting at the First Methodist church this evening.

Rev. E. C. Carpenter, pastor of Trinity M. E. church, Meriden, Conn., will preach at the Second Presbyterian church at 8 p. m.

Henry Cloud, the young Winnebago Indian, from the Winnebago Indian agency of Nebraska, who is taking a theological course in Massachusetts, and who has been preaching Christianity among his people, will conduct the union missionary service of the First Congregational and the First Presbyterian churches at the First Presbyterian church at 6:30 o'clock this evening.

Special Programs.

There will also be more or less special programs in other churches. Miss Miller will speak and Miss Layton sing at the tent meeting tomorrow evening. There was no meeting at the tent last evening, nor will there be any Saturday evening meetings until further notice.

Tomorrow the headquarters, which has been maintained by the local Endeavorers at 29 North Cascade avenue, will be turned over to the Young Men's Christian association, as the great influx of Endeavorers is over; the headquarters may be closed early in the week. Two sections of the regular early morning passenger train over the Short Line took over 500 excursionists yesterday to Cripple Creek. The traffic department states that during the past week the road carried so many excursionists that claim can be made to the excursion record of the state lines. Almost every one of the 6,600 Endeavorers visiting Colorado Springs or the Pike's Peak region went to Cripple Creek.

Further excursions will be run this week. The Colorado Midland yesterday announced an excursion for today and tomorrow, one fare, $2.50, for the round trip, good going via the Midland and returning over the Short Line.

Absence of Complaints.

President Livermore of the city Y. P. S. C. E. union, said last evening:

"Everybody, visiting Endeavorers and Colorado Springs people, merchants, hotel men and others, were pleased. There has been an absence of complaints and many who came here planning to stay only a day or two told me they were very sorry they had not arranged for a week's stay."

Many of the excursionists who went to Glenwood Springs on the state officers' excursion Thursday, will return to Colorado Springs for several days' stay. It was believed that the special, which was scheduled to return over the Denver & Rio Grande, would come to Colorado Springs, but this appears to be a mistake, a message having been received stating the contrary.

Not only the ranges, parks and other points of interest in the immediate vicinity of the city were visited, but even the coal mines had their quota of visitors. A party including Endeavorers from several of the far eastern states, was arranged by the Epworth league cabinet of the First Methodist church during the week, and a trip was taken to the Pikeview coal mine, under the guidance of A. E. Maunder, a member of the cabinet.

Down a Mine.

The party was lowered 185 feet down the shaft and Superintendent Dixon, Mr. Tallman and Mr. Aitken fitting out the party with miners' camps personally conducted them through. A special car had been constructed for the women so their dresses would not be soiled, and a ride for half a mile on the subterranean electric railway was enjoyed. Luncheon was had in the mine. Among the party were: A. E. Maunder, Miss Caddie and Walter L. Winkler, Mrs. Gant of Indiana, Miss Mercer of Tennessee, Miss Myrta Phillips, Mr. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wulff, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Morris, Walter H. Manning, Miss Marian Smith of Maine.

CITY ENGINEER'S OFFICE BUSY

The city engineer's office is still at work on the plans for the concrete bridge at Fountain street over Shook's run. The exact place for the bridge has not yet been determined, and the plans cannot be completed until that time. A protest from citizens in the neighborhood of the bridge was read before the last council meeting and referred to the city engineer. The protest set forth that the city engineer had decided to place the bridge six feet above the present grade of the road. Mr. Case said yesterday, however, that there was no foundation for the protest whatever, for the reason that no such action had been taken and would not be taken, unless the people in the vicinity desired it. The complaint, he said, was founded on a rumor, and was without foundation in fact.

ROUSE FILES NEW BOND WITH GOVERNOR

Van E. Rouse, who has refused to be ousted by Governor Peabody as treasurer and a member of the World's fair board, has filed a new bond of $10,000 with the governor, the principal surety being the Colorado Springs Title & Trust company. The sureties on his original bond withdrew when the chief executive made the order removing Mr. Rouse.

Last night he received a letter from the Fidelity company of Baltimore, stating that that company would be glad to write him a bond whenever requested.

Mr. Rouse, by his action of filing a new bond with the governor, places the executive in a somewhat embarrassing position. Should Governor Peabody refuse to accept the bond, he leaves Mr. Rouse holding the state funds without any surety to the state; if he accepts the bond, he recognizes Mr. Rouse as treasurer.

GAY SPIRIT OF THE CHAUTAUQUA

Miss Woodsmall, teacher of physical culture, and Miss Anna L. Hight have rented the rustic cottage on the Chautauqua grounds belonging to Mr. White.

Miss Woodsmall has organized a good class in physical culture which meets in the Y. M. C. A. and another on the Chautauqua grounds.

Miss May Anderson of Abilene, Texas, and Miss Mabel Miller of Little Rock, Nebraska, are stopping with Mrs. Hurt for the season.

Miss Katharine Morrison of Chicago, is a guest of the Cliff house while attending the summer school.

Mr. Harry Peters, teacher of literature and history in the Oberlin, Kansas, High school, is at the Chautauqua Inn.

Miss Isabelle Graham is located in Manitou with Mrs. Fraser.

Miss Eva K. Froelich, the principal of a large school in Evansville, Indiana, is making her home with her sister in Colorado Springs, while attending the summer school. She will remain to the assembly as will most of those who have registered.

Misses Carrie Wooley, Hattie Edmiston and Pearl Edmiston are with a party of 10 who have rented a furnished house in Colorado City, conveniently located to the school.

Miss Elizabeth Austin of Carrollton, Missouri, is stopping at the Elk hotel.

Miss May Hart of Manitou, is registered for the season.

Miss Helen F. Van Dyke of Medford, O. T., is taking primary methods.

Miss Leohora Cree of Galva, Iowa, is taking a full course. She is the guest of her sister on North Tejon street.

Miss Lillian Constant of Ottawa, Kansas, is taking courses in primary methods and drawing.

Miss Gusta Winfrey and Miss Bess Mirich are in a party of eight which has rented a furnished cottage at Manitou. They are from Carrollton, Mo.

Miss McDonald has organized a class. Those who wish to take up literature with her alone can do so by registering for the first two weeks of the literature course. She covers in this time much interesting ground, embracing a course in English masterpieces, showing how to study and to teach literature.

The members of the drawing class are very enthusiastic over the instruction of Mrs. Cresswell.

Students located on the grounds have plans for many pleasant excursions together to the points of interest lying adjacent to Chautauqua.

Mrs. Howett is organizing a large chorus. She is meeting with success in her efforts along this line and next week there will be two rehearsals of the chorus in Colorado Springs.

GRAND OPERA THIS WEEK

Commencing tomorrow night the Columbia Opera company will present "Pinafore" at the Opera house. The play, "Chimes of Normandy," that has been given by the company during the week just ended, was of such merit as to warrant the prediction that the bill for the coming week will be very well received. The opera has been thoroughly rehearsed and the music is especially adapted to the voices of the songsters. Miss Day will be seen in the play as "Josephine," Miss Robertson as "Hebe," Miss McElroy as "Little Buttercup," Mr. Stowe as "Sir Joseph," Mr. Rogers as "Dick Deadeye," and other strong roles will be well assigned. The cast is as follows:

Sir Joseph Porter—Admiral of the British Navy (in love with Josephine) ..... Mr. Leslie Stowe
Captain Corcoran—Captain H. M. S. Pinafore ..... Mr. Victor Clemence
Ralph Rackstraw—Able Seaman (in love with Josephine) ..... Mr. Chas. N. Holmes
Dick Deadeye—Able Seaman ..... Mr. Eugene Rogers
Boatswain ..... Mr. Ed Achard
Josephine—Daughter of Captain Corcoran (in love with Ralph Rackstraw) ..... Miss Mabel Day
Hebe—Cousin of Sir Joseph ..... Miss Clyde Robertson
Buttercup (who exchanged Ralph and the captain in childhood's happy hour) ..... Miss McElroy
Chorus of sailors, sisters, cousins and aunts.

GOTHAM GOSSIP

It seems that George Francis Train's present illness interrupted his labors on an autobiography, in which will be included much of his history that has not as yet found its way into print. Only a few days before smallpox seized him, he was visited at Stamford by an old New York friend with whom he exchanged reminiscences. The friend asked him what incidents in his career he looked back to with the greatest pleasure, half expecting that he would mention the romps with the children and the feeding of sparrows in New York squares.

"No, no," said the citizen, "I get my chief satisfaction in recalling my struggles with the British in 1860, when I went among them to introduce horse railways. 'Twas a big fight. The war of the revolution wasn't in it with that."

Rumor mentions several names in connection with the succession to William T. Cornell in the presidency of the Equitable Trust company of New York when that gentleman retires on the first of June. Among them is the name of First Vice President James H. Hyde. The latter, who is considerably under 30, is a son of the late Henry B. Hyde, long the president of the Equitable Life Assurance society, and is a chip from the old block.

"Young Mr. Hyde," remarked a leading official of the society yesterday when discussing the impending change in the administration of the trust company, "is a remarkably clear-headed fellow, with lots of ideas and fire. He recently put out as a stimulant to thrift a reprint of some of the wise saws and homely proverbs of Benjamin Franklin's essay on 'The Way to Wealth' accompanying this with clever foot notes."

When the late M. Paul Blouet ("Max O'Rell") was last in the United States he showed a strong disposition to modify some of the views he had expressed concerning American social life and institutions during his early acquaintance with them. The change was due—as he frequently admitted in private conversation—to contact with a type of womanhood better than he had originally encountered.

He used to say the best point against his theories was made by a clever young woman who frankly told him he never seemed to her to misunderstand any subject so completely as the American girl.

"How is that," he asked. "I thought I had hit the bull's eye." To which she retorted:

"M. Blouet, there is not a woman of spirit in New York who does not resent the only thing you ever said about us worth repeating. I mean your charge that the American girl has every privilege in the world but one, and that one she takes."

Not all of us know all our heroes—even on pedestals. William Cullen Bryant, of the American Newspaper Publishers association and a well-known New York journalist, gives the following illustration of the need of popular education as to no less a personage than his famous namesake—no relation, by the way—long the pride of the city.

In the new portion of the Metropolitan Museum of Arts and near the Fifth avenue entrance rests a beautiful bronze bust of Bryant. The sculptor has reproduced with admirable fidelity the shaggy leonine effect of the poet's luxuriant hair and beard, the twisting and pleating of the bronze creating an impression of great power.

Last Sunday as the crowd swept up the stairway, close to which the bust is placed, two young workingmen paused for an instant to survey the work.

"Who's that?" said one to the other.

"That's Bryant, don't you see the name?"

"Yes, but who was he—what did he do?"

"Why, he was the fellow who took an oath he would never cut his hair nor shave until he was elected president of the United States."

There will be many another dining function, elaborate or dainty or both this season in New York but none more picturesque than the dinner given at the Waldorf-Astoria, Monday evening, by former Governor Hogg of Texas to his daughter, Miss Irma Hogg, and 19 of her school friends.

Time was when the Texan politician and oil king came in for sharp criticism and considerable chaffing. "Pessimistic Grunts From Hogg," was an editorial caption that well-nigh brought on a personal encounter. But, as he sat among his charming proteges in the palm room of the celebrated hostelry, and later escorted them over the building, kitchen, engine room and all, he wore an aspect of patriarchal benignity that provoked a lady who saw the procession moving along the main corridor to exclaim, "That dear old gentleman is just too lovely for anything."

Only once did his capacious brow "wear displeasure's wrinkled front," and that was when one of the young ladies, in the innocence of her heart, asked if they couldn't look at a few of the bachelor suites—a suggestion which threw the hotel guide who had the party in charge into a cold perspiration.

But it was when he sat in the foyer just after dinner—the center of a wreath of human flowers in muslin and blushes—the eyes of his guests glued to his richly colored visage while he discoursed to them with the gravity of a professor—it was then he seemed happiest, strongest and bravest, and it was at the climax that the prettiest girl in the party, carried away by her surroundings and his eloquence, cried out in tones easily heard throughout the foyer:

"Oh dear me, Mr. Hogg, why don't you build a hotel like this in Texas? I'm sure you could."

George R. Sheldon, whose dinner next Friday evening at the Union League club to some of the principal members of the Republican party may prove an epoch-making event in New York politics, is regarded by many of the best judges as a man whose future is bound to witness a steadily broadening influence in the political and financial worlds.

Says one who has had numerous opportunities of studying him at close quarters: "Mr. Sheldon builds slowly, but he builds what will stand. His downright veracity and honesty make him intolerant of trickery anywhere, financial or political, and his strictness in all his operations has led some persons to suspect him of lack of sympathy with the masses, and others to describe him as devoid of personal magnetism. But the suspicion is groundless and the description wide of the facts. What is true of him is that he will not stoop to any of the devices of the party demagogue or the Wall street agitator."—(Mail and Express.

Farmer Got Three Glittering "Gold Bricks."

How difficult it is for the farmer to hire help in busy planting season is illustrated by the complaint filed with the sheriff by Jacob Hollgrove of Ogden, N. Y. Not only is it almost impossible to hire men for farm work, but it is extremely difficult to obtain women for the kitchen.

Mr. Hollgrove did not come to the city to complain of the scarcity of help, but rather of the alleged misdoings of an employment agency. He believes that he has been cheated out of $3, although his real ail demonstrate that it would be difficult to establish this in the courts.

Early in May, he said, he went to a Rochester agency and asked the manager to send down a hired girl. He was asked to pay a fee of $1. This he did, and he was assured that the girl would be young and strong and as eager to work as a tiger is to eat. He went home and told his wife that the agency was going to send down a "hustler."

"From what the man said I expected to have difficulty finding work for the new girl," said Mr. Hollgrove. "He kinder let on that I would have to sit up nights planning work to keep her busy, and that she would only quit and go to bed when you drove her away from her tasks with a club. Well, she came. She was 70 years old if a day, and crippled with rheumatism. She fussed around for three days and then was took sick an' my wife had to take care of her. It was nearly three weeks before she was able to leave her bed and return to the city."

Mr. Hollgrove was not discouraged by this experience although he did come to town and remonstrate with the agency. He was told that he had taken the girl and had evinced his liking for her by permitting his wife to nurse her in her illness. However, if he would pay another $1 a record-breaker would be produced. Believing that the agency would hustle to compensate him for his bother with girl No. 1, Mr. Hollgrove said he planked down another dollar and went home to wait.

"I told mother that the first girl was sent by mistake and that a terror for doing kitchen work was coming. We got the impression that this last would be simply hungry for work. We pictured her as stealing about and committing burglary in order to steal work to do. When she came and I asked her name she ripped off something that neither of us could understand.

"Well, she was a foreigner. I don't know to this day what her native land is called, but I'll swear she never saw the inside of a house before or ate civilized grub. For two weeks my wife and I neglected the chores trying to teach her the names of different articles. If we told her to pare potatoes we would have to follow her up and show her how. And then she would pare only as many as we pared. Then we'd grab the knife and pare another and nod for her to do likewise. She would, but would stop again."

The last straw was when Mr. Hollgrove returned to the agency and demanded his money back. The manager talked to him in a soothing manner and begged for just one more chance to show what he could do when it came to furnishing a gilt-edged article. The farmer relented and gave the agency one more trial, and incidentally paid another dollar. This was two weeks ago. A few days after he returned home the "new help" arrived. She promised well from general appearances, but admitted, after trying to wash dishes with one hand, that she had just come out of the hospital, where she had been treated for a broken arm. She was sent back to the city. Two days later a lawyer wrote to Mr. Hollgrove asking him to pay up. He paid two weeks' wages to ward off a lawsuit.

How a Race-Is Schooled.

"As soon as a two-year-old is bridlewise and broken to a saddle, he is taught the most essential thing to the racing game—to start and leave the barrier quickly. A horse never learns so much in any year on the track as in his first. Because of their ability to earn large fortunes as two-year-olds the careful trainer sees that his youngsters are at the outset properly broken to the starting machine. If he can teach them to stand quietly at the gate and break away and catch their strides quickly half of the battle is won.

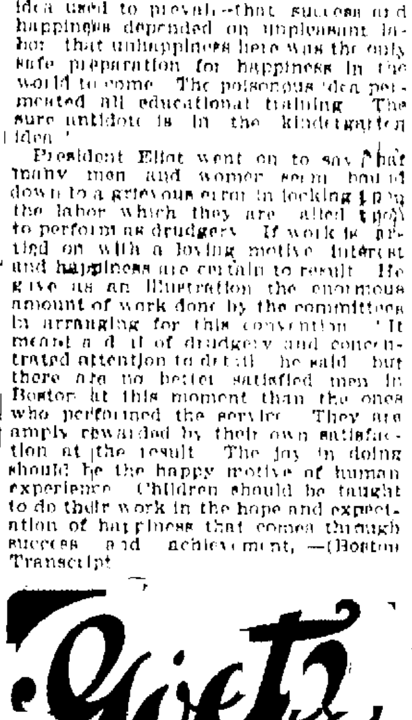

"Once a colt or filly has mastered his lesson I take him away from the barrier and never allow him to see it except in a race. Nothing tires a young colt or tends to make him irritable more than to keep repeating the same lesson over and over again. The youngsters that do not learn readily are kept at their work until they become proficient. Young horses are schooled on an average of three days a week in the spring. On the days that I work mine over the course they receive a holiday from the trials and tribulations of the barrier. The following day they are sent to the barrier and are relieved from any fast work."—(W. C. Vreeland in Illustrated Sporting News.

Love of Work

There was long-continued applause when President Eliot rose to add his word to the general discourse. "I have had," he said, "very little practical knowledge of the kindergarten, my work has been largely with secondary and higher branches. Yet I am sure the fundamental idea of the kindergarten is permeating all education. Its motive is that children are to be made happy while they learn, as they can learn so much better and easier while happy.

"There used to be quite a different doctrine in schools and colleges. Nothing was counted real work unless it was hard, uninteresting, revolting. That was a hideous error in education and against it the kindergarten successfully contends. In theology too the same idea used to prevail—that success and happiness depended on unpleasant labor, that unhappiness here was the only safe preparation for happiness in the world to come. The poisonous idea permeated all educational training. The sure antidote is in the kindergarten idea."

President Eliot went on to say that many men and women seem bound down to a grievous error in looking upon the labor which they are called upon to perform as drudgery. "If work is graced on with a loving motive, interest and happiness are certain to result. He gave as an illustration the enormous amount of work done by the committees in arranging for this convention. "It meant a deal of drudgery and concentrated attention to detail," he said, "but there are no better satisfied men in Boston at this moment than the ones who performed the service. They are amply rewarded by their own satisfaction at the result. The joy in doing should be the happy motive of human experience. Children should be taught to do their work in the hope and expectation of happiness that comes through success and achievement."—(Boston Transcript.

ONCE POOR, NOW A NABOB

A FORMER INDIANA SCHOOL TEACHER ADVISES THE KING OF KOREA.

In 1893 He Failed in Seattle for More Than a Million—He Went to Korea, Made Millions and Has Paid All His Debts.

Fact stranger than fiction is exemplified in the career of Lee B. J. Hunt, an Indiana farmer boy and country school teacher, who has become the confidential adviser to the king of Korea, and who recently paid a visit to his old home at Columbia City, Ind. Years ago Mr. Hunt disappeared from his native county heavily in debt. Now he is said to be worth $15,000,000, has paid his debts thrice over and is leading the life of a veritable nabob in the kingdom of Korea, the right hand man of the monarch, the Cecil Rhodes of the realm.

"Smith" Hunt, as he was called in Columbia City, has outdone in real life the Count of Monte Cristo. He has overcome difficulties apparently insurmountable, successfully defied the traditions that govern ordinary men and risen to a pinnacle of power and magnificence never dreamed of by his Hoosier lad associates in his boyhood—but always vivid in the dreams of "Smith" Hunt, who set out early in life with the belief that the world was his oyster and that he owned the jackknife that could open it. There are scores of able romanticists who, turned loose in the vast field of imaginative possibilities, could never conceive a story so utterly out of the ordinary as that of this amazing Hoosier, who is now 49 years of age. His friends point proudly to him and say:

There is a man who never took an unfair advantage, yet he is a multi-millionaire. He owed money, but he never forgot his debts, and an obligation of $5, though outlawed by 20 years, [illegible] remained fresh in his memory, and he paid it with compound interest.

When a boy Hunt was rated as a schemer. He always was planning something to do and in his work, his play, his books [illegible] was [illegible] of his companions. As he grew older he was noted as the best trader in the county. He would buy or trade for anything he thought there was money in, but he never went into anything haphazard. He made no move that he did not figure out its profit [illegible] in advance.

At 18 years of age, while his companions were taking life easy, Hunt was teaching school in [illegible] and as a teacher he inaugurated many new ideas. He taught school at [illegible] [illegible] and in 1880 was selected principal of the Columbia City schools. He [illegible] and [illegible] and seemed to be getting on well.

In 1880 he disappeared from Columbia City, leaving about $2,000 [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] from different parts of the country telling him that he [illegible] work and pay every cent [illegible] against him.

Hunt settled for a time at Mount Pleasant, Ia. Senator Harlan was a member of the school board and [illegible] Hunt applied for a position as teacher. One of the requirements was that he should be a teacher of languages and he [illegible] [illegible] education. He declined to [illegible] an examination or offer any [illegible] recommendation, simply saying that if he was employed he would make the [illegible] the best it ever had been. Hunt was given the place, engaged a tutor who instructed him in the languages at night and the next day the new principal gave the pupils knowledge he had gleaned the night before. His wonderful executive ability brought about many changes. His worth [illegible] work became known all over Iowa.

At that time he boarded with the mother of Frank Hatton, afterward postmaster general of the United States, and [illegible] teaching had much to do with his [illegible]. All this time the people of Columbia City wondered if "Smith" Hunt was dead or alive. From Mount Pleasant Hunt was appointed superintendent of the Des Moines schools and later was elected president of Ames college.

In a few years he went to Seattle, Wash. He had very little money, not much more than he needed for his daily expenses, but he bought the Daily Post [illegible] and organized a stock company and in a short time was paid $18,000, which he at once put into the plant. In the conduct of the paper his wonderful executive ability was again demonstrated and it was not long until he had made it one of the best papers on the Pacific coast. He was the original boomer of Seattle and the story of that boom is a world-wide story. Hunt became interested in almost everything, railroads, steam railways and street railways, was a director in half a dozen financial institutions, president of a bank, a stockholder in dozens of companies. In politics he was the boss of the state.

The United States senatorship was offered to him, but he declined it and then dictated the election of the senators. Generous and affable, no man in the state of Washington had more friends than he.

Then came the panic of '93. Values went to smash and there was a financial mourning all over the west. Mr. Hunt left Seattle owing $1,201,300, with nothing to pay it. But he sent word back that some day he would return and pay every cent with compound interest.

In New York he got in with some wealthy men who sent him to China to build a railroad. But after his arrival there the Chinese [illegible] the concession to the American syndicate and Hunt was on his uppers again. He knocked about China a few months and then went to Korea. How it happened no one knows, but he got on the good side of the Korean king and for him negotiated a loan with Russia. For this the king gave him a large tract of land on which were gold and silver, and Hunt organized the Oriental Mining company and sold an interest in the mines to the Rothschilds for $8,000,000.

Then he returned temporarily to America. He published that on a certain day he would be in Seattle and pay off the claims against him. In one day he paid out more than $1,000,000. He had a list of every man he owed and he paid the claims according to his own books, with interest and in some cases with compound interest.

More than that, he looked up every person who had invested money on his advice and lost and made good the losses. When he was square with Seattle he rewarded a few friends who had been loyal to him in adversity and then went to Columbia City, Ind. To settle his $2,000 claims he paid out more than $12,000. For a claim of $100 he would pay $250 and in addition he made generous presents to friends of his boyhood.

At different times he has taken about 90 young men from Columbia City and made them bosses and superintendents in his mines in Korea. His brother James is the general superintendent of the works.

How much the former country school teacher is worth can only be estimated from the stories that have come back to Indiana, but it is generally understood that he is the owner of at least $15,000,000. He is the associate of Rockefeller and the Rothschilds and a welcome guest in the most exclusive circles in London, France, Vienna, Berlin and the United States.

Royalty has been pleased with his friendship and potentates have called on him for aid. He lives like a prince and never for a moment forgets those who were kind to him when kindness was more to be treasured than gold. For the last two or three years Mr. Hunt's health has not been good and he is now recuperating at Cairo, Egypt, with his family.—(Chicago Chronicle.

RESULTS NOT PROMISES

Are What the Afflicted People Want

NEW YORK DOCTORS have proven in over 500 cured patients that they get results; cures, remarkable cures being made daily after failures had been made by many other physicians and specialists.

New York Doctors have been located in Colorado Springs for a long time and have overcome jealousy, prejudice and envy of the many who have tried in every way to belittle their skill, and who tried to discourage their patients and even friends from consulting these noted Specialists, but "By their Works have they proven their worth" till now they occupy a place of envy in the homes of the afflicted people of the state and all their patients who have given them a fair trial are sending their friends and afflicted neighbors.

By request free treatment will continue for a few days, and if you need treatment go to the specialists, who have proven their ability and who will not promise unless they are positive and who guarantee you a cure if they undertake your case.

The following are a few expressions from some of the many patients who are satisfied with New York Doctors' treatment and prove even to the most skeptical their superior skill and successful methods of treatment:

MR. S. S. DILENBECK, President Citizens State Bank, Perry, Iowa, now spending summer in Colorado Springs, says:

You are at liberty to use my testimonial, for I feel you have accomplished good results in my case since coming to Colorado Springs, and taking your treatments. I have been troubled with Catarrh and Bronchial Asthma for years, and unable to obtain relief from other methods of treatment. New York Doctors have relieved me, till now I can breathe with ease and feel good and perfectly satisfied that they are doctors of unquestioned ability in their specialties.

W. A. ETCHISON, 28 Cheyenne Boulevard, says:

New York Doctors are treating me for Catarrh and Throat Troubles, and have proven to me their ability, for I feel like a new man, and my throat, which for a long time had given me serious trouble, is not bothering me at all. I recommend all chronic sufferers to consult these Doctors.

Mr. Etchison is one of Colorado Springs' old residents, and a man well known in this section.

F. D. CONVERSE of Iowa, visiting in Manitou, says:

New York Doctors have done what many other specialists had failed to do—cured my Asthma and Catarrh of bronchial tubes. I am grateful and highly recommend these Doctors.

MICHAEL MAHON, 180 Washington Avenue, Colorado City, says:

New York Doctors understood their business I am sure, for they are curing my back trouble, after many had failed. I highly recommend these specialists to all afflicted people.

MISS HATTIE PEIPHO, 209 E. Costilla Street, says:

When I first consulted New York Doctors I had severe pains in right lung and fever every day. I am happy to say my pain and fever left me in a few days, and I feel like I was perfectly well again, and want to go back to my home in Iowa.

MISS BERTHA SODMAN, 314 E. Las Vegas Street, says:

New York Doctors have done me a world of good, my throat and lungs are improving daily, and I feel well satisfied in every way with their treatment.

F. W. HUNT, Colorado City, says:

New York Doctors have put me on my feet again so I can work, and I am very grateful and glad I met these Doctors. My Liver, Stomach, Kidneys and Catarrh are all relieved, so I feel once more like a man, and recommend everyone to consult these Doctors.

MRS. M. OTIS, 11 E. Mill.

Has been treated successfully by New York Doctors for Liver and Kidney troubles, complicated with Dropsy.

CHRISTIAN MUNSON, Jamestown, N. Y., says:

New York Doctors have been treating me since coming to Colorado Springs from New York, and I am well pleased with their treatment. My lungs and general health have improved very much under their treatment.

P. C. BALL, 122 N. Pitkin, says:

My Stomach troubles have improved rapidly under New York Doctors' treatment, and I am feeling much better every day.

MRS. C. F. AULD, 1022 Lincoln Avenue, Colorado City

Was saved from a serious operation by New York Doctors' treatments. Mrs. Auld has been afflicted for some time and is now improving daily, and says she feels like a new woman, and is recommending all ladies to consult New York Doctors.

ALEX THOMPSON, 228 Cheyenne Avenue, says:

New York Doctors relieved my Hay Fever at once, and have assisted me in every way, and I am recommending them to all afflicted people I meet.

MRS. JOHN W. GUSTAFSON, 209 S. Limite, says:

New York Doctors are treating our son Buford, who has been afflicted with Kidney troubles for over two years, and we are glad to state that he is improving nicely, and the severe Dropsy he had has almost entirely disappeared.

J. C. DORSEY, High Street, says:

I feel better than in 30 years, thanks to New York Doctors' treatment. My Catarrh and Bronchial troubles have improved wonderfully under their treatment, and I am glad to recommend them to all who are in need of successful treatment.

MRS. F. R. MILLS, 416 N. Pino Street, says:

I have been troubled with Catarrh and Asthma for years, and tried many treatments with no success till I started New York Doctors' treatment. They improved me from the first week, till now I feel perfectly well and can sleep and breathe as well as anyone. Have even taken cold and still I am free from Asthma. My cure is a wonderful one, and I cannot help praising these Doctors, and recommending every sufferer from this terrible disease to take their treatment at once. I am from Missouri and will gladly tell anyone of my case who cares to investigate New York Doctors' treatment.

E. C. McKNIGHT, P. O. Box 24, Colorado City, says:

New York Doctors have satisfied me in every way since taking their treatment for my Catarrh and Throat troubles. I have improved steadily all the time.

Would space permit over 200 could be printed, but the above are sufficient to prove their ability and they are not like many specialists who promise everything and really accomplish nothing.

Remember three months' services free (medicine excepted), to all who call in next few days. All Chronic Diseases treated successfully.

Diseases of women cured without operations. Diseases of men given the latest treatment known and cures made in every case. Let every afflicted man or woman consult New York Doctors and be cured.

The Saints — AN EVEN BREAK YESTERDAY — Follow — BREWERS ARE 20 AHEAD — Milwaukee

[illegible]

An Even Break in Double-Header.

Millionaires Outplay Brewers, but Latter Take One Game---Record-Breaking Attendance.

Milwaukee was lucky yesterday. Fortune knocked at Duffy's door and Hughey was right there on the spot to let her in. This explains why yesterday's double header was a split even instead of two victories for the locals. The visitors were outplayed in both games. That Duffy and his happy family are going to put up a hard fight to stay at the top was shown by yesterday's game. The visitors were in the game from start to finish. With the exception of Braun, who fanned five times in the two games, they hit the ball, did good work in the field and were ready to take advantage of any misplay on the part of the locals.

One of the largest week-day crowds that has witnessed a game here for some time was in attendance. Over 3,000 were on the grounds. A shower that preceded the games kept a great many away. This same shower put the grounds in poor condition for the first game, the skinned parts of the diamond being a mass of adobe. The players slipped around in great fashion until the sun came out. Swacina went through his usual evolutions and fell down twice.

The First Game.

The first game was won by the visitors by a score of 6 to 4. Up until the eighth inning the locals to all appearances had the victory in their wallets but luck was against them. With the score 4 to 1 Gatins opened Milwaukee's half of the eighth with a single. Braun turned over a new leaf and walked instead of pushing the breezes. Duffy made what was in all probability a hit but Villeman threw to catch him at first. The ball struck Duffy's shoulder and bounced off before Everitt could grab it. Then while the local captain was chasing the sphere Gatins and Braun scored, Duffy going to third. He came in later on O'Neil's triple that bounded over Swacina's head. Bunched hits with an error and a passed ball had given the visitors three runs in the second, fifth and sixth. The locals secured their tallies in the third and fourth. In the third Doran was hit by a pitched ball, Francks doubled and Congalton sent one over Gatins' head. This netted two runs and in the fourth singles by Nill, Granville and Villeman brought in the others.

A Walk Away

The second game was a walk away for the Money Burners. In the third inning the home team began to pound Kenna in great shape and by the middle of the fifth, Duffy was ready to substitute Vallendorf for the college boy with the "dreamy eyes" who proved such an enigma for the local batsmen when Milwaukee showed here before. In the third McNeeley reached the initial sack safely as Thornton thought it unnecessary to hold on to the ball. Fleming sent out a hot liner good for three bags and McNeeley wandered home. Francks' safe one allowed Fleming to cross the plate. The slaughter occurred in the fifth however. Fleming opened with a hit and Francks sacrificed him to third. Fleming having gained second on a balk. Congalton was allowed to walk upon the advice of Duffy, and when Everitt and Nill hit safely Fleming and Congalton scored. Braun, in attempting to catch Congalton at home blocked the runner from the plate and the local right fielder gave him such a push in getting him out of the way that the ball was knocked out of Braun's hands and rolled to the grandstand. This allowed Everitt to score and Nill took third. A hit by Granville brought in Nill and then Vallendorf appeared on the scene. Swacina doubled however and scored Granville. The visitors got tallies in the second and sixth. In the second two singles and a triple brought in two and in the sixth successive singles gave them one.

Much Wrangling.

The game was marred by considerable wrangling but the recent fines kept the trouble from becoming very serious. Everitt maintained a very conservative policy and let Duffy do most of the talking. Berryhill changed his decisions several times and made some bad decisions but he tried to even up so what's the use kicking. The official score:

Ulrich's Error Lost the Second Game.

In the First Game Denver Had Decidedly the Best of It---Kelly In Trouble as Usual.

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, July 18.—Peoria and Denver broke even in a double header this afternoon. The local team had emphatically the best of it in the first game and but for a bad error upon the part of Ulrich, Packard's recent importation from Kansas City, Denver would have taken the second. Ulrich is the catcher signed by Packard to take the place of "Jacks" Latimer, who has been given his release. Ulrich is said to be very good behind the plate but in the time he was in the game today he did not demonstrate exceptional brilliancy either in fielding or in stick work. The new man was put into the game in the first inning of the second game because of an injury received by Schelbeck. The second game was very closely played and at the end of the ninth inning stood two and two. Another inning was necessary and in this Peoria scored the winning run.

Kelly again played a star game as umpire and twice had clashes with the managers of the two teams. Delehanty walked down the diamond and vigorously called the umpire down for what he considered a bad decision. It was not five minutes later before Big Bill Wilson of the Peorias walked up to the umpire and threatened to hurt him. There was every reason to believe that had not the immense crowd of spectators displayed such hostility Kelly would have made good his threat to put the two captains out of the game. One of the Peoria team declared after the game that if the umpiring is as raw tomorrow the closing game of the series will develop some trouble between Wilson and Kelly.

TWO FOR WASHINGTON.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Washington, July 18.—Washington won both games today. The first was a 12-inning affair and was decided on Clark's single, a sacrifice and Orth's single. Holmes was put out of the game for disputing the umpire's decisions. Lee had the visitors guessing throughout the second game and only in the last inning when the Chicagos had the sacks filled with no one out did they appear dangerous. Attendance 3,400. Score:

DETROIT LOST

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Boston, July 18.—A balk by Mullin and Smith's throw to the grandstand instead of to McGuire gave Boston three runs in the fifth inning, which with two more added in the seventh by loose playing gave Boston the victory. Mullin was wild but effective. Young was touched up rather freely. Attendance 8,000. Score:

M. H. SEXTON.

President of the Western league and the man who sits in judgment on belligerent ball players.

Umpire Brennan Tells Story of President Sexton

Umpire Jack Brennan tells a good story on President M. H. Sexton which serves to demonstrate the business end of the head of the Western League. On day Mr. Sexton was witnessing a game played in Rock Island in the Three-I league of which he is president. M. Sexton was one of the fans on that day and there was no one that could root any louder than he. At least the umpire, mentioned formerly, I had occasion to put one of the Rock Island players out of the game, says Brennan, and immediately there was a storm of protest from the grandstand and bleachers. I have forgotten what the offense was but I could hear Sexton calling above the rest of the crowd. He did not do anything, Jack. He went to give me a little show. I expected to get called down for that night when I saw him I turned in my reports. I asked him if he didn't think I was doing right. Of course he said you did just right in putting him out of the game. He deserved it and I am glad to see that you did not let the crowd influence you.

Five more games in the singles of the second tennis tournament were played at the Young Men's Christian association today. In the game between Kittredge and Fuller in the preliminary round won easily 6-1, 6-1. Regin lost to Dix, score 6-1, 6-4 and Arnold won from Black 6-4, 6-4. Hay won from Lennan, score . . . and Haskins and Arnold also played their game in the second round. Hay won, making a score of 6-0. In the game between Stillwell and Kern, but the former was victorious. The tournament will be resumed tomorrow morning.

There are now over fifty entries in the tournament. The following games will be played tomorrow: Chapman vs. Hay; Haight vs. Dodge; Smith vs. Hills; W. W. Wise vs. Thomas; Hamill vs. D. Ferry; Moore vs. Llaney vs. Dowley.

The Y. M. C. A. baseball team is endeavoring to make arrangements to play the Colorado City Eagles. It accepted their challenge for a game last week. A game was to have been played yesterday but the necessary preparations could not be made. The Y. M. C. A. team is trying to get games with the Eagles, with the Keystones and other city teams.

The sixth qualifying round of the annual tournament for the Jewett cup was played over the links of the Town and Gown club yesterday afternoon. W. Scott winning the round by a net score of 82. S. J. Mattocks was second with a net score of . . . C. P. Dodge won the Haskell ball sweepstake also played during the afternoon. Mr. Dodge's score was 87. Mr. Scott with . . . of 80 was second.

But two more qualifying rounds for the Jewett cup tournament remain to be played. The seventh round will be played next Saturday. The tournament itself will probably be played the first or second Saturday in August. Those who have qualified for the tournament are F. . . Kirchner, S. F. Hamp, H. B. Davis, . . . S. . . Caldwell and Walter Scott. The Jewett cup is played for every year and is now in the possession of . . . Sauce. Following are yesterday's results:

WHEELER HANDICAP WAS WON BY JACK RATLIN

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Chicago, July 18.—In a mud fest of form Jack Ratlin at . . . to 1 won the Wheeler handicap worth $9,000 at Washington park today in a heavy track. The race was the feature of the closing day of the meeting. Results:

First race five furlongs—Rutland won, Commodore second, Must third. Time 1 04.

Second race six furlongs—Bull . . . won, Orante second, Apollo third. Time 1 17 2.

Third race the Lakeview handicap six furlongs—Proceeds won, Hobob second, Peter Paul third. Time 1 18.

Fourth race Wheeler handicap three-year-old and upwards 1¼ miles—Jack Ratlin won, Cold Bell second, Flying Ship third. Time 2 14 3.

Fifth race mile—Bob Franklin won, Echodale second, Evelyn Byrd third. Time 1 46 2.

Sixth race mile—Wattonicht won, Pehrin second, Mary Glenn third. Time 1 46.

FIRE EATER, THE FAVORITE WON IROQUOIS STAKES

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

New York, July 18.—On a track deep in mud August Belmont's Fire Eater, the favorite, galloped home a winner in the Iroquois stakes worth $5,000 at Brighton Beach today. J. L. Smathers, owner of McChesney, arrived in New York today. McChesney also arrived today and was safely quartered at the Gravesend track. He is apparently in good condition having stood the journey from Chicago in fine shape. Results:

First race six furlongs—Young Henry won, Salvatelli second, Ingold third. Time 1 17 2.

Second race steeplechase about two miles—The Curragh stakes—Walter Cleary won, Gum Honey second, May Harrison third. Time 4 47.

Third race—Venus stakes six furlongs—Turquoise Blue won, Inquisitive Girl second and Audience third. Time 1 01 1 5.

Fourth race 1¼ miles—The Iroquois stakes—Fire Eater won, Cardinal Wolsey second, Monte Carlo third. Time 1 58 3 5.

Fifth race 1¼ miles—Lord Badge won, Courtenay second, Sambo third. Time 1 58 3 5.

Sixth race 1 1-16 miles—Rosland won, Satire second, Star and Garter third. Time 1 50.

TRACK EVENTS AT ROCKY FORD FAIR

The speed program for the twelfth annual fair of the Arkansas Valley Fair association to be held at Rocky Ford September 2 to 4 inclusive is just out. The track this year will be in charge of Jack Sproule, a well-known horseman of the southwest and is said to be one of the best half-mile tracks in the west. The program will consist of the usual running, trotting and pacing races and in addition there will be cowboy races and other special events. A total of $3,000 in purses has been offered. On the first day of the fair a free-for-all trot and pace for Otero, Bent and Powers counties three-year-olds will be run for horses that have been owned or trained two months prior to the race by residents of the territory named. Entries close August 26.

Led From the Start and Finished Over Mile Ahead of Constitution and More Than Two Miles Ahead of Columbia.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

New London, Conn., July 18.—There was no room for doubt in the victory of the Reliance today in the second run of the New York Yacht club cruise of 39 miles from New Haven to this port. She led from the start and finished more than a mile ahead of the Constitution and over two miles ahead of the Columbia, beating the former 6 minutes and 29 seconds in elapsed time and the latter 8 minutes and 24 seconds. The Constitution beat the Columbia 9 minutes and 55 seconds.

Starting in a light favorable breeze the Reliance within 15 minutes was three-quarters of a mile ahead of the other two boats, but when the wind increased, as it did about half an hour after the start, the new boat did not gain so rapidly. In fact for 20 miles of the run made in a good 12-knot breeze and the wind forward of the beam the Constitution held to the Reliance in fine shape. Five miles from the finish however, the new boat pulled away more rapidly while the Columbia steadily dropped behind the other two after half of the course had been covered.

In Record Time

The Reliance covered the distance of 39 nautical miles in 3 hours 18 minutes and 28 seconds, a speed of 11 knots an hour, which is the quickest time ever made on this run of the cruise. The small boats were sent off first, the classes gradually increasing in size until at 10 16 the three cup defenders were started. The Reliance as usual won the fight for place, crossing the line 21 seconds after the gun, Columbia a close second. The Constitution was a poor third crossing the leeward of the line some seconds after the handicap gun. The wind at the start was light and within 15 minutes after crossing the line the Reliance had pulled out until she was three-quarters of a mile ahead of the other two boats, the Constitution having at the same time come up even with the Columbia. Soon the wind began to pick up and the Reliance passed Branford Beacon five miles from the start a full mile ahead of her rivals. By 11 o'clock the new boat was nearly a mile and a half ahead. All the yachts covered the first 12 miles of the course in a few seconds over an hour, having passed every boat in the fleet with the exception of the old cup defender Vigilant, now a yawl, which was still ahead down the sound. When off the six-mile reef buoy, which marked the half-way point of the run, the Constitution began to gain on the Reliance and at the same time dropped the Columbia quite rapidly. The Vigilant rounded the Cornfield 25 miles from the start a minute ahead of the Reliance but the new boat went by her a few minutes after as if she was anchored.

Settled the Race.

For the next five miles the Constitution held the Reliance in excellent shape but as the boats neared Bartlett's reef lightship, 36½ miles on the course and about 2½ miles from the finish, they met a strong flood tide setting through the race. This seemed to affect the Constitution more than the Reliance and the Columbia worst of all. At Bartlett's reef lightship the Reliance was 6 minutes and 12 seconds ahead of the Constitution and 12 minutes and 40 seconds ahead of the Columbia, so the race was practically settled at that point. The Reliance gained nevertheless on both the other boats although each of her rivals set their balloon jibs in the hope of cutting down the lead of the new flyer.

The Reliance swept proudly across the finish line shortly after 1 30 and headed at once into the harbor where she had her sails almost furled before the heavy rain began to fall.

Official Time

The official time of the 90-footers in today's runs were as follows:

Boat	Start	Finish	Elapsed Time
Reliance	10 16 20	1 33 48	3 18 28
Constitution	10 17 00	1 41 57	3 24 57
Columbia	10 16 45	1 50 37	3 34 22

Tonight more than 300 yachts of all descriptions fairly choke the harbor mouth. In the fleet are no less than five successful defenders of the America's cup, the schooner Columbia, the schooner Puritan, the sloop Volunteer, the yawl Vigilant and the grand old sloop Columbia which defeated two Shamrocks in 1899 and 1901.

Just after sunset the southeast storm which had been threatening all day, broke in all its fury and at 8 o'clock it was blowing a gale diagonally up New London harbor. The yachts anchored at the entrance of the harbor had a hard time of it and the old cup defender Volunteer, owned by J. Malcolm Forbes of Boston, dragged her anchor a short distance and at 9 o'clock was within 50 yards of the rock. The rest of the fleet rode out the gale in good shape. The three cup yachts being anchored up the harbor felt little of its fury. A number of minor accidents were reported.

Sporting Notes

It is Newmeyer's turn to do the work in the box today with Jones on the bench.

Swormstedt and Lucia will probably be the battery for the visitors.

Fleming batted at a 600 clip yesterday, getting six hits out of 10 times up.

Nill wielded the stick at a half a thousand. Starnagle and Doran were the only Millionaires to miss connection in the two games.

Everitt was out for double plays yesterday. He made a nice one alone in the third inning of the first game.

McNeeley fanned five men and gave not a single pass in the second game. Villeman, while more liberal with gifts, made eight of the Brewers seek shelter. Among them was Stone, the slugger.

Old Newfoot Tom Fleming was in the game in the field as well as at the bat yesterday, accepting several nice chances.

Umpire Berryhill was off several times yesterday and on more than one occasion changed his decisions. Duffy and Everitt both had reason to converse with the handler of the indicator but Berryhill would not talk.

In the fifth Francks stopped McVicker's liner but in throwing the ball to first sent it too high. Everitt jumped and caught it in one hand but dropped it again only to catch it again. He alighted on the bag before McVicker arrived but Berryhill did not see it that way.

Rube Waddell, the pitching wonder of the American league, has established a new record by striking out 14 men of the Chicago White Sox. Every man on the team with the exception of Slattery was retired on strikes one or more times.

Thomas McCreery, late center fielder of the Minneapolis ball team, has been secured by Ned Hanlon, manager of the Brooklyn National league team. He will join his team in Chicago.

The change in the football rules have occasioned some comment among local university players of the game. The rules forbid a line man carrying the ball unless one of the backs is brought forward and takes his place in the line of the man given the ball. This implies only while the play is within a twenty-five-yard limit of the goal. The idea was to do away as much as possible with the growing tendency of close formation plays and make the play more open. Captain Bale of the college states that the new rule will make but little difference with the Tigers' play.

New Jersey and New York autoists operate a total of 9,400 machines, of all classes, according to the reports of the secretaries of state for the two states who issue licenses for the chauffeurs.

As a result of the numerous fatalities that have accompanied auto racing abroad special courses are being talked of for the sport. Plans have already been prepared for a great "Autodrome" on the outskirts of Paris.

Elastic Pointer, the erratic and blind brother to Star Pointer, will be tried again this year by John Hussey, who declares he is the fastest pacer he ever drove.

Rythmic, the blind wonder of the trotting turf, is now stepping miles faster than 2 15 with the last quarter a two minute clip. He promises another sensational season.

EXMOOR GOLF CLUB TOOK MARSHALL FIELD TROPHY

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Milwaukee, July 18.—The Exmoor Golf club of Chicago today for the second year took the Marshall Field trophy, and if the club can take the cup next year it will remain in its possession. Twelve clubs were entered but only nine started and one of these, Riverside of Chicago, was forced to drop out because of the indisposition of Bliss, its star left hand player. The contest was of individuals against bogey, which is 36 for the course. The Exmoor club finished 47 down on Bogey and the nearest competitor, Midlothian, was 53 down. The Exmoor players were W. I. Egan, H. C. Egan, R. H. McElwee, W. J. Osborne and B. L. Cummins.

HARRY PEPPERS WANTS MATCH WITH BONNER

Special to the Gazette.

Victor, July 18.—Harry Peppers, the Chicago middleweight who won his fight with Miles, the Omaha fighter, in four rounds two nights ago, is now seeking a fight with Bonner, who fought Morgan Williams here early in the spring. A committee has been named to confer with Bonner's manager to secure a match between the two men.

SOUTH END WONDERS TO PLAY IN PUEBLO

The South End Wonders will go to Pueblo next Sunday to play the Columbine Music Co. team of that city. Both teams have good records and an interesting game is expected.

The sacred fantasie, "Providence," on the above program contains such well-known favorites as the "Inflamatus" from "Stabat Mater"; "I Would That My Love," "Cornelius"; "Priests' March" from "Athalia"; "The Holy City" and "The Heavens Are Telling" from "The Creation."

NEW CENTURY AT HIAWATHA PARK

The Hiawatha Park Opera company enters upon its fourth successful week tomorrow night by presenting Gilbert and Sullivan's most popular opera, "H. M. S. Pinafore," with the following cast:

The Rt. Hon. Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B.....E. L. Graves
Captain Corcoran, commanding H. M. S. Pinafore.....O. L. Jeancon
Ralph Rackstraw.....Faithful Pearce
Dick Deadeye.....V. P. Mason
Bill Bobstay, the boatswain.....Myles Rayfield
Sammy Hornpipe.....Lura Chisholm
Josephine, Captain Corcoran's daughter....Miss Emma A. De Bold
Hebe, Sir Joseph's daughter.....Miss Marie Dickey
Little Buttercup, a Portsmouth bumboat woman.....Miss Bernyce Childs

Miss Emma De Bold, prima donna of the company, whose rendition of the difficult role of "Martha" last week received such enthusiastic approval, will undoubtedly meet with popular favor as Josephine.

Miss Bernyce Childs, who was last seen as Pianetta in "Mascotte," will, after a rest of a week, again be seen in the role of Little Buttercup. All the other principals who have thoroughly established themselves as favorites with the audiences since the initial appearance of the company, have congenial roles in which they can be seen to advantage, while the chorus will maintain the high standard that has characterized their work in previous productions.

The usual Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday popular-priced matinees will be given during the week, in addition to the regular performances every night.

RIOTERS AT EVANSVILLE INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

RUSSIA'S REASON FOR REJECTING KISHENEV PETITION

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

St. Petersburg, July 18.—The foreign office authorizes the Associated Press correspondent to say that the reason for its refusal to accept the Kishenev petition was the inalterable objection of the Russian government to outside interference in the internal affairs of the empire and that even had the petition been acceptable as a diplomatic document, Russia would have regarded the publication of the text before transmission as unusual. The foreign office says it is willing to regard the incident as closed and adds that Russia continues to cherish American friendship.

RETAIL CLERKS.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Zanesville, Ohio, July 18.—The convention of the International Association of Retail Clerks adjourned today to meet in Galveston in 1905. The last acts of the convention were to raise the salary of President O'Brien to $1,200 per year, while Secretary-Treasurer Morris' salary was advanced from $1,200 to $1,800 per year. The per capita tax also was increased to 40 cents per quarter for men and 20 cents for women.

REPORT OF ARBITRATORS.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Gloversville, N. Y., July 18.—C. M. Parker, umpire of the Gloversville committee appointed to arbitrate the glove cutters strike of Gloversville and Johnstown, which caused a lockout of 8,000 employes, made a report today recommending the schedule submitted by the cutters for day work. The cutters age to work nine hours a day and cut six dozen gloves. The umpire says it is plain that men working for $1.50 a day could not decently support themselves and families in Gloversville and Johnstown and had difficulty in paying expenses even with the most rigid economy.

MAN HUNT IN ILLINOIS.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Tampico, Ill., July 18.—A man answering the description of William Rudolph, the alleged bank robber, who escaped from the St. Louis jail recently, where he was confined pending trial for the murder of Detective Shumacher near Union, Mo., was run to cover this afternoon in a canebrake near here. The canebrake is being guarded tonight and bloodhounds have been sent for.

GARDNER NOT DESTROYED.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Joliet, Ill., July 18.—The report of the destruction of Gardner, Ill., in the storm last night proves untrue. While the storm was the worst in the history of the town, no lives were lost and no one was injured. A few houses were damaged and trees and shrubbery were destroyed. Country districts report considerable damage by rain and wind but no fatalities in this vicinity have been reported.

RELIGIOUS CEREMONY IN ROME

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Rome, July 18.—One of the most picturesque ceremonies of this season in Rome, the procession of the Carmelite Madonna which occurs two days after the feast day of the madonna, was much curtailed because of Pope Leo's condition. Usually a long procession of women, girls, priests and monks winds through the streets of Trastevere, the popular district, carrying an image of the madonna and chanting hymns in her praise while candles and flowers are strewn along the route, the multitude looking on enchanted. Today, however, the image of the madonna was taken early and privately to the church without any display, but long and more fervent prayers were offered to God for the preservation of the aged pontiff.

NO NEW PLANS.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Washington, July 18.—To prevent confusion, Secretary Moody took occasion to reiterate the fact that there has not been and will not be any reopening of the question of the 13,000-ton ships Idaho and Mississippi, plans for which were approved some time ago. The ships will be contracted for and built as designed by the board of construction.

STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

San Francisco, July 18.—Rev. R. C. Foute, rector of Grace Episcopal church, has been stricken with paralysis in the left side. For some time he was unconscious and it was feared that he could not survive. He has recovered the use of his faculties, however, and his condition is reported greatly improved. He is one of the best known Episcopal divines in the United States.

A SEVERE STORM.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Warsaw, Ind., July 18.—A severe storm and heavy rainfall early today destroyed thousands of acres of growing corn. Whole fields east of this place, in an area with a radius of six miles, were ruined.

ENJOINED FROM PICKETING.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Beloit, Wis., July 18.—Judge B. F. Dunwiddie of the circuit court of Rock county, today granted a restraining injunction against picketing at the Beloit machine works. The injunction is very sweeping in its nature. The Machinists union has been out on a strike for nine weeks.

CUBAN TREATIES.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Havana, July 18.—President Palma has sent a letter to President Roosevelt expressing his personal gratification for the consideration shown by the United States throughout the negotiations of the treaties, and also his pleasure over the satisfactory conclusions regarding naval stations and the Isle of Pines questions.

The Cuban administration is greatly pleased over the action of the senate on the treaties, which, it believes, relieves what might have developed into an embarrassing situation both for the United States and Cuba.

The authorities learn that the amount of government land within the area of the naval station at Guantanamo is much greater than was supposed. The expense of acquiring the private holdings will not be great. The gunboat Nashville will proceed at once to Bahia Honda, where she will be joined by Cuban engineers. The area of the station at Bahia Honda has been delimited and includes land on both sides of the harbor.

AMERICANS IN NORWAY.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Berlin, July 18.—A dispatch from Molde, Norway, announces that the German imperial yacht Hohenzollern and the Hamburg-American line steamer Auguste Victoria from New York, have arrived there, the latter having many American tourists on board. Emperor William permitted the passengers of the Auguste Victoria to visit the Hohenzollern and races occurred between the boats of the two steamers. The emperor rewarded the victors with money prizes.

Among the guests who were invited to dine on board the Hohenzollern was General Draper, former United States minister at Rome.

KNIGHTS OF ST. JOHN.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Peoria, Ill., July 18.—The five local lodges of the Knights of St. John at a joint meeting accepted the offer of the international body to hold their next annual convention in this city June 22, 1904.

KILLED BY SWITCH ENGINE.

(By Associated Press Exclusively to the Gazette in Colorado Springs.)

Denver, July 18.—Catherine Block, a woman about 38 years of age, was run down by a switch engine at Nineteenth and Wynkoop streets tonight and killed. Her head was crushed and several bones were broken.

"GLENDALE," RESIDENCE OF MR. E. W. GENTER, IN IVYWILD.

"GLENDALE"

Suburban Residence of Mr. E. W. Genter

ONE of the handsomest residences in the Pike's Peak region is the suburban estate of Mr. E. W. Genter in Ivywild. The property was owned for many years by Colonel J. H. Breen, who brought it out of its wild state and made a beauty spot of it. When it passed into the hands of Mr. Genter he immediately proceeded to make many improvements, including a large, handsome and commodious residence, a fine gateway, walks, drives, lawns, flower beds, fountains and so on. One of the attractive features of the place is the stream running through it, which has been walled up with stone, and which with the greenery which overhangs it makes a cool and delightful retreat. The place is known as "Glendale," and is one of the notable estates of Colorado Springs.

VIEW OF LAWNS AND SHRUBBERY, "GLENDALE."

The Gazette's Special Washington Letter

Elihu Root Possible Nominee for the Governorship

(Special Correspondence.)

WASHINGTON, July 15—Political gossip is now connecting the name of the secretary of war, Mr. Elihu Root, with the Republican nomination for governor of New York. This comes as a surprise to a great many people, but is not looked upon as an impossibility by New York men now in Washington who are familiar with the Empire state's politics. The secretary has never been credited with personal political ambition, and in fact it has been generally understood that as soon as he could leave the cabinet agreeably and without inconveniencing the president he would devote his attention to building up a law practice. The secretary is now already a wealthy man, however, and not extravagant in his tastes, and it may be that the glamor of political life, as seen from a cabinet position, may prove to have irresistible attractions. It has been hinted for years past, whenever Mr. Root's name was mentioned as a possible candidate for political honors, that he was vulnerable from a popular point of view. No charges have been formulated against him, however, and the hints are most vague and indefinite. They probably refer to his work as legal counsel in the days of Boss Tweed.

Payne Very Ill.

The postmaster general is a very sick man, and but for the extraordinary conditions existing in his department he would have undoubtedly taken at least a long vacation this summer, if not even handed in his resignation. When he returned from New York last week he had a fainting spell on the train, and his driveling companions were much alarmed at his apparent state of extreme exhaustion. It would be very difficult for him to resign just at this time, however. It would be charged that he went out under fire, and not only does the postmaster general object himself to giving such an impression, but President Roosevelt has urged him not to leave at this time if he can possibly stand the strain.

Arizona Politics.

Arizona politics are again occupying the attention of the president and the interior department. It is a warm day in Washington when there is not something doing in connection with Arizona officials, and statehood would undoubtedly bring great peace of mind among those who are forced to handle these matters here. If a vacancy occurs there is always a tremendous push for the job, and an appointee no sooner takes his seat than apparently the entire population of the territory engages in a mud-slinging contest to oust him therefrom. This is a matter of general procedure. Of course, it does not apply to any particular case, for Arizona has been rather unfortunate in the past in the character of some of the men given important positions. The man under fire just now is Secretary Stoddard, who in Governor Brody's absence from the territory has been acting governor. It is reported that the Maricopa County Republican Press association has filed charges against Stoddard with the president, and that the president has replied through his secretary to the fact that the charges have been received and will be given careful attention. Secretary Stoddard is accused of working against a certain bill, which proposed to deprive him of a considerable part of his income from fees. The bill passed the legislature, notwithstanding Stoddard's alleged opposition, and those who made the fight are accusing the secretary of using unusual, devious and sundry methods and blandishments in his campaign against it. These matters are always referred by the president directly to the secretary of the interior, and as Mr. Hitchcock is away on his long vacation it will be some time before the matter will be finally disposed of.

Jefferson's Bible.

During the second session of the fifty-seventh congress much interest was aroused by the adoption of a resolution providing for printing as a public document what is known as "Jefferson's Bible." Thousands of requests came to members of congress for the publication, but at the same time many protests against printing the document came from clergymen and religious organizations. These protests prevailed, and, notwithstanding the resolution to print the document was adopted, the actual work has not been commenced, and, it is said, will not be. The book is a collection made by Thomas Jefferson of extracts from the teachings of Christ, the original copy of which is in the possession of the Smithsonian institute, where it is kept under lock and key. The work is a volume of eighty-two pages, made in scrapbook form, into which Jefferson pasted clippings from four testaments in as many languages. On the left-hand pages he pasted the clippings in two columns, the first in Greek and the other in Latin. On the right hand he put the French and English versions, making four closely printed columns in Greek, Latin, French and English. There are marginal notes in Jefferson's own handwriting, with a table in front giving the pages and citing the chapters and verses from which the clippings are taken. He omitted everything of miraculous nature, confining the clippings to the teachings of Jesus. The public document which was to have been issued in pursuance of the resolution was to have been a fac simile of the book as made by Jefferson.

Department Hours.

The government clerks in Washington are threatened with the loss of their lunch.

It has always been customary to close the departments at 3 p. m. Saturdays during the hot weather. The hour's leave is not provided for by law, still there is nothing in the statutes to forbid it, and heretofore it has always been cheerfully agreed upon by the heads of the various departments. However, when the question came up this summer at one of the cabinet meetings Secretary Root declared that the law did not provide for closing the government offices at 3 o'clock on Saturday from the 1st of June to the 1st of October, and the privilege should not be extended to the clerks of his department. Secretary Moody, with New England economy of time, seconded his colleague, but Mr. Hay, Mr. Payne and the rest have not as yet rescinded the summer schedule. Of course, such a thing as an open protest is unthought of by the government employe, but there were not a few murmurs, and some private research brought to light the startling fact that the law does not provide that the employes of the departments shall be allowed any time for lunch. It states specifically that they shall work seven hours, from 9 in the morning until 4 in the afternoon, and makes no allowance whatever for a midday meal. Secretaries Root and Moody have not yet, however, abolished the lunch hour.

If the law were to be interpreted literally, then every Saturday throughout the year would be a half holiday in the District of Columbia, since the statute reads that Saturday shall be held as a half holiday for banking and all other purposes.

"Babbism" in the Capital.

New York and Chicago have wearied of the flowing robes of the Hindu fakir, priest, scientist, or whatever it may be, so he has come to swirl his flowing robes through the drawing rooms of the capital. Mrs. Albert Clifford Barney, a leader of society, and an artist of some fame, has become a "Babbist." Everybody else will shortly hasten to become a "Babbist." There is a fierce man with frightful yellow dewpenos who gladdens the eyes of the piquant any news venders and creates a commotion whenever he stirs abroad. Mrs. Barney has built a new "studio" house, and she will doubtless hold séances in her drawing room. In the meantime the Barneys are also diverging into socialism. Mrs. Barney invited the artisans who had been employed on her new home to a reception, a kind of housewarming. Her younger daughter assisted her. This phase of "Babbism," the entertainment of the great unwashed, does not appeal to any but the advanced of the cult.

The Barney "studio" home is worthy of a description, for it is something unique. The most interesting apartment, however, is the suite arranged for Miss Alice Barney. The bedroom is entirely black, even to the carpet, which was specially woven for the apartment. The silken spread for the couch and the draperies on the mantle. A dash of pale yellow near the ceiling affords the one touch of color, and this is covered with cabalistic signs of the "Babbist" faith. The bed furnishings are all of black silk, with religious texts woven into the border. The adjoining sitting room is decorated with the same sombreness, and the embellishments are entirely devoted to esoteric subjects. A splendid place in which to go melancholy mad.

Now Comes the Zebrule.

Exit Missouri mule! A Scotch scientist has discovered the zebrule. The British army and the United States department of agriculture are interested. Professor J. C. Ewart, of the University of Edinburgh has crossed the horse and the zebra, and the result is an animal that can withstand the deadly sting of the African tsetse fly, a creature of greater endurance than even the Missouri mule, while lacking many of his enviable traits of character. The mules which Great Britain bought in such quantities from the breeders of Missouri, Kentucky, and Tennessee during the Boer war, died in hundreds from the bite of the tsetse, which, however, will hardly affect the offspring of the zebra. The day of the Missouri mule is done if the little zebrule can be raised as profitably in those states where the farmer's "haw-haw" has been golden music.

Examines Waste Baskets.

There are two women in the treasury department who bear the distinguished titles Official Examiner of the Waste Baskets. They go through the contents of every waste basket in the department from that of Secretary Shaw down. In the big, dirty greyish building where Uncle Sam stores his self, careless scraps of money in its tangible metal of paper form comes from one association with vast sums. A messenger, carrying a bundle of drafts, notes, or checks from one division to another may drop a bit of paper, which will be blown hither and thither until finally drops into a trash receptacle. So it happens that the official examiners of the waste baskets dig up from the great heaps of trash which accumulate each day, all sorts of valuable papers. Not long ago a $10,000 United States bond was rescued.

The Work of the Irrigation Experts

THE 17th of June is marked with red letters on the calendar of American patriotism as Bunker Hill day. The same day also witnessed, last year, President Roosevelt's approval of the national irrigation act, and the enthusiastic friends of the irrigation policy take considerable satisfaction in the fact that both events may be celebrated on the same day and are inclined to claim that future generations will find almost as much glory and pride in the statesmanlike deed of 1902 as they will in the military deed of 1775.

The stubborn and unequal contest at Bunker Hill was one of the things which gave us a country to work for, and the long-sought victory of national irrigation was certainly one of the most important steps in that country's development.

The irrigation law imposes a heavy responsibility upon the secretary of the interior. That already busy official is charged with the work of selecting the projects to be undertaken, fixing the size of homesteads which may be taken up on the public lands to be reclaimed and making rules and regulations for the use and distribution of the water supply. The task is an arduous and, in some cases, a delicate one, since there are often conflicting interests that must be reconciled.

Furthermore, it is obvious that with a limited amount of money at his command the secretary can not build works everywhere at once. Western communities are proverbially enthusiastic over their own local advantages. The people of each valley are prone to believe that theirs is a little the best valley in all the west and that they enjoy the glorious privilege of living on the "best soil that ever lay outdoors."

Hence, they are bound to be disappointed when the interior department makes its necessary, but always difficult, choice between the claims of rival localities. It is a case where "many are called, but few are chosen." And so it must be unless the nation shall some day decide to enter upon the work on a much greater scale.

Secretary Hitchcock committed the details of the new policy to the geological survey, which has long been dealing with hydrographic problems in the west and whose founder, the late Major John Wesley Powell, was the first scientific man to comprehend the economic value of the arid region.

The director of the survey organized a new branch to take charge of the irrigation work, naming it the "United States reclamation service." Frederick H. Newell, who has been in charge of water investigations in the survey, was made chief of the new service. He has been trained for a dozen years for just such an opportunity as has now come to him, and the friends of irrigation are profoundly pleased with the choice.

Mr. Newell was confronted with the task of organizing and setting in motion a very large undertaking. Its contemplated expenditure will run into tens of millions. And the number of people whose weal or woe will ultimately depend upon the wisdom and honesty of the administration of this work will be equal to the total population of many an American state and many a European nation. In other words, it is a big thing, requiring the services of big men.

Mr. Newell had the advantage of wide familiarity with the conditions of the arid region to begin with. He was thus able to direct the preliminary investigations with little loss of time or money. To this end, he brought together large numbers of bright young men from various parts of the country and set them at work measuring streams, surveying reservoirs and canal sites and estimating the cost and efficiency of the first proposed works.

These are the dam on the Sweetwater river in Wyoming, the dam at the outlet of Saint Mary lake in Montana and the diversion of its waters to the Milk river, the construction of the Gunnison river tunnel for the irrigation of Uncompahgre valley in southwestern Colorado, the construction of a chain of reservoirs on the boundary of California and Nevada, for the reclamation of land in the latter state, and the building of the great Tonto reservoir on the Salt river of Arizona.

It is estimated that these five projects will cost about seven million dollars and reclaim upwards of six hundred thousand acres of land. That is to say, it will probably cost about $11 an acre to make this land fit for the highest cultivation. The money is not permanently invested by the government. It is to be returned by settlers in 10 equal payments over a period of 10 years. There is no interest charge. The government collects its interest in the form of social and economic gains which quickly materialize into taxable values for the benefit of the county, state and nation.

The new policy is yet very young. But marvelous progress has been made during its first year. The work has gone on rather silently without any flourish of trumpets. And yet nothing more momentous has been undertaken by this government in the way of internal improvement.

The nation set its hand to a task which has now grown entirely beyond the reach of private effort, if it ever were adapted to that method of development. It has undertaken to assert man's control over the forces of nature in a vast region where organized effort must pave the way before the individual may prosper, or even get a foothold.

There is but one thing that stands in the way of this creation of countless small homes out of arid waste, one thing which the nation must yet do before it can make the future secure for itself and for its multitudinous homeseekers. It must repeal certain features of its present land laws, under which the public domain is being speculated in and fraudulently absorbed into large private holdings. It must take heed of the president's injunction in his last message to congress regarding the spoliation of the public lands in the west and readjust its laws so that the government land shall be reserved against the time that they may be needed by home-makers.

William E. Smythe.

Written in the Irish Language.

Mr. George Moore, whose "The Untilled Field"—a series of powerful sketches of Irish life—has just been issued, had that book originally published in the Irish language, and then wrote it in English. Mr. Moore's enthusiasm for Ireland has gone through the various stages, and though "The Untilled Field" does not reflect much optimism so far as the future of Ireland is concerned, it is none the less inspired by an intense interest in the little island.

When Commodore Thompkins Sailed Solo

"I want to sit here by the side of the sailing master," said Mrs. Thompkins decidedly, with careful emphasis on the words "sailing master."

"There isn't going to be any sailing master on this ship," said Mr. Thompkins decidedly, "except me. I want you to understand that I own this boat, and that I'm the captain and the crew and the whole blamed works."

"But you can't sail a ship," said Mrs. Thompkins, nervously.

"Mrs. Thompkins," said her liege, "what do you think this is, the Great Eastern or the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse?"

"Why, I thought it was a yacht—the Grampus."

"Yes, madam; the yacht Grampus, 26 feet over all, and so nicely arranged that a child could handle it. I will take you on a little cruise and show you that when it comes to being a horny-handed son of the sea I am one of the best there is."

"But you have never been out in a sailboat but once," objected Mrs. Thompkins, "and that was up in a little lake at the summer resort, where you could have waded back to shore if the boat did tip over."

"Madam," said Mr. Thompkins grandly, "the theory of the action of air in motion upon sails happens to be the same whether the lake is one mile or 100 miles across. They have the same brand of air here on Lake Michigan that they have at the summer resort, and the sails on the Grampus are made of much the same material as those on the little craft on which I received my education as a sailor."

"But, but," said Mrs. Thompkins.

"Sit down, my dear; we're off. And now see for yourself how much we need a sailing master when Thompkins, Able Seaman, is aboard."

Mr. Thompkins signaled the man on the dock, who shoved the boat off. The light wind caught the sails, and the Grampus glided majestically away out into the lake. Mr. Thompkins stood proudly at the helm, his eyes fixed steadily aloft on the sails.

"Well, how about it; am I a sailor or not?" demanded Mr. Thompkins.

"Isn't it a little early yet to give an opinion?" said Mrs. Thompkins. "You haven't done any sailing at all yet that I can see. The boatman pushed us off and the wind caught the sails, and, of course, we are moving. You aren't doing anything but just standing there with your hand on that stick."

"Of course," said Mr. Thompkins, "of course, that's all I'm doing. Just standing here with my hand on a stick. I'm not sailing the boat at all. What do you want me to do, fold my arms and march up and down like Nelson at Trafalgar, or throw myself in the rigging like Farragut at New Orleans?"

"No-o, I don't mean that," said Mrs. Thompkins. "But I mean—"

"Want me to lay aloft and furl the main to 'sky to' 'sels,' or keel haul the jib boom, or do some other Cyrus Townsend Brady stunt?" went on Mr. Thompkins.

"No," meekly rejoined Mrs. Thompkins. "Only it's all my enough going out with the breeze, but it's another thing when you commence to tack and to run against the breeze. Coming about is what—"

"Mrs. Thompkins," said her liege, "do not continue to reveal your ignorance. I know all about ships from the keel to the main royal yards."

"I didn't know there were any main royal yards on a 26-foot yacht."

"There's not. Who said there was? I was merely using a figurative expression. The point is that I know all about ships, cat boats, catamarans, bum boats, junks, Ironclads, first-class cruisers, yachts, schooners and every other form of thing that rides on the waves ever constructed since time began."

"We're getting pretty far out," ventured Mrs. Thompkins. "Don't you think we had better come about?"

"Come about what?" demanded Mr. Thompkins.

"Don't you know what that means?" asked Mrs. Thompkins, with pale face and wide eyes. "Heavens, we'll go over sure."

"Of course I know what that means," Mr. Thompkins hastened to explain. "I didn't suppose you did, though. Of course I am going to come about. Did you think I was going to Mackinack or to Europe? No, I'm not. I'm going to turn around now."

Mr. Thompkins remembering that you must push the tiller the opposite way to which you wish to go, jammed it hard towards the side of the boat away from the city. Immediately the sails began a tumultuous flapping and the yacht careened over until the water was pouring in over the port quarter in a stream.

"Stand by, you men; man the rigging, luff the pawls, jibber the boom," bellowed Mr. Thompkins. "Stand by to repel boarders! Boys, ahoy, lively lads."

Mrs. Thompkins made a jump for the tiller, and, grabbing it out of her liege's hands, shoved it well over to starboard and the yacht slowly righted.

"Grab that bucket, Mr. Thompkins," said Mrs. Thompkins, "and bale the water out of the cockpit. Lively, now."

Mr. Thompkins meekly obeyed.

"Now," shouted Mrs. Thompkins, "ready about! Look out for the boom! Duck!"

Mr. Thompkins was in the act of making a dive for a line in order to do something nautical and save his fast-fading reputation when the boom struck him and swept him overboard. Mrs. Thompkins immediately threw him a life preserver and shouted to him to hold on until she could bring the boat about and pick him up.

"Help!" bellowed Mr. Thompkins from the water. "Help, murder, police, help; I'm sinking; help!"

Mrs. Thompkins darted a glance at him and saw that he had a death grip on the life buoy and was in no immediate danger of sinking, and then she leisurely maneuvered the boat until she brought it around close up to Thompkins.

"Now," said Mrs. Thompkins, "before I pick you up, are you a sailor or not?"

"No!" shouted Mr. Thompkins, bobbing up and down on the waves. "Help, my love, help!"

"And you don't know a belaying pin from the cabin stove, do you?"

"No, no! Help, my darling, help, or I sink beneath the cruel waves!"

"And you'll listen to me next time, won't you?"

"Yes, yes," moaned Thompkins.

Mrs. Thompkins uncoiled a line and threw the end to her liege. He clinched it tightly and she pulled him aboard. He dropped down in the companionway and never opened his mouth until Mrs. Thompkins, with a fine flourish, shot the Grampus up close to the pier and threw a line to the boatman who was waiting for their return.—Chicago Tribune.
